STOCKS SHOW SUBSTANTIAL DECLINES IN SLOW MARKET

SALES LITTLE OVER 2,000,000 SHARES

Important Shares All Down Mostly 1 to 3 Points With Some of the Wider Movers Off 5 and More —Southern Railway Off.

By the Associated Press.

NEW YORK, June 27.—The effort of closing higher two days in succession proved to have been too much for the none too sturdy stock market of these days, and renewed bear pressure sent prices substantially lower today. Short covering caused moderate rallies in the last hour, and closing quotations were somewhat above the day's lowest. Important stocks, however, were mostly off 1 to 3 points, with some of the wider movers down 5 and more.

The market's most conspicuous characteristic was extreme dullness. Prices sagged rather rapidly at times under light offerings. Total sales were but little over 2,000,000 shares, the smallest since early in the month. Many Wall street interests would be content to see the market remain dull until better business news comes to its support.

The huge decrease of $371,000,000 in brokers' loans failed to stimulate any considerable short covering. With brokerage loans at their present low levels, Wall street has been more interested in bank loans on securities and these loans have tended to increase. Security loans of New York member banks showed a decrease of about $30,000,000, while their loans to brokers were cut $96,000,000, possibly indicating further shift of loans from brokerage accounts directly to the banks.

Rail Reports as Influence.

Since the American Tobacco extra and split-up announcement, stimulating business news has been scarce. Further railway net operating income reports for May were about the only items of interest to stock market circles, and reports by such roads as New York Central and Southern Pacific showing declines of about 40 per cent from the like period of last year were not encouraging. The Department of Commerce's May statistics for wool consumption showed only about 28,000,000 pounds used, against 32,000,000 in April and 42,000,000 in May, 1929.

The weekly mercantile reviews were as coolrless as they have been for several weeks. Bradstreets, which has charactrized conditions as "fair to quiet" for months, finally gave up the "fair" using just "quiet." Dun's said, "experienced observers do not look for changes of deep significance at this season, and explained that there had been none."

Such shares as U. S. Steel, American Can, General Electric, American Telephone, Anaconda, General Motors, du Pont, American Water Works, and Byers, after selling off about 2 to 3 points, closed down only 1 to 1½.

Southern Railway was a bear favorite, declining more than 7 points, then rallying about 2. North American was under heavy pressure for a time, selling off nearly 7 points to a new low under 90 then regaining half its loss.

Upturn Credited to Shorts.

The late upturn appeared to be due almost entirely to short covering. Bears had managed to send prices substantially lower, but saw their profits curtailed as they sought to cover. Bears appeared to have been pinched in Allied Chemical, which sold off about 7 points, then shot up to close nearly 8 higher.

Commodities fluctuated uncertainly. Wheat sold off a little, then rallied to close steady, ⅛ to ⅝ of a cent higher. Corn also closed up slightly. Cotton sold off about 75 cents to $1.25 a bale, then rallied.

Stock prices, with other tables and market news, will be found on pages 17C, 18C and 19C.

NEW EVIDENCE STRENGTHENS 'FIXER' THEORY IN MURDER OF REPORTER 'JAKE' LINGLE

Chicago Newspaper Man Said to Have Demanded $15,000 of Gambling House—No Record of Income Tax Return by Him.

By CURTIS A. BETTS,
A Staff Corespondent of the Post-Dispatch.

CHICAGO, June 27.—Evidence being produced in the slow process of an official investigation has upset the conclusion jumped to by the Chicago newspapers that the murder of Alfred J. Lingle, Chicago Tribune reporter familiarly known as Jake, was a gangland challenge to the press of Chicago.

Instead, step by step, the investigators are unfolding a story which leads conclusively to the explanation that Lingle was killed in reprisal for his failure to deliver for adherents of the George (Bugs) Moran gang the protection which went, supposedly through Lingle's influence, to followers of "Scarface Al" Capone.

Story of Demand for $15,000.

Particular attention is being given to an investigation of a report that Lingle demanded $15,000 for the protection of the Sheridan Club, a notorious resort which had been closed since the wholesale killing of seven of the Moran gang and which was scheduled to reopen June 9, the evening of the day Lingle was murdered.

Members of the investigating staff have learned that Joey Josephs and Julian (Potatoes) Kaufman had announced the reopening which was given publicity in a New York sports paper as follows: "Joey Josephs is set to go in Chicago beginning the night of June 9."

According to reports, Lingle demanded $15,000 and when it was refused he is alleged to have threatened, "Well, if you open, you'll see more police squad cars than you ever saw before."

This incident gives strong substantiation to the theory that Lingle's murder resulted from the gang war between Capone, with whom Lingle has been shown to have been closely associated, and Moran.

The Sheridan Club was really under control of Moran and was one of his chief sources of income during the nine months it was operated.

A raid on the Biltmore Club three days before Lingle was murdered also has come in for investigation. After this raid, an official of the State's Attorney's office has disclosed, Lingle sought to get this official on the telephone. He failed, but saw the official the next day and complained of the raid saying that he (Lingle) "had told those fellows to go ahead and run."

Amazing Tale of Intrigue.

An amazing story of intrigue with Lingle as the central figure is coming out, and day by day the evidence is growing of the incredible influence the $65-a-week reporter had in police affairs in Chicago, and even in other municipal activities, which long have been known to have been honeycombed with graft.

Following close on the revelations that former Police Commissioner (now Captain) William F. Russell had participated with him in a $100,000 stock market pool last fall, came the information yesterday that a police captain had received $500 from Lingle, and that Lingle had received amounts running into the thousands of dollars from several officials.

The names of corporation counsel, Samuel A. Ettelson, known as the "active Mayor" of Chicago, his nephew, Alderman Bert Cronson, and Maj. Carlos Ames, president of the City Civil Service Commission, were brought into the case today by the investigators.

Inquiry also was under way into the reported transfer to Lingle of $15,000, by high official of the Sanitary District, and into information that Sam Hare, a summer roadhouse operator, and a winter Chicago gambling house operator, turned over $20,000 to Lingle several months ago.

The investigators asserted that Ettelson had given Lingle $5000, but this was denied by Ettelson. However, they said Cronson had admitted making a loan to the reporter, and Ames made a similar admission. Though he said the amount was $2500, and not $5000, which was the figure the investigators had.

The semi-official report of Ames' interview with Pat Roche, who has charge of the inquiry, was that Ames said that after the stock market crash last fall, he lent Lingle $2500 and that Lingle had repaid $1000 of the amount before his death.

Cronson Admits Loans.

Alderman Cronson admitted to reporters that he had made several loans to Lingle, saying the total would not exceed $5000 and that some of it had been repaid. "We were friends and I loaned him money at times when he needed it," Cronson was quoted as saying. "I had known him a good many years, and we used to go to the

SENATE LIMITS WICKERSHAM GROUP TO DRY LAW STUDY

Previously It Votes $250,000 for Commission's General Inquiry Into Enforcement.

By the Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, June 27.—The Senate voted today to restrict the scope of the Wickersham Law Enforcement Commission's future studies to the dry laws, and to provide only $50,000 for the work, after voting a few minutes before to give the commission $250,000 for study of general law enforcement.

Six Senators who did not vote on the first roll call added themselves to 29 against the $250,000 on the second vote on that item, as follows: Democrats—Harrison, Overman, Steck and Tydings. Republicans—Phipps and Moses.

President Hoover said later that if Congress should limit the scope of the Law Enforcement Commission's investigation to prohibition alone as provided today by the Senate, the largest sphere of investigative work would be carried on by private subscription.

The President said that 70 per cent of the persons in prison were there for violating laws other than prohibition and that 70 per cent of the law enforcement problem, therefore, was not attributable to prohibition.

He said the causes and remedy for this greater proportion of law violations are of some importance and added that efforts of the Law Enforcement Commission to determine these causes would go forward.

"The money will be forthcoming," the President said. Just prior to the President's announcement, he had conferred with Chairman Wickersham and four other members of the commission.

JUDGE CUTS OFF THE DETAILS OF KERENS' ARREST

Question, Faris Says, Is Whether False Affidavits Were Reaffirmed Within 5-Year Period.

ATTORNEYS "PUT CARDS ON TABLE"

Admit Los Angeles Affair With Woman and Argue Deviation From Truth Was to Protect Wife.

Federal Judge Faris, who is hearing the claim of Vincent Kerens to a $1,900,000 shares in the estate of his father, Richard C. Kerens, refused today to listen to detailed reports about the arrest of Kerens and a woman in a Los Angeles hotel in 1920.

The Los Angeles incident, and affidavits made about it by Kerens and others, are being urged by Kerens' two sisters as proof that Kerens did not fulfil the requirement of his father's will for "five consecutive years of sobriety and good behavior" before receiving his share.

The sisters, Mrs. Gladys Colket of Philadelphia and Mrs. Madeline Kenna of New York and London, are opposing the payment to Vincent Kerens of his share, equivalent to the ont-third shares each of the sisters received after the death, in 1916, of their father, former Ambassador to Austria-Hungary.

"Cards Smack on the Table."

The St. Louis Union Trust Co., which is seeking the court's permission to end the trust fund for Vincent Kerens, and give Kerens his full share, has "laid its cards smack on the table," as Judge Faris commented, by statements of its officers that Kerens and a woman were arrested, in separate rooms at the Woodward Hotel in Los Angeles, but were not prosecuted; and that affidavits were later filed by Kerens and a Los Angeles woman, which were found on investigation to be false, in that the woman was not in fact the one who had been arrested.

The trust company holds that the Los Angeles incident, having occurred in 1920, does not come within the 5-year period now under inquiry, from 1923 to 1928, in which period it holds that Kerens led a life of sobriety and good behavior. It also takes the view that, in making and procuring false affidavits about the incident, Kerens was seeking to protect another woman, who is now his wife.

The sisters' counsel argued today that the false affidavits, made in 1920, were repeated in a sworn statement of Kerens, made to the trust company in July, 1923, and that therefore the matter does come within the 5-year period. When the sisters' counsel today offered a statement of a private detective, as to his investigation into the Los Angeles incident, Judge Faris sustained an objection.

"Plain as a Pikestaff."

"This question," the Judge declared, "is plain as a pikestaff. It is not whether Kerens is guilty or not guilty in the so-called Los Angeles incident. The question is whether or not the affidavits that have been filed in this case are within the five-year period, and whether they constitute bad behavior.

"I don't care about this incident, and I am not going to have this skeleton dragged out of the closet and rattled around ad libitum, ad infinitum and ad nauseam."

In an earlier comment on the case, Judge Faris expressed doubt whether the 1920 incident in Los Angeles was pertinent to the present case, and quoted lines of an old hymn, "While the lamp holds out to burn, the vilest sinner may return."

Cross-questioning of Isaac H. Orr, president of the trust company, ended with today's luncheon adjournment. Orr was the only witness up to that time in the hearing, now in its third day.

A letter from Jesse A. McDonald, Kerens' attorney, to the trust company, which was filed yesterday, told how McDonald had discovered the falsity of the affidavits offered by Kerens in the Los Angeles incident. McDonald, for that reason, withdrew in 1922 an application which he had made to have the trust fund dissolved, and Kerens' share of the estate paid to him However, he expressed the view that Kerens' action should be condoned. as being dictated by a chivalrous impulse.

Waited Five Years More.

"Nothing was thereafter done to request termination of the trust," Attorney McDonald wrote, "until another five years had elapsed, during which latter period Mr.

LAWYER IN TRIAL OF STEEL MERGER SUIT KILLS SELF

L. A. Manchester, Chief Counsel for Youngstown Sheet & Tube Co., Ends Life in His Office.

By the Associated Press.

YOUNGSTOWN, O., June 27.—Trial of the suit for injunction to prevent merger of the Youngstown Sheet & Tube Co. with the Bethlehem Steel Corporation came to an abrupt halt today when L. A. Manchester, chief counsel for the Youngstown company, shot and killed himself.

The dramatic interlude in the trial followed two days of opening statements and introduction of voluminous corespondence files as evidence. The taking of testimony was to start today with J. A. Campbell, veteran chairman of the board for the Youngstown company, on the stand.

Manchester had been associated with Campbell and the Sheet & Tube Co. since organization of the firm. Until 1917 he handled legal matters for the company while a member of the firm of Hine, Kennedy, Manchester & Ford. In 1917 he left the law firm to become general counsel of the Youngstown company. He was married and had one daughter.

Nervous Breakdown.

J. C. Argetsinger, associate general counsel of the Youngstown company, heard the shot with which Manchester killed himself. He rushed into his office, in a building on the public square, and found the body slumped in a chair at a desk. Manchester had shot himself in the right temple.

Argetsinger declared the suicide was caused by a nervous breakdown due to overwork.

Manchester was reported to have been in a melancholy mood for the past two months and associates said he was particularly depressed last night. His death occurred at 8:55 a. m., just five minutes before court opened.

Manchester was born May 6, 1883, at Canfield, O., until he was 18 years old he remained on the family farm and attended the public schools. Later he was a student at the Northeastern Ohio Normal College, where he was graduated in 1902. He studied law at the University of Michigan, being graduated in 1905. His first year of practice was in partnership with his brother.

Headed Community Fund.

Yesterday Manchester received the last of the many honors that have come to him during his years in Youngstown. He was elected president of the Community Corporation, which finances 30 Youngstown charities.

In the steel merger trial Manchester was associated with former Secretary of War Newton D. Baker of Cleveland, who is acting as chief counsel for the various defendants in the suit.

The suit was brought by Myron C. Wick Jr., Cleveland, and the International Share Corporation as stockholders against the Bethlehem Steel Corporation, and the Youngstown Sheet and Tube Co. and directors. Cyrus S. Eaton, Cleveland millionaire, is reputed backer of the antimerger groups.

ANTI-TRUST WRIT ISSUED AGAINST WOOL INSTITUTE

Decree Against Continuance of Alleged Monopoly Issued in Federal Court in New York by Alabama Judge.

By the Associated Press.

NEW YORK, June 27.—Federal Judge Grubb of Alabama, sitting in the New York jurisdiction today, enjoined the Wool Institute and its 138 members from continuing violations of the Sherman antitrust law, on complaint of Government counsel that participants in the Wool Institute reported to it before every sales season on the subject of prices and "agreed to maintain schedules without deviation, thus eliminating all price competition."

Members of the Wool Institute control most of the nation's supply of woolen yarns and cloths, according to the complaint filed by the Government.

Institute Consents.

The Institute consented to the decree, presented to the court by James Lawrence Fly, special assistant to the Attorney-General, and John Lord O'Brien, head of antitrust enforcement.

The complaint averred that the Institute is a trade association with 138 member concerns or corporations, or whom 35 are spinners. On Jan. 25, 1928, and since that date, it was charged, the Institute and its members "have engaged in a conspiracy to restrain and have restrained Interstate Commerce in woolen goods and yarns."

The Government also alleges that the Wool Institute published "schedules to be maintained by its members," and that on Dec. 11, 1929, agents of 84 weavers of men's wear, met and established prices for the spring of 1930.

Advertised Fixed Prices.

On Dec. 12, 1929, the complaint sets forth, there was published an advertisement that "the Wool Institute is authorized to announce that the following member mills will definitely maintain their established spring prices on all duplicate of new business for spring, 1930."

Then followed a list of 105 men's wear milling concerns. A day later another advertisement listed 70 additional names and still later in various trade papers listed 182 mills. The name of A. D. Whiteside, president of the Wool Institute, is signed to some of the advertisements.

9 KILLED IN THUNDERSTORM AT HARBOR GRACE, N. F.

30 Fishing Boats Lost and Thousands of Dollars of Property Damaged.

By the Associated Press.

HARBOR GRACE, N. F., June 27.—At least nine persons were killed, 30 fishing vessels were lost and thousands of dollars damage was caused by a thunder storm in this vicinity last night.

All communications in this vicinity were disrupted and it was not until today that the outside world could be told of the disaster.

Hall stones weighing one pound fell from the sky and did heavy damage to buildings.

In this place alone five persons were struck and killed by lightning as they either dashed for cover or sat within their homes. One man was killed while he was telephoning and three fishermen lost their lives when the boat was struck.

HOUSE PASSES BILL TO PAY NARCOTIC LAW INFORMERS

Those in Foreign Countries to Be Compensated Also, Amendment Provides.

By the Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, June 27.—Payment for information concerning narcotic law violations was authorized in a bill passed today by the House and sent to the Senate.

An amendment inserted would strike against the drug traffic at its source by authorizing payments to informers in foreign countries through American Consuls or Vice Consuls.

Lottery for French Budget.

By the Associated Press.

PARIS, June 27.—Persistent talk in parliamentary circles for the last few weeks, favoring a national lottery for the payment of national defense funds, came to a climax today with the introduction of a bill authorizing the lottery. The measure, put up by Deputy Henri Labroue, would organize a national lottery to produce 30,000,000,000 francs ($1,200,000,000).

FORMER TELLER OF VANDERVOORT'S BANK IS INDICTED

Russel Biederman Said to Admit Embezzling $4478 and Losing It Gambling.

The final report of the Federal grand jury made to Judge Faris yesterday disclosed another embezzlement of funds by an employe of Scruggs, Vandervoort & Barney Bank. Russell Biederman, 23-year-old former teller, was indicted on a charge of embezzling $4478.

Assistant District Attorney Williams said Biederman, who lives at 6113 Charlotte avenue, Pine Lawn, had admitted taking the money and said he lost it gambling on the East Side. The shortage was discovered last Feb. 3, but Biederman was not arrested.

Biedermann refused today either to deny or confirm his admission that he had taken the money.

"When this thing first came up several months ago, I was advised by the officers of the bank to keep my mouth shut and say nothing about it," he said. He said that he had not worked for several months at the bank, and that he was not informed of proceedings against him until the indictment was brought yesterday.

Marvin E. Phillips, former assistant cashier of the bank, who was one of its officers who discovered this shortage, was himself indicted for embezzling $26,000. Phillips, arrested last April 9, admitted juggling accounts to obtain money which he lost on East Side gaming tables. His total shortage was $31,600. The bank was protected against loss in both cases by fidelity bonds.

NEW YORK WELCOMES SOUTHERN CROSS MEN

GUESTS OF HONOR AT AD CLUB LUNCHEON

Ceremonies Simple at Their Request — Aviators to Call on Hoover Monday Before Flying to California.

By the Associated Press.

NEW YORK, June 27.—Squadron Leader Kingsford-Smith and the crew of the Southern Cross, which flew from Ireland to America, today were hailed by New York City and by Mayor Walker as the bravest of the brave.

"Because the Atlantic had been spanned before," Mayor Walker said in presenting them with a scroll of honor at City Hall, "it took no less courage on your part to attempt the flight."

A crowd which filled the City Hall plaza cheered the Mayor's praise of the Australian flyer and his three aids on the flight from Ireland to Newfoundland.

"Most people believe," Kingsford-Smith said in reply, "that men who fly the oceans do so merely to get a ride up Broadway. That is not so. The men who do that kind of work are pioneering aviation and aiding scientific knowledge."

Cameramen's Bench Breaks.

Just as the Mayor finished his address and presented the scroll, a bench, on which 20 cameramen were standing in front of the speakers' stand, collapsed, throwing them and their cameras in a squirming mass on the ground.

Kingford-Smith made allusion to the mishap in his talk. "I am glad that what happened here today did not occur to us while we were over the ocean," he said. "It was the most perfect example of a tail spin I have ever seen."

The crowd, which had derived much enjoyment from the discomfiture of the photographers, shouted again at the flyer's remark.

Sharing the plaudits of the crowd with the Southern Cross flyers was Col. James Fitzmaurice, co-pilot of the German airplane Bremen, first to fly from Europe to America.

Fitzmaurice, now a resident of New York City, called at the hotel this morning to pay his respects and was asked to accompany the "Southern Cross bunch" as Kingsford-Smith refers to himself and his crew, to the City Hall.

From the City Hall the flyers were taken to the Advertising Club rooms on Park avenue for luncheon. No other civic ceremonies were planned beyond that, the flyers insisting that the celebration be held to a minimum. Monday they will be received by President Hoover in Washington.

After five hours' sleep, Kingsford-Smith rose early today and prepared for the official reception.

Evert Van Dyke, co-pilot; Capt. J. Patrick Saul, navigator, and John W. Stannage, wireless operator, slept later, and then set out for new clothes to wear to the Mayor's greeting at the City Hall.

The flyers were besieged today by autograph hunters and the merely curious. One old man who said he had sailed around the world twice made several attempts to reach Kingsford-Smith. He wanted to present him with a loaf of bread he had won on some kind of a bet. Finally he sent it in by a messenger, with a note asking the flyers to take it along and eat it in Oakland, Cal., ultimate goal of the Southern Cross.

Just a Job of Work.

Kingsford-Smith said late today, referring to medals given to him and his men at a luncheon: "It's awfully nice to get these medals, but I don't know why they should be called medals of valor. There wasn't any valor about what we did. It was just a job of work we had set ourselves and we did it."

Late tonight Kingsford-Smith will leave by train for Schenectady, where he will talk to his parents and fiancee in Australia at 6 o'clock tomorrow morning over short wave radio station W2XAF. The conversation will be broadcast over the National

TWO EX-OFFICERS HELD IN CRASH OF RAIL CLERKS' BANK

COLLAPSE LAID TO HUGE CHECK KITING

U. S. Prosecutor Asserts Former Doherty Co. Manager in Cincinnati Forged Signatures.

By the Associated Press.

CINCINNATI, O., June 27.—Two former officers of the Brotherhood of Railway Clerks' National Bank, which failed to open its doors yesterday, are under arrest today as the result of the alleged $1,000,000 check-kiting operations of A. W. Shafer, discharged district manager of the Henry L. Doherty Co.

Lyman E. Norris, former vice president, and Harry Rosenblum, former assistant cashier, are held in default of $25,000 bond each, set after they entered pleas of not guilty to charges of conspiracy to violate the national banking act.

Norris, Rosenblum and Joseph J. Castellini, president, were removed by the directors Monday.

United States District Attorney Haveth E. Mau said Shafer's alleged manipulations were the direct cause of the bank's closing. Shafer, Mau said, had deposited Cities Service collateral bearing forged indorsements. It was this stock, reported to amount to between $225,000 and $375,000, that involved Norris and Rosenblum.

The Brotherhood Bank came under the scrutiny of Federal investigators June 10, when it was learned the bank carried an account for Shafer. On that day the Cosmopolitan Bank & Trust Co. closed because of an alleged shortage of $623,000 in Shafer's account and Shafer was arrested on a charge of embezzling more than $210,000 from the Doherty Co., his former employers.

The removal of the three officers of the bank also resulted in withdrawal of $1,000,000 by depositors, although a statement was issued saying the depository was in good condition. Directors said closing of the bank was the best way to protect depositors.

The Provident Savings Bank & Trust Co. also experienced a heavy run yesterday, but kept open overtime to satisfy depositors. State Director of Commerce Edward D. Schorr announced no other banks were involved by Shafer and the Cincinnati Clearing House Association promised support of all the rest of the county's banks.

M. J. Fleming, deputy governor of the Federal Reserve Bank, Cleveland, said $5,000,000 in currency had been brought here today by airplane from Cleveland and placed in the Federal Reserve branch to add assurance to the banking situation in this city. Six armed guards accompanied the money in the plane.

The Brotherhood Bank was established in 1923 by the Brotherhood of Railway and Steamship Clerks and 51 per cent of the stock was owned by members of the union. It was capitalized at $400,000, and had deposits of $3,800,000 and total resources of $5,659,363.

BYRD RECEPTION AT BOSTON

Thousands Pack Downtown Area to Welcome Explorer.

By the Associated Press.

BOSTON, June 27.—Rear Admiral Richard E. Byrd came back to his home city of Boston today after 18 months spent in the Antarctic ice fields. He returned to receive the honors of the State and city and to be accorded a reception from the thousands who packed the downtown area.

DIES FROM INJURIES IN FALL

Louis Bauer, 53, Suffered Fractured Skull at Abandoned Wine Cellar.

Louis Bauer, 53 years old, 2853 Wisconsin avenue, died at City Hospital at 2:15 p. m. today from a skull fracture suffered when he fell Sunday morning down the elevator shaft of an abandoned wine cellar in the rear of 1965 Wyoming street.

Bauer and Arnold Andre, 2001 Pestalozzi street, set out to explore the cellar, a natural cavern 80 feet below street level, and formerly known as English's Wine Cave, with flashlights. They had entered a shaft leading to the cellar proper when Bauer tumbled from it into the elevator shaft.

W. D. COLES REAPPOINTED

The reappointment of Walter D. Coles for a two-year term as referee in bankruptcy was announced today by Federal Judge Faris.

Coles is the only man ever to have been referee in bankruptcy in the eastern district of Missouri. He was appointed 32 years ago when the office was established.

ATLANTIC FLYERS HAILED AT NEW YORK, RECEIVED BY MAYOR

Flyers Complete 3360-Mile Journey From Ireland.

At 6:30 p. m. yesterday, Kingsford-Smith set his big black monoplane down at Roosevelt Field, completing a 3360-mile flight from Port Marnock, Ireland, a journey interrupted by a 20-hour stop for fuel at Harbor Grace, N. F.

As soon as New York gets through entertaining him and his companions they expect to take the Southern Cross on a non-stop flight to Oakland, Cal., completing, for Kingsford-Smith, a flight around the world, started May 21, 1928.

Kingsford-Smith, treated the crowd awaiting to acclaim him to a spectacular exhibition of vertical flying before bringing his ship to a perfect three-point landing.

The first man out of the plane was Van Dyke who comes from the Dutch East Indies. Grimed with dust and streaming with perspiration he virtually fell out into the crowd. Looking around bewildered, he exclaimed "Phoof! this is terrible."

The other three followed and the four men, the second crew ever to make the perilous crossing of the North Atlantic by airplane, were immediately surrounded by camera men, news reel men and representatives of the two country-wide broadcasting systems. Next the crew was taken into the plane for customs and immigration inspection.

Just before they climbed back into the fuselage, however, there was an incident that brought a laugh from the crowd. As soon as the plane had stopped rolling, someone had set a large bowl of flowers on one of the engines. This bowl suddenly upset and the water splashed over the flyers.

As soon as the Government examinations were completed, police cleared a path through the crowds, so that the plane might be hauled into the hangar where it will be kept until it takes off for the West Coast.

At least 10,000 persons waited through the hot afternoon at Roosevelt Field for the arrival of the Southern Cross and when it appeared the crowd threw restraint aside and made a rush for the plane and flyers.

Sir Ronald Lindsay, British Ambassador, who had flown from Washington to greet the flyers; Grover Whalen, head of the City Reception Committee; Herbert Brookes, Commissioner-General for Australia in the United States, and the other dignitaries in the welcoming party were swept aside in the rush.

Finally the 300 policemen made their way to the plane and escorted the flyers to field headquarters where they were photographed by still, motion and sound news men, and interviewed, between bursts of cheering, by the press representatives.

Taken to the City.

An hour after they had landed the party was in open automobiles bound for New York City.

Crowds, attracted by the screaming sirens of the motorcycle escort, lined the streets and cheered as the procession swept past, going 60 miles an hour.

Another enthusiastic crowd waited in the lobby and on the steps of the Hotel Roosevelt, driven inside by a light drizzle which turned into a downpour five minutes after the flyers had arrived.

A parade up the harbor to Pier A and then up Broadway to the city hall had been planned for the flyers today but Kingsford-Smith asked that a less elaborate program be carried out.

Southern Cross Radio Operator's Parents Hear His Radio Talk.

NOTTINGHAM, England, June 27.—There were tears in the eyes of the parents of Radio Operator J. W. Stannage, of the Southern Cross, as they sat in a small room of their Nottingham flat and heard their son thank everybody who had assisted him in the flight to America.

Mr. and Mrs. Stannage heard their son talk from New York to England and Australia over a short wave hook-up.

Hoover to Receive Southern Cross Crew Next Monday.

By the Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, June 27.—Squadron leader, Charles Kingsford-Smith and the crew of the ocean spanning Southern Cross are to be received by President Hoover at the White House Monday at 12:30 o'clock.

Sir Ronald Lindsay, British Ambassador, was notified informally yesterday that the President would be delighted to greet the flyers whenever they came to Washington. The White House was informed today they would arrive at Bolling Field Monday about 11 o'clock.

Australia Asked to Buy Southern Cross as National Memorial.

By the Associated Press.

CANBERRA, Australia, June 27.—The Government today was asked, in the Senate, to purchase the Southern Cross as a national memorial to Australia's flyers and to further perpetuate their memory by naming airports and airdromes after them.

"DON'T BE FOOLISH," SAYS CHINESE BIRD

Ya-koob, However, Uses Fukien Dialect and Joe Lin Can't Get It All.

Ya-koob, the Zoo's garrulous new mynah bird, jumped up and down on his perch in the bird house yesterday, and, eyeing the white-haired visitor who kneeled outside the cage, said "watcha-watcha-ma-kow," or words to that effect.

The visitor, Joe Lin, unofficial "Mayor of Chinatown," and interpreter in Federal Court, appeared puzzled at the bird's syllables. Ya-koob whistled, jumped and repeated the phrase.

"That's Chinese dialect all right," said Lin, "but I can't understand it. It's Fukien dialect and I know only a few words of that. Wait, perhaps he'll say it again. He talks too fast."

Ya-koob obligingly repeated the phrase, and Lin caught and understood the last part of it. "That ma-kow," he said, "as I catch it, means 'Don't be foolish.' The rest of it I can't understand."

Henry Kennon, the zoo's ornithologist, named the bird Ya-koob, because that phrase is the commonest in its vocabulary. However, Lin was of the opinion that Ya-koob either was the name of the bird's Chinese owner in India or of a friend and frequent visitor of the owner, or of a place where the owner lived.

The bird has a vocabulary of about 20 phrases, Kennon told Lin. Ya-koob, however, refused to trot out his words for the interpreter. He did say one more phrase and in that Lin was able to recognize the single word, "eat."

When Lin left, he promised to return to the bird house next week with someone who knows and understands the dialect of the southern province of Fukien.

TANK FALLS THROUGH ROOF

By the Associated Press.

NEW YORK, June 27.—One hundred workers, 20 of them women, escaped injury today when the roof of a 10-story loft building on Duane street in lower Manhattan collapsed, hurtling a 28,000-gallon water tank two floors.

A skeleton crew was at work in the building, most of them on the ninth floor. They heard a rumble and the building began to quiver. Panic stricken, they dashed to the hallways and stairways, and an instant later the tank crashed through the spot where several had been working.

$185,131 SHORTAGE IN GRAIN FIRM

Laid by President to "Unauthorized" Speculations in Futures Market."

By the Associated Press.

CHICAGO, June 27.—A voluntary petition in bankruptcy was filed in United States District Court today on behalf of the Rural Grain Co., which was suspended from the Chicago Board of Trade two weeks ago when discrepancies appeared in the accounts.

A partial audit of the firm's books, made public today, indicated a probable deficit of $185,131.

The auditor's statement said the deficit had "developed principally from speculative losses."

S. J. Cottington, president, and E. V. Maltby, a vice president, were suspended with the company from trading privileges on the Board of Trade. Cottington announced at the time that shortages had appeared in the books and that he had submitted them to an audit.

The Rural Grain Co. at one time was owned by the Farmers' National Grain Corporation, Government sponsored co-operative, in order to give the Farmers' National a seat on the Board of Trade. It later passed from control of the Farmers' National, of which Cottington was the first president.

A statement issued by President Cottington said:

"No one is under suspicion of criminality, but all books are being thoroughly investigated. Following the filing of a petition in bankruptcy this morning, a receiver will be asked tomorrow before Federal Judge Wilkerson.

"Indications are that the deficit was greatly due to unauthorized speculations in grain futures."

WOMAN KILLED IN EXPLOSION OF AUTO; BOMBING INDICATED

Victim the Wife of Amarillo (Tex.) Attorney; Her Son, 14, Is Injured.

By the Associated Press.

AMARILLO, Tex., June 27.—Mrs. A. D. Payne, wife of an Amarillo attorney, was killed and her 14-year-old son seriously injured today when the Payne automobile was destroyed by what police think was a bomb.

The boy was hurled 30 feet into the yard. The chassis of the car was left intact and the gas tank was undamaged.

Bits of wiring and pieces of dry-cell batteries were found by detectives in the wreckage.

Payne was a candidate for District Judge, but recently withdrew. He has participated as an attorney in several murder cases in the Texas Panhandle during the last year.

DUKE OFFERS LARGE PART OF ESTATE IN LIEU OF TAX

By the Associated Press.

LONDON, June 27.—The Duke of Montrose has offered a great part of his estate to the Government, upon his death, in lieu of death duties. The estate is one of the most ancient in Scotland.

Among the Duke's possessions are the islands in Loch Lomond, owned by the family for more than 500 years.

The Duke is 52. Like other large land owners he is facing the problem of disposing of his property at death. The Government, believing there are too many difficulties, professes inability to accept the lands. The farmers who till them are too poor to buy.

The only way out, the Duke has come to believe, is to sell his properties abroad.

Details of Kerens' Arrest Barred

Kerens so conducted himself and so modeled his life to entitle him to have the trust ended.

"Mr. Kerens never admitted the falsity of that proof of identity, but, not to his discredit, he avoided replies to related questions and refrained for years from any reference thereto, other than to say to me on one occasion: 'Nothing in the world will make me say anything to give a sting to the little woman who has been so far the deepest and best influence in my life, since my father's and mother's.'

"The elder Kerens was fully aware of the troubled condition of his son's domestic affairs and sympathized deeply with him. After his death Vincent's home affairs become more unhappy as time passed. It was while he was in that situation that he found an abiding friend, loyal and amiable companionship, and a helpful and encouraging association with the woman whom he induced to become his wife immediately after such a relationship was legally possible.

"Deviation to Protect."

"It requires a man of rare uprightness to adhere to exact truth when his statement must mean the sacrifice of the felicity of a woman in whom he is deeply interested, by public exposure of a situation in which her entire innocence would be no protection against the calumny of gossip and slander.

"While we all admire sensitiveness about the untruth, the best standards will not penalize harmless deviation designed to protect, as here.

"I do not now call your attention to that false identification of the woman to excuse a mistaken act. It was a mistake, but the error was committed when the statement was filed, more than five years ago.

"If it were an error in which gratitude, fidelity and manly conduct would commonly dictate such circumstances, to any man of generally upright principle, it may well be entirely condoned by you or be held as unworthy of serious thought."

Kerens was married to Mrs. Mae Linn in 1925. They now live on a ranch near Dallas, Tex., with two adopted children. His sisters have argued that Kerens' divorce from his first wife, and his subsequent marriage, being in violation of Catholic Church rules, would have been deemed bad behavior by Richard C. Kerens, who was a strict Catholic. Judge Faris has ruled that so long as the will imposes no restrictions of this sort, such a meaning cannot be read into it. It has been shown that the elder Kerens knew of the intended divorce.

Affidavits Are Identified.

At today's session, the affidavits regarding the Los Angeles affair were taken up by counsel for Mrs. Colket, one of the two sisters objecting to the termination of Vincent Kerens' trust fund. Attorney Robert Keefe, cross-examining President Orr of the trust company, had him identify the affidavits as those which Kerens had filed, early in 1922, in support of the request which he then made for termination of the trust.

One of the affidavits, which were duly identified, was that of the Los Angeles woman who said she was the one arrested in the Woodward Hotel, but that no improper conduct had occurred, and that a policeman told her he had made the arrest on an outside "tip." Kerens made a like affidavit, and the proprietor of the hotel also made affidavit to the circumstances.

Objection was made on the score of time, and Judge Faris said the matter seemed to him to be irrelevant, but he permitted Attorney Keefe to proceed, on the lawyer's promise that he would connect the matter with occurences of 1923 and later, to make it relevant.

Keefe asked Orr about Vincent Kerens' habits up to the time of his father's death. He asked if Kerens did not frequently go on sprees, but Orr said it was his understanding that Kerens was a constant, steady drinker, in fact a drunkard, rather than an occasional indulger. Keefe asked about two efforts made by the father to set Vincent Kerens up in business, first in the coal trade and later in shoe manufacturing.

Counsel for Kerens' sisters, in their attempt to make an unfavorable showing as to his conduct, introduced a paper filed by his first wife with a Texas court, in the effort to have the husband's divorce decree annulled. The first Mrs. Kerens charged that Kerens did not make a proper effort to locate her, or to give her the opportunity to appear, in the divorce case. Judge Faris commented on the one-sided character of such a paper, saying, "Suppose she had said he was a horse thief." He added that the case was not being "tried in the Social Register or in the newspapers."

16 Lawyers in Case.

Judge Faris suggested ironically, yesterday afternoon, that the case be settled by permitting the lawyers to take the entire amount.

Sixteen lawyers are participating in the case. While several of them were wrangling over a legal point, Judge Faris interrupted them to say:

"If we could get just three more lawyers in this case, and give each lawyer a fee of $100,000, that would dispose of this trust fund very nicely. However, it would leave nothing for Vincent."

In a more serious vein, Judge Faris admonished the lawyers that the hearing, which opened Wednesday, must be completed by tomorrow noon.

Summing up his view of the case as presented thus far, Judge Faris declared from the bench:

"Vincent had only to be sober, a man of good behavior, for five years. He had the right to proceed according to the laws of Texas, and to avail himself of divorce. No religion could keep him from that."

The chief exhibit of the trust company, in support of its plan to give Kerens his share of the estate, is the report of Attorney Samuel B. McPheeters, who made an investigation for the trust company, covering the five and one-half years from the fall of 1922 to the spring of 1928. McPheeters stated that he informed himself as to occurrences of each six months' interval in that period, and that Kerens' Texas acquaintances generally certified to his good conduct.

It was shown that the trust fund held for Vincent Kerens has an income of $97,000 a year. He has been receiving an income of not more than $1000 a month, the remainder accruing to the principal.

TWO KILLED BY GAS IN HECKER, ILL., WELL

Third Man Is Overcome When He Goes to Rescue of Others.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

HECKER, Ill., June 27.—Two men were killed here today and a third is in a serious condition as the result of a gasoline leak into a deep wel that one of the men was attempting to clean. One of the men had attempted to rescue the other, his brother, and the third tried to save both of those who died.

Henry Gambach, 32 years old, whose father, George, is postmaster of Hecker and owns a general store and filling station here, started down to clean the well, shortly after 1 p. m. The well was full of a heavy gas, believed to have been caused by gasoline leaking from storage tanks of the filling station. Henry was overcome and fell into the water. His brother, Willard, 27, started into the well to rescue Henry. He also was overcome and dropped into the water.

Henry Emery, a neighbor, then entered the well with a rope, was overcome and was hurriedly pulled out into fresh air. After treatment, the doctor said he probably would recover.

A call was sent to Belleville for the mine rescue crew quartered there, and the crew started for Hecker about 2:30 p. m.

When they arrived, both bodies had been recovered with grappling hooks.

Engineer Overcome When He Inspects Leaky Gas Conduit.

Ralph S. Orme, 28 years old, of Clayton, chief engineer for the Missouri Industrial Gas Co., is at City Hospital in a serious condition from gas poisoning, suffered at 1:30 p. m. today when he crawled into a manhole at Second and Dorcas streets to inspect a leaky gas conduit. Ofter Orme was rescued from the manhole police and firemen of Hook and Ladder Co. 16 used in inhalator on him for a half hour, after which he was taken to City Hospital.

CHICAGO ASSESSOR PUT $470,000 IN BANK IN 3 YEARS

Gene G. Oliver, Whose Salary in That Period Was $27,000, Goes to Trial for Income Tax Evasion.

"TAX FIXER," CHARGE OF GOVERNMENT

By a Staff Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch.

CHICAGO, June 27.—Evidence disclosing the source of income of Gene Garfield Oliver of Chicago Heights, a member of the Cook County Board of Assessors, will be offered today by Government attorneys in a prosecution of Oliver on four indictments charging evasion of income tax.

Examination of the bank accounts of Oliver and his wife in the First National Bank & Trust Co. of Chicago Heights has disclosed to Government investigators that in the years 1925, 1927 and 1928 the total of their deposits was $470,851.52. Oliver's salary for the three years totaled $27,000.

In the opening statement in the trial yesterday, Dwight H. Green, Assistant United States District Attorney, said the Government would prove that Oliver was a "tax fixer" and that a large part of his income was from unlawful sources.

The Oliver case is the second of the Chicago income tax fraud cases to go to trial and on the success of the Government in getting into the evidence the information it has in its income tax records hinges in all probability the success of graft prosecutions State's Attorney Swanson has said he would institute if he could obtain the necessary evidence.

Likely to Bare Graft Evidence.

It is generally known that the income tax records in Chicago contain evidence of graft on a huge scale, amounting possibly to $25,000,000 in a 10-year period. These are secret records and are not available to State officials for prosecutions in the State courts.

It is the expectation that much of the evidence in them will become public through the trials of the tax evasion cases, and that thus it will provide the State's Attorney with the information he needs.

The opening statements of Green and of State Senator James J. Barbour, Oliver's attorney, yesterday disclosed that Oliver, who had virtually no education, and who went to work in the coal mines at the age of 15, at the age of 45 had become a Republican boss on the suburban communities in Cook County. Following his election as Assessor he had annual bank deposits for his family ranging from $89,000 to $233,000 a year.

Barbour, in seeking to explain the possible sources of income, intimated that there were campaign contributions of considerable size. "A campaign for office in Cook County," he said, "could easily cost $50,000."

Gambler and a Bookmaker.

Green said the Governmen would show that Oliver had four businesses, that of tax assessor, gambler, bookmaker and "tax fixer." He said that as an assesso he was in a position to reduc taxes of individuals and corpora tions or to keep taxes from bein increased. "The Government wi show he used this power," Gree said.

Barbour, defending Oliver, sai the Government was proceeding o an erroneous theory that all th money Oliver received was incom

"Oliver was a gambler," Barbou said. "He had a passion for be ting on horses. His income pro erly was the difference betwee what he won and what he lost, an it will be shown that his losses e ceeded his winnings. In a sin night he lost $3000. He was n a tax fixer."

In two of the indictments Oliv is charged with having failed make income tax returns, and others with attempting to eva taxes.

It was shown that long after t tax period he made a return es mating his taxable income for t three years at $18,000. The Go ernment charges it was $250,8 after making deduction to whi he was entitled.

Waives Trial by Jury.

A peculiarity of the Oliver tr is that, although his conviction either of two of the indictme would subject him to a penite tiary sentence, he chose to wa a trial by jury, and is submitti his case before United States D trict Judge Woodward.

The first of the income tax e sion cases tried was that of Ra J. Capone, brother of the g leader, "Scarface" Al Capone. was convicted of evasion, and the evidence it was brought that he was a bootlegger and h paid out large sums for police p tection. He was sentenced to se three years in the Federal p tentiary.

CHICAGO, June 27.—Evidence disclosing the source of income of Gene Garfield Oliver of Chicago Heights, a member of the Cook County Board of Assessors, will be offered today by Government attorneys in a prosecution of Oliver on four indictments charging evasion of income tax.

Examination of the bank accounts of Oliver and his wife in the First National Bank & Trust Co. of Chicago Heights has disclosed to Government investigators that in the years 1926, 1927 and 1928 the total of their deposits was $470,851.52. Oliver's salary for the three years totaled $27,000.

In the opening statement in the trial yesterday, Dwight H. Green, Assistant United States District Attorney, said the Government would prove that Oliver was a "tax fixer" and that a large part of his income was from unlawful sources.

Green said the Government would show that Oliver had four businesses, that of tax assessor, gambler, bookmaker and "tax fixer." He said that as an assessor he was in a position to reduce taxes of individuals and corporations or to keep taxes from being increased. "The Government will show he used this power," Green said.

Barbour, defending Oliver, said the Government was proceeding on an erroneous theory that all the money Oliver received was income.

"Oliver was a gambler," Barbour said. "He had a passion for betting on horses. His income properly was the difference between what he won and what he lost, and it will be shown that his losses exceeded his winnings. In a single night he lost $3000. He was not a tax fixer."

In two of the indictments Oliver is charged with having failed to make income tax returns, and in others with attempting to evade taxes.

It was shown that long after the tax period he made a return estimating his taxable income for the three years at $18,000. The Government charges it was $250,832, after making deduction to which he was entitled.

races and to ball games together.

The $500 check transaction was with police Capt. Daniel A. Gilbert, in command of the central police detail in charge of the loop district—an assignment he is said to have received through Lingle's influence—the investigators found a canceled check issued by Lingle to "cash" and bearing the indorsement of Capt. Gilbert.

The Captain readily admitted the existence of the check and that he cashed it. His explanation was that Lingle appealed to him in a downtown hotel one night for some cash, saying he was short.

"I happened to have $5000 on me," the Captain said, "and I gave it to him, taking his check. I carried it around for quite awhile, and finally cashed it one day when an insurance premium became due."

Heavy Credit for $65 a Week.

The investigators profess an inability to understand how a man earning a salary of only $65 a week could build up the line of credit which the officials from whom he "borrowed" money accorded him. Nor, they say, can they believe that Lingle's bank deposits, estimated at something like $40,000 a year, could be made up of "borrowed" money.

It has been shown that while Lingle made large deposits the money did not long remain in his account at the Lake View Trust & Savings Bank. William N. Kline, president of the bank, has disclosed that Lingle's deposits were about $1000 a week, and that at the time of his murder his balance was between $2400 and $2700. The investigators have been working on a theory that Lingle had another bank account, but so far as has been made known they have not been able to find one.

They have learned that the night before he was killed he had $9000 in cash on his person, but when his clothing was examined after his death he had only $69.

A detailed report on Lingle's bank account and on the stock market pool with Russell has been promised by the investigators for tomorrow. According to reports, Russell had other market transactions than the one in which he engaged with Lingle, but it is said that another account, which showed a much higher paper profit than the $100,000 of the Lingle-Russell pool, was wiped out in the crash as was the $100,000 profit.

The Federal Government, through Mrs. Myrtle Tanner Blacklidge, Internal Revenue Collector, sent agents to Chicago banks and brokers today to search for Lingle's assets. She has been unable to find an income tax return by Lingle.

Evidence to Grand Jury.

The evidence being gathered will be presented to the Cook County grand jury early in July.

The shakeup in the Chicago Police Department, anticipated as a result of Acting Police Commissioner John H. Alcock's selection to head the department after Russell had resigned as a result of the Lingle case disclosures, came late yesterday when Alcock issued orders for the transfer to other beats of 1400 men, including 11 Lieutenants and 25 Sergeants. Six hundred men were transferred out of the Detective Bureau to uniform duty and Captains were made responsible for their districts. Though no Captains were transferred in the order yesterday it is the understanding that there will be a big shift in officers of that rank in a supplemental order to be issued late today or tomorrow.

Steps were taken today by Pat Roche, special investigator for the State's Attorney, and Charles F. Rathbun, attorney for the Chicago Tribune, and a Special Assistant State's Attorney for this investigation, to keep secret the progress of the inquiry. Newspaper men were "invited" to leave the special office in the Methodist Tower taken by the State's Attorney for the Lingle murder investigation force. Rathbun said that no information would be given out except in bulletin form when deemed advisable.

DROWNS ON DIVING INTO RIVER AGAINST COMPANIONS' ADVICE

Thomas O'Brien, 24-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. John O'Brien, 4428 Rosewood avenue, Pine Lawn, was drowned in the Mississippi River at Portage des Sioux yesterday.

Accompanied by his brother, Jack, 21 years old, and three friends, O'Brien had spent the day fishing. Early in the afternoon he suggested a swim, but his companions advised against it. Later, while fishing from a dike extending well into the channel, he removed his clothing and jumped into the river while the others were on the bank. When they reached the end of the dike he had disappeared.

A search for the body was futile last night. It was renewed today. O'Brien's death is the fourth drowning in the county during the last week.

Besides his brother and parents, O'Brien is survived by another brother, James.

A. F. L. HEAD PREDICTS RELIEF FOR THE JOBLESS IN FALL

By the Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, June 27.—A prediction that unemployment conditions will improve in the late summer and autumn has been made by William Green, president of the American Federation of Labor.

In a formal statement, Green said unemployment conditions in June had shown no improvement over May when the federation estimated 3,600,000 persons were out of work. He also estimated that wage earners had lost more than $2,000,000,000 during the first six months of this year because of unemployment.

"Layoffs always come with the beginning of the summer dull season in June," he said. "With the usual fall pickup in business, employment will improve in the later summer and autumn.

"But meanwhile, the summer months will bring hardships to hundreds of thousands of workers who have already been out of work from three to six months. And the low level of workers' purchasing power will continue to delay business recovery.

GOV. ROOSEVELT OF NEW YORK IN ST. LOUIS BETWEEN TRAINS

On His Way to Conference of Governors in Salt Lake City, Where He Will Speak Twice.

Gov. Franklin D. Roosevelt of New York was in St. Louis today on his way to the Conference of Governors in Salt Lake City, where he is to make two addresses. He was here only between trains, departing at 2:02 p. m., and did not leave Union Station. Accompanying him was Mrs. Roosevelt, one of their sons, Franklin Jr., military and naval aids and several New York newspaper men.

Unemployment and age insurance are the subjects he said he would take up at the meeting of Governors which some 30 state executives will attend. Eight to 10 per cent of workers in the East appear to be jobless and without prospect of employment very soon, he said. The situation has been alleviated in New York by increases in the public works program, he said.

'GLOOMY DEAN' IS SIR WILLIAM

Made Knight Commander of the Royal Victorian Order by King.

By the Associated Press.

LONDON, June 27.—The Very Rev. William Ralph Inge, known to all England as "The Gloomy Dean," though his friends say the nickname is entirely inappropriate, has been appointed a Knight Commander of the Royal Victorian Order. The honor presumably was conferred in connection with the ceremony on Wednesday in the restored St. Paul's Cathedral, of which Dr. Inge is dean.

The celebrated clergyman now is entitled to be called Sir William Inge, but the assumption of those who know him is that he will not use this form of address.

CASHIER KILLS SELF; MISSOURI BANK IS CLOSED

Depository at Deerfield Has "Frozen" Assets, Officers Admit—State Orders Audit.

By the Associated Press.

NEVADA, Mo., June 27. — The State Bank of Deerfield, 10 miles west of Nevada, was closed today following the suicide of T. E. Coffman, 46 years old, the cashier.

Bank officers said the depository was carrying a large amount of "frozen" assets and attributed both the suicide and the closing to this fact.

The last statement showed $51,654 in loans, deposits of $49.488 capital stock of $10,000, and a $3000 surplus.

Coffman's body was discovered in the barn of their home by his 11-year-old son, Jack. The banker had milked the family cow, taken a walk through the business district and then gone to the bank where he wrote a farewell note to his wife. His wife and two young sons will accompany the body to Erie, Kan., for burial. He organized the bank and had been cashier about 15 years.

Persons interested in the bank said they believed it would be reopened.

By the Associated Press.

JEFFERSON CITY, June 27.—An investigation of the Bank of Deerfield, Vernon County, was ordered today by S. L. Cantley, State Finance Commissioner, after he received a telephone call that T. E. Coffman, cashier, had shot himself this morning. The bank had $75,000 total resources, its last statement showed.

Coffman, according to the telephone message to Cantley, spent most of last night in the bank and then shot himself in a barn.

George U. Freund, a State bank examiner who had been working in Sedalia, was directed by Cantley to investigate the Deerfield bank.

ORYX ANTELOPE, SPRINGBOK, BLACK LEOPARD BORN AT ZOO

Four Mambas, Deadly Poisonous Snakes and a Gabun Viper in Latest Shipment.

An oryx antelope, as far as is known, the only one ever born in captivity, is on exhibit at the Zoo's paddocks, just east of the Lion House today. The antelope was born Tuesday.

A springbok, another species of African antelope, long-legged, slender and awkward, also was born Tuesday and is capering about one of the paddocks with its parents. Two Rocky Mountain goats, a few weeks old, are in an adjoining inclosure.

A black leopard also was born at the Zoo Tuesday. George P. Vierheller, director of the Zoological Gardens, and Ed Lightner, keeper in charge of the Lion House, removed the kitten from the cage of its mother late yesterday because the old cat had been carrying it about and injuring it. Vierheller expressed fear that the young leopard might not survive the rough handling it has received.

Four long yellowish-green mambas, deadly poisonous African snakes, a Gabun viper, similar to one that bit R. Marlin Perkins chief herpetologist at the Zoo, last year, a Chinese dragon lizard, two new monitors, several unclassified snakes and two moss monkeys, are included in a shipment of new specimens that arrived last week. All are on exhibit.

L. A. WEIL, INSURANCE AGENT FOR 40 YEARS, DIES

He Was Representative of Great American Indemnity Co. of New York.

L. A. Weil, an insurance man here for 40 years and for the last five years general agent for the Great American Indemnity Co. of New York and associated companies, died early today at the Jewish Hospital from complications induced by bronchial pneumonia. Mr. Weil, who was 66 years old, had been ill for three weeks. He resided at 5744 Bartmer avenue, where funeral services will be held Besides his widow, he is survived by two sons, Lester Weil, New York, who arrived today by airplane too late to see his father before he died, and Clarence Weil of St. Louis, and two daughters, Mrs. C. G. Hartmann and Miss Florence Weil, both of St. Louis; two brothers, Moses and Emanuel Weil, New York, and four sisters, Mrs. Esther Levy, Mrs. H. L. Stumps, and Misses Julie and Sadie Weil, all of this city.

SHOTS FIRED AT PEEPING TOM

Youth Runs to Auto and Drives Away.

H. E. Essmann, 6844 Marquette avenue, got his revolver and fired six times at a youth he caught standing on a bench looking in his wife's bedroom last night.

The youth ran to an automobile and drove off under fire.

BEEF LOWEST SINCE 1924

Due to an oversupply and a declining demand, choice beef carcasses are being sold here at 16 cents a pound, the lowest price since 1924 and six cents under the price of a year ago. Several weeks ago the same grade of beef brought 20 cents a pound.

Kingsford-Smith's Story; Atlantic Flight Easier Than the Pacific

When He Completes Round-the-World Cruise, He Will Marry and Settle Down to Running Transport Service.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

NEW YORK, June 27.—Maj. Charles Kingsford-Smith, after a late dinner of ham and eggs last night, talked of his ocean flights. The Pacific flight was the hardest, he said.

"Navigating a plane to a tiny spot in the biggest ocean in the world is too difficult to try very often," he said. "With the Atlantic we at least knew that all we had to do was keep on flying and we were sure to strike America. In the Pacific we had to hit a small island, and we knew that if we were the least bit off we'd be lost."

The Atlantic was his last great flight, he said, for when he sets the Southern Cross down at Oakland, Cal., he shall have completed his aerial circumnavigation of the world which commenced two years and one month ago. And when that is done he shall marry in September and give himself to the more humdrum but vastly more profitable business of directing a flying transport service in Australia.

"Tough Job, Weather Bad."

"It was a tough job, and one we got out of thankfully," he said with a shake of his head. "The weather was bad, far worse than I had on the Pacific flight, and when we lost our bearings and had to fly about blindly for three hours, it really seemed rather bad.

"Yet I would rather make the Atlantic flight again than to repeat the Pacific flight. The job of flying the Pacific is a frightfully delicate job of navigation. You're shooting at a fly-speck when you set out for Hawaii and Suva, you know. In flying the Atlantic, you know you'll hit land if you keep flying west long enough.

"I'm disappointed, naturally, that we did not make New York without a stop. If I were to try again, we could do a better job, I'm sure. For one thing, we would have a different sort of compass arrangement. Our compasses, I want to make plain, didn't fail us. We don't know for sure yet, and it make take a good bit of scientific check-up to prove it, but apparently we ran into a sort of dead spot where the attraction of the magnetic pole was erratic and dangerously variable.

"The Bremen, which made the crossing two years ago, had the same trouble, you may recall."

Preparation the Main Thing.

"To what do you attribute the success of this flight?" he was asked. "Careful preparations, that's the main thing," he said.

At present he is undecided as to whether he will make the flight to Oakland nonstop. He would like to, he said.

"What are you going to do with the Southern Cross?"

"Well," he said slowly, "I'd really like to sell her. I'm getting married and I'm frightfully hard up. She's still a good ship."

His reference to his impending marriage to Miss Mary Powell of Australia brought the inevitable questions from woman reporters. They wanted to know if his wife would make him stop flying.

"No, no," he laughed. "I should say not. It's my business, you see, and my fiancee knows that. She flies with me now and then. As a matter of fact, I think I'll teach her to fly. I'll probably be flying the rest of my life."

"My mother? She never worries about me. She seems to have a sublime faith in me. My father, who is 78 years old, never worries about me, either.

Nellie Stewart's Picture.

"Did I carry a picture of Nellie Stewart? You bet I did. I'm superstitious about that, and I always take it on dangerous flights."

Nellie Stewart, now 78 years old, was Kingsford-Smith's boyhood idol, the great actress of Australia when he was a lad. He wrote to her for an autographed photograph. She sent one to him, which he has carried since—through the war, across the Pacific, now across the Atlantic, and to New York. Soon he will carry ti across the United States.

Kingsford-Smith did not monopolize all the romantic attention of the moment. Evert Van Dyke, big, slow spoken co-pilot made a mysterious telephone call soon after reaching the hotel. In a few moments arrived Miss Ramona New, attractive brunette from Chicago.

"Going to get married?"

Non-committal smiles from both. It developed they had met five years ago, seen each other several times since and—well, were just good friends.

Capt. J. Patrick Saul, Irish widower whose 8-year-old daughter waits for him back on the Ould Sod, also has a fiancee, Miss Lena Marchant of Dublin. Only John W. Stannage, radio operator, whose efficient service was praised by Kingsford-Smith as being the controlling factor in the latter stages of their flight, could offer no romantic attachments.

WOMAN INJURED WHEN PICNIC TRUCK OVERTURNED, DIES

Mrs. John Wilderman One of Eight Persons Seriously Hurt in Accident on Sunday.

Mrs. Julia Wilderman of 6961 Union boulevard died at 11:15 o'clock this morning at City Hospital of a skull fracture, suffered when a picnic truck, in which she was riding, overturned, near Morse's Mill, Jefferson County, Sunday, after being crowded from Gravois road by an automobile, whose driver failed to stop.

She was one of eight seriously injured persons taken to the hospital. Nine others on the truck were treated for cuts and bruises and taken home. Mrs. Wilderman and the others were in a party of 50 persons going to Marshall Springs in a truck of the Walsh Transfer Co. of 718 Chestnut street. In swerving to avoid striking the other car, the truck ran down an embankment.

BOOK ON ROOSEVELT RECALLED

Owen Wister Wants to Revise "Story of a Friendship."

NEW YORK, June 27.—All advance copies of "Roosevelt—the Story of a Friendship," by Owen Wister, have been recalled from reviewers to enable the author to make some revisions before the volume is placed on the bookstands, officials of Macmillan & Co., publishers of the book, said today.

Nothing could be learned about the nature of the revisions Wister wishes to make. Executives of Macmillan's said that "many unfounded reports" were in circulation, but refused to affirm or deny that the revision in question concerned some purely social anecdote with no political bearing.

TEXAS MOB TRIES TO LYNCH NEGRO

Attacker of Eight Women Moved to Safety in Fire Chief's Auto.

By the Associated Press.

PORT ARTHUR, Tex., June 27.—A mob of about 200 persons failed in an attempt here today to lynch Rainey Williams, 38-year-old Negro, who has confessed to eight attacks upon white women within the last 30 days.

While officers fought off the mob gathered around the City Hall, where Williams had been held in jail, Chief of Police M. B. Word succeeded in sliding the Negro down the pole in the fire station in the building. Williams was placed in the rumble seat of Fire Chief Enright's car. After several shots were fired into the air to drive the mob back, the car roared away headed for Beaumont to jail the Negro for safe-keeping.

Williams was arrested last night after a hunt for the attacker of a young white couple Wednesday night. After he had confessed, a mob began milling about the City Hall this morning discussing methods of seizing Williams.

Chief Word and his officers barricaded themselves in the jail with shotguns and tear gas bombs before effecting the ruse by which the Negro was rushed out of the city.

Fire Chief Enright had the motor of his machine running and the Negro was shoved into the rumble seat and the lid closed. The mob made a rush for the car and had succeeded in opening the rumble seat and partly dragging the Negro from the car when Officer Dewey Smith fired two tear gas bombs into the mob.

Two cars bearing members of the mob following the Fire Chief's car in which the Negro, Chief Word and Smith were riding, but only for a short distance.

Word from Beaumont at 11:30 a. m. said that the Negro had been safely lodged in the county jail here. The trip to Beaumont, 22 miles from here, was made in 15 minutes.

CONCORD, N. C., June 27.—Several hundred armed men are searching the countryside near here for a Negro who attacked a 15-year-old girl today, an employee of a textile mill. So many of the employes joined in the search that the management closed the mill for the day.

31,000 Lead in Dakota Primary.

By the Associated Press.

FARGO, N. D., June 27.—Gov. George F. Shafer, seeking re-election, received the largest lead in Wednesday's primary election that has been given to a gubernatorial candidate in North Dakota in recent years. Returns from more than two-thirds of the State give Shafer 31,000 more votes than his Nonpartisan League opponent, E. H. Brant, for the Republican nomination. Shafer had 80,098 votes and Brant 49,926 in 1562 precincts out of 2228 in the State. A proposal to permit motion picture shows on Sunday in the State was defeated.

30 KILLED WHEN LIGHTNING BOLT STRIKES DYNAMITE

ONLY 12 OF 42 ON BOARD SAVED

U. S. Coast Guard Cutter Lowers Life Boat and Picks Up Men Clinging to Wreckage.

By the Associated Press.

BROCKVILLE, Ont., June 27.—An explosion, due to lightning striking dynamite yesterday caused the death of 30 men. The explosion tore the drill boat, J. B. King, to pieces.

Only 12 members of the crew of 42 were saved. These were picked up by the U. S. Coastguard cutter 211. Several of them were severely injured.

The drill boat, which was owned by J. P. Porter and Sons of St. Catherines, Ont., was blasting a channel in the St. Lawrence River through Brockville Narrows on the eastern fringe of the Thousand Island group when the explosion occurred.

Several holes had been drilled in the rock and filled with dynamite and the day crew was drilling additional holes to place more dynamite when an electrical storm broke about 4:30 p. m. Many of the night shift were asleep below the decks.

Lightning, Then Explosion.

Witnesses said they saw a flash of lightning dart down to the boat, followed immediately by a terrific explosion. The air was filled with debris and the drill boat had disappeared.

Some reports were that there had been a large quantity of dynamite aboard the J. B. King which had been exploded by the flash. Luther Kuchenbecker, superintendent in charge of the work, who was ashore at the time said there was no dynamite aboard the boat. He said the explosion was caused by lightning following the steel drills which were working in the rock or striking wires leading to the charges that had been placed.

Leo Marion, an inspector of the Public Works Department at Ottawa, who was one of those rescued, estimated there were three tons of dynamite in the drill holes and expressed the opinion that there also was a considerable quantity in the boat. He charged that an unidentified boat passed at the time of the explosion, but did nothing to aid in the rescue.

Coast Guard Aids in Rescue.

The explosion was witnessed by the crew of the U. S. Coast Guard Cutter 211, which was passing, in charge of Capt. G. B. Lok, with M. R. Rasmussen, chief inspector, of the Buffalo district, aboard.

The cutter hastily made for the spot and lowered a lifeboat. A number of men were clinging to wreckage and while those near were hauled aboard the cutter, the lifeboat picked up others.

Among those rescued was G. L. Brown of Ottawa, a member of the night shift. He said he was asleep in his bunk when the explosion happened. He said he managed to reach a porthole and jump overboard before the boat sank. He was picked up clinging to a piece of floating wreckage.

R. A. McNeil, foreman of the day shift, another survivor, said that the boat seemed to disappear from beneath his feet when the explosion occurred.

Cloud of Smoke; Wreckage.

Mrs. W. C. Walklate, who witnessed the accident from the veranda of her summer cottage about a quarter of a mile away, said she heard an explosion after a flash of lightning, saw a cloud of smoke arise from the spot where the drill boat had been at work and could then see only a few pieces of wreckage floating where the vessel had been stationed.

One of the night shift, G. L. Brown of Ottawa, was asleep beneath the water line of the drill boat when the explosion shattered the vessel. He said that he dived through a window and managed to cling to wreckage until picked up.

Three bodies were recovered.

The workmen aboard the drill boat included drillers, blacksmiths, powder men, helpers and laborers, in addition to the engine-room crews.

The J. B. King was one of the largest boats of the type in Canada. It was 150 feet long, with a beam of 50 feet and was equipped with 12 steam-driven drills.

Each drill sank a six and one-half inch hole in the granite shoals to a minimum of 27 feet. After a number of holes had been drilled and a charge of dynamite placed in each, connected by wires to a detonator aboard the boat, the J. B. King would be moved off about 1000 feet and the charges exploded.

The destruction of the vessel was witnessed by occupants of summer cottages along the shore.

Braving the storm that was raging and posible danger in the vicinity of the disaster, Mrs. R. A. McNeil, wife of the foreman of the drill boat, J. B. King, launched a rowboat and went in search of her husband after she witnessed the explosion.

With her five small children, Mrs. McNeil was on a picnic on the shore at a point where they could see the drill boat working in the channel. They were standing on the porch of a cottage to avoid the rain when the explosion occurred. Mrs. McNeil rushed to the water's edge and with the aid of a stranger launched a rowboat. Before they reached the scene of the wreck they were met by a rescue boat which had picked up McNeil. He was taken home suffering from minor injuries and shock.

Among the victims of the dynamite explosion which cost the lives of 30 aboard the drill boat, J. B. King, was the ship's mascot, a large police dog, named King, which recently was awarded a medal for dog heroism.

Last spring King saved the life of Jack Wylie, a member of the crew, when he broke through the ice while helping load machinery. Wylie sank and King leaped into the water and brought him to the surface. Both Wylie and King were on the missing list today.

CONGRESSMAN S. G. PORTER OF PENNSYLVANIA DIES

Friend of Head of House Foreign Affairs Committee to Be at Pittsburg Monday.

By the Associated Press.

PITTSBURG, Pa., June 27.—Stephen G. Porter, chairman of the House Committee on Foreign Affairs, died early today in Allegheny General Hospital. Death was due to cirrhosis of the liver. He was 61 years old.

Mr. Porter became ill about two months ago. He was stricken while aboard ship on the way home from London. June 11 he was brought to Pittsburg from Walter Reed Hospital in Washington.

Representative Porter was a prominent figure in Republican politics of Pennsylvania for 20 years. He had been a member of Congress since 1911.

After the World War, he took a leading part in the conferences which resulted in the Knox-Porter resolutions, fixing the basis for restoring diplomatic and commercial relations with Germany and Austro-Hungary. He was a leader in the international fight for control of habit-forming drugs.

He was born near Salem, O. Mrs. Porter died in 1919. One daughter survives.

MOVE TO EXTRADITE CONVICT SOUGHT 5 YEARS FOR MURDER

New Jersey Authorities May Interview Michigan Governor to Get Prisoner.

By the Associated Press.

JACKSON, Mich., June 27.—Identified yesterday as William J. Gormley, sought five years for the murder of Eleanor Quinn, a Broadway artists' model in a Hoboken (N. J.) rooming house, a prisoner registered in Michigan State prison here as Thomas O'Donnell faces trial for his life in New Jersey.

O'Donnell was sentenced from Detroit in January, 1928, to serve five to 10 years for criminal assault. He is 28 years old. He denies ever having been in New Jersey, but Detective Walter O'Fallon of Hoboken, who served with Gormley in the New York National Guard, identified him as the man wanted for murder. O'Fallon and Edward J. McFeely, Chief of Hoboken police, who arrived yesterday to question O'Donnell, said his signature, fingerprints, pictures and general description tallied with those of Gormley.

McFeely and O'Fallon said they would interview Richard W. Nebel, State Commissioner of Paroles, and possibly Gov. Fred W. Green on extradition of O'Donnell to New Jersey.

According to the Hoboken officers, the murder for which Gormley has been sought was a brutal one. The body of Miss Quinn was found by a milkman in the hallway of the rooming house early on the morning of May 26, 1925.

$1,750,000 for Clark Memorial.

By the Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, June 27.—A bill increasing from $1,000,000 to $1,750,000 the original authorization for the memorial at Vincennes, Ind., to George Rogers Clark, Midwest pioneer, was passed today by the Senate and sent to the House.

KANSAS CITY GETS DISTRICT OFFICE OF DRY BUREAU

Haley Will Be in Charge of Permits While Administrator Will Be George Wark.

Offices of the Prohibition Bureau which have been in the Title Guaranty Building in St. Louis will be removed to Kansas City and Sam S. Haley, prohibition administrator for Missouri and Arkansas, will also make his headquarters at Kansas City, as a result of the reorganization of administrative districts which will become effective July 1 when the Prohibition Bureau will be transferred from the Treasury Department to the Department of Justice.

Haley will no longer be concerned with enforcement activities, but will be in charge of the issuing of permits for manufacture of industrial alcohol in the newly created Ninth District, which includes Missouri, Arkansas, Kansas and Oklahoma. This phase of prohibition work will remain under the jurisdiction of the Treasury Department.

Deputy Prohibition Administrator James Dillon, who has charge of the group of enforcement agents who work out of the Federal Building here, will continue in direct charge of enforcement activities in the Federal District of Eastern Missouri.

The 88 persons, mostly clerks and stenographers, who have been employed in Haley's offices here, will be transferred to Kansas City, where they will work under George Wark, who will be in charge of enforcement in the Ninth District. Wark has been prohibition administrator in the old Fifteenth District, Kansas and Oklahoma, with headquarters at Topeka, Kan.

MITCHELL'S STATE CO-OPERATION PLAN

WASHINGTON, June 27.—Attorney-General Mitchell is making plans for closer co-operation between state and Federal authorities in the enforcement of the prohibition laws. In a statement today he made this known and outlined other plans for the administration of the dry laws by his department which on July 1 will take charge of the Prohibition Bureau now in the Treasury Department.

"The moral obligation to take measures to enforce the eighteenth amendment," he said, "rests alike on Federal and state Governments. The power is concurrent and therefore the duty is concurrent."

The department, he continued, will endeavor to "secure that degree of enforcement which can only come through the united efforts of state and Federal Governments," supported by "the large body of citizens" who believe the law should be respected and obeyed.

To bring this about, Mitchell added, "the department will put forth a special effort to confer with authorities of each state, or at least those who have enforcement statutes of their own, relative to the part the states may play in the performance of this difficult task."

A widespread rearrangement of present enforcement agencies is planned to take place with the transfer of the Prohibition Bureau. The present 27 administrative districts, Mitchell said, will be reduced to 12 to conform with the judicial circuits, and the enforcement districts, 87 in number, will be left unchanged to correspond with the judicial districts.

A prohibition administrator will be in charge of each of the administrative districts and a deputy will be placed at the head of each enforcement district. All will be under the supervision of Amos W. W. Woodcock of Baltimore, who has been named Director of Prohibition, and of Howard T. Jones, assistant director.

The transfer will take about 2700 employes from the Treasury to the Justice Department. Approximately 1700 of these are prohibition agents. In addition the 250 under cover agents who have been operating under the Treasury will continue in a similar capacity under the Justice Department.

The Treasury will continue to supervise industrial alcohol permits and will retain about 1700 employes of the Prohibition Bureau for this purpose. The appropriation of prohibition enforcement has been split between the two departments, $9,000,000 for the Justice Department and $4,500,000 for the Treasury.

DOCTORS SAY MURDER VICTIM WAS TORTURED

Physicians Believe Man Found Near Crane, Mo., Was Branded Before Being Slain.

SPRINGFIELD, Mo., June 27.—Physicians who made another examination Wednesday night of the body of Bascum E. Ingram, who was found murdered late Tuesday near Crane, Mo., railroad station, announced definitely that the wounds in his arms were made with red hot irons and that the burns were made before he was killed. His head was crushed in seven places and several bullets were fired into his arm. He also was choked with a suit of underwear.

A bulky registered letter, missing from the personal effects of Ingram, was considered as a clew in the hunt for his slayers. Postmaster J. W. Brown of Crane revealed to officers that Ingram called at the Postoffice Monday and said he should have some mail. He received a registered letter, read it in the Postoffice and seemed considerably worried, Brown said. He said it did not come from Yellville, Ark., near where Ingram's family and relatives reside.

Sheriff C. A. Willingham of Marion County, Ark., was back in Yellville after making a futile search for C. F. Gargous and George Riley, two men living near Yellville who broke jail about five months ago after officers found a still on their premises. Gargous and Riley are known to have been unfriendly with Ingram, officers said, as they blamed him for discovery of their still. Ingram's home burned a short time after Gargous and Riley broke jail.

A Coroner's jury returned a verdict that Ingram came to his death by causes unknown to the jury. Officers released seven members of the railroad paint gang of which Ingram had been foreman. The seven were arrested yesterday for investigation.

St. Louisan Heads Baptist Women.
By the Associated Press.

MARSHALL, Mo., June 27.—Mrs. F. W. Armstrong of Plattsburg was re-elected president of the Missouri Baptist Women's Missionary Union at its closing session here yesterday. Mrs. B. R. Williams of Macon was elected recording secretary. The 1931 convention will be in Kansas City.

STOCK EXCHANGE RULE ON BERRYHILL TRADING

Brokers Silent on Whether They Should Have Got First National Co. O K.

Payment of the loss sustained by the First National Co., investment subsidiary of the First National Bank, through the embezzlements of Frank L. Berryhill, former sales manager and a director of the company, probably will constitute the largest settlement of the kind ever made by the American Surety Co.

When Berryhill pleaded guilty June 17 and was sentenced to 10 years in the penitentiary, the Court was told by a representative of the Circuit Attorney that the total amount of securities left with Berryhill by customers of the company and used by him to support his speculative stock market account was $605,000.

The American Surety Co. had provided a $750,000 blanket fidelity bond covering the employes of the First National Co.

Thus far the First National's claim has not been filed with the surety company, but O. L. Kincheloe, manager of the latter, said that when the total amount of liability is ascertained he expects to write the biggest check ever sisued by his company, one of the largest, for a loss of that kind.

Discussion of Rule.

Meanwhile financial circles are widely discussing a rule of the New York Stock Exchange regarding the handling of speculative accounts for employes of banks and other financial institutions, and also the established custom of the exchange based on its rule of business conduct which for the time being has imposed silence concerning the Berryhill affair upon the brokerage firm of Knight, Dysart & Gamble, member of the exchange, with which Berryhill carried his trading account.

The business custom which establishes a confidential relationship between the brokers and their clients and forbids them to discuss the client's account with third parties necessarily prevents the brokers from giving their interpretation of the "employe" rule as it may or may not apply to the Berryhill case. Interpretation of the word "employe" as used in the rule has been widely discussed, but for the timebeing the brokers decline to give their view of it.

Text of Rule.

This rule provides: "No member (of the Stock Exchange) shall take or carry a speculative account or make a speculative transaction in which an employe of the exchange, or of a member of the exchange, or of a firm registered thereon, or of a bank, trust company, insurance company, or of any corporation, firm or individual engaged in the business of dealing, either as broker or as principal, in stocks, bonds or other securities, bills of exchange, acceptances, or other forms of commercial paper, is directly or indirectly interested, unless the written consent of the employer has first been obtained.' "

The question which has been raised in financial circles is whether under this rule the brokerage firm should have carried the account of Berryhill, a director and officer of his company, not a mere employe, without the consent of his superiors. No such consent was given and it is understood the brokers did not consider the rule applicable to Berryhill.

The Post-Dispatch has learned, however, that some years ago the Stock Exchange was asked in a hypothetical case to construe the word "employe" as used in this rule, and made the distinction that an "employe" is one who holds his position at the pleasure of the officers and an "officer" is one who has been elected to his position and it is commonly known that a director is an elected officer.

Walter W. Smith, president of the First National Bank, also declined to discuss the Stock Exchange rule or any other phase of the case affecting customers of the bank, because of the confidential relations existing, except to say that the First National Co. had accepted full responsibility for the losses suffered by its customers in their dealings with Berryhill.

TRAPPERS SEE HONEYMOONERS IN NORTHERN WILDERNESS

By the Associated Press.

PRINCE GEORGE, B. C., June 27.—Unmindful of the pleadings of trappers to forsake their wild adventure into the dangerous northland, William H. Albee and his bride of Carmel, Cal., were tramping onward today about 500 miles north of here, intent on reaching Dawson, Yukon territory.

Yesterday, for the first time since early this month, when they left civilization and plunged into the little known reaches of northern British Columbia, word came from the adventurous couple. Trappers arriving here said they had seen the Albees, and that they had ignored their pleas to turn back.

On their projected hike around the world, the Albees were carrying only the barest necessities, including a .22-caliber rifle, with which Albee hoped to meet every demand of their perilous journey.

Catholic Education Body Election.
By the Associated Press.

NEW ORLEANS, June 27.—The Rt. Rev. Francis W. Howard of Covington, Ky., again has been chosen president of the National Catholic Education convention. All other officers were re-elected except treasurer-general. The Rt. Rev. Monsignor John J. Bonner of Philadelphia was chosen for this place.

MINIATURE GOLF BILL PASSED BY ALDERMEN

Measure Fixes $40 Fee and Requires Courses to Close at 1:30 A. M.

An ordinance requiring miniature golf courses to close at 1:30 a. m., limiting them to commercial, industrial and unrestricted districts and requiring a license fee of $40 a year for each course was adopted unanimously by the Board of Aldermen today.

The ordinance, prepared by Alderman Eilers after citizens had complained that they were kept awake by the cries of golfers at unseemly hours, originally provided that the courses close at midnight. However, the ordinance was amended today by a vote of 25 to 4 on a motion by Alderman Brinkman.

E. C. Bartholomew, president of the Miniature Golf Association, which claims to represent 46 of the 55 courses in St. Louis, announced that the amended ordinance was satisfactory to the organization.

Enforcement will begin as soon as the ordinance is signed by the Mayor, inasmuch as it contains an emergency clause.

Meanwhile, three South Side property owners are seeking an injunction to prevent the operation of a course now under construction at Longfellow boulevard and Lafayette avenue, on the grounds that the course would violate building restrictions and constitute a nuisance. Circuit Judge Sprague has set July 10 for a hearing.

In an effort to regulate the new diversion, University City has adopted an ordinance providing for license fees ranging from $100 to $300 and fixing the closing hour at 1 a. m.; Webster Groves has fixed the license fee at $25 and the hours of operation from 9 a. m. until midnight, with no games on Sunday, and Richmond Heights has adopted a tax of $100 a week and a 10 p. m. closing hour.

GIRL, 2, STRUCK DOWN BY RUNAWAY AUTO, DIES

Margery Selbert Fatally Hurt When Sitting on Front Steps of Home.

Margery Seibert, 2 years old, died at Jewish Hospital yesterday of a fractured skull and crushed chest suffered Wednesday noon when a runaway automobile struck her while she was seated on the front steps of her home, 5872 Ridge avenue. She was the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Morris Seibert.

The machine, parked about 100 feet away on the opposite side of the street, coasted backward and crossed the street and sidewalk, crushing the child against the steps. Max E. Sills, a photographer, 1801 South Broadway, said he set the brakes on the car after parking.

An open verdict was returned by a Coroner's jury today. A policeman, who had examined the machine following the accident, testified the brakes appeared to be operating properly. Sills did not testify on advice of counsel. His bond, returnable July 3, was continued.

Seven Hurt in Crash at Clayton, North and South Roads.

Seven persons were injured, one seriously, in a collision between a service car from Washington, Mo., and another machine at the intersection of Clayton and North and South roads at 7:45 o'clock last night.

Alfred Immekus, Sullivan, Mo., is at St. Mary's Hospital suffering from a fractured skull. His aunt, Mrs. Laura Immekus, riding with him, was cut and bruised. Five young woman, residents of Washington, Mo., who were on their way to the Municipal Opera in the rented machine, suffered minor injuries. They are Miss Irene Brentmann, Miss Marion Brentmann, Miss Audrey Sublette, Miss Rose Lauman, and Miss Madelyn Buh. The driver of the service car, W. J. Schulte, and three other passengers were uninjured. The service car was northbound in North and South road and Immekus was driving west in Clayton road.

Helen Sloan, Former Actress, Dies.

By the Associated Press.

PALATKA, Fla., June 27.—Helen Sloan, vaudeville actress and singer during the late nineties, died here after an illness of a year. She was Helen Brandenburg, born at Fort Wayne, Ind. At the height of her career, she married Harry A. Ritter of Richmond, Ind. He died many years ago and she later married Louis Kalbfeld. They came here 25 years ago and operated hotels and theaters.

Make your own weather!

Tropical Worsted

$16.50
coat and trousers

—turn off the heat, with a cooling plant of your own

There's a grand and glorious "summer vacation" in store for every man of St. Louis—at the Bond store! All it costs is $16.50—the price of a carefree, airy Bond Tropical. Here's the one suit that lets refreshing breezes in—and keeps discomfort out. A crisp, trim suit that holds its good-looking lines because it's faultlessly tailored, exactly like heavier Bond suits. The perfect summer suit that takes a load off your mind, by taking a load off your back. ¥ ¥ Light shades, medium shades, dark shades. Sizes for every build—with an extra large selection for men who are usually hard to fit. Silk lined—coat and trousers—$16.50.

Genuine Nurotex—$16.50
the price includes two trousers
Can be readily washed or dry cleaned and will yield years of service.

De Luxe Tropicals—$22.50
the price includes two trousers

Use Bond Ten Payment Service
A refreshingly modern charge account service, with strictly cash prices. Just pay $10 when you buy, the balance in ten weekly payments. There are no extra charges of any kind.

ALDERMEN PASS BILL TO SPEED CONDEMNATIONS

Voters to Pass in November Election on Change in Procedure on Public Improvement Projects.

A bill to place charter amendments to speed up condemnation work on the November ballot was passed by the Board of Aldermen today in its final session before adjournment for the summer vacation.

The bill, originally recommended by the City Improvement Association and drawn by City Counselor Muench after conferences with other municipal officials, provides the following changes in condemnation procedure will be submitted to the voters in November:

Only the property holder of record need be named in suits. At present it is necessary to make the husband or wife of the property holder a party to the suit.

When defendants in a condemnation suit cannot be found by personal service, notice of the suit can be served by publication.

A Change of Grade.

When a condemnation suit involves changing the grade of a street, the condemnation project and change of grade suit can be filed at the same time instead of the grade suit following the other as is the current practice.

Condemnation commissioners must examine property to be condemned within 10 days after their appointment and must file in the office of the Recorder of Deeds a description of the property. This is to insure immediate action on the part of the commissioners and to make a matter of public record the fact that a condemnation action is pending against the property.

Benefits can be collected by the city from benefited property after the commissioners' report is filed and an interlocutory judgment has been entered by the court, but a final judgment still is pending. This will permit the city to collect for benefits much sooner than under the present method whereby they cannot be collected until all appeals have been settled and final judgment entered.

Funds Available Immediately.

This measure would permit the city to sell condemnation certificates and to issue local improvement bonds at a discount of not more than 10 per cent, making funds for improvements available at once.

The bill also provides for choosing commissioners from a venire of seven with representatives of the city and interested property holders having the right to challenge, instead of three commissioners being appointed by the Circuit Judge before whom the action is filed, regardless of whether the commissioners are satisfactory to the litigants. The number of commissioners, three, remains unchanged.

The Aldermen also passed a supplementary appropriation of $25,500 for the Efficiency Board. Originally this much was cut off the board's appropriation with the intention of abolishing it. The Aldermen, however, reconsidered the plan, and members of the Efficiency Board who kept their jobs, although no money was available to pay them, now will be paid.

O K's Street Car Loop.

A bill authorizing the Public Service Co. to construct a loop at Virginia avenue and Meramec street also was passed by the board over the objection of the South Side Business Men's Association and other south St. Louis organizations. The measure was advocated by the Safety Council.

The board adjourned until Sept. 26.

Father and Sons Rout Burglar.

Awakened by a burglar early today, Andrew Otto, 4519 Pershing avenue, called his two sons Andrew Jr., and Ray, who chased the man through the alley in the rear of their home. The thief made a threatening gesture with a knife and escaped. His shoes, and a grey hat were found on the back porch. Nothing had been taken.

Mrs. Gordon Wright Found In London (Ont.) Apartment.

By the Associated Press.

LONDON, Ont., June 27.—Mrs. Gordon Wright, president of the Women's Christian Temperance Union in Canada, was found dead in her apartment last night shortly before she was to have appeared as a speaker at a church rally.

Death was thought to have been caused by a heart attack.

Fire Prevention Association Elects.

COLUMBIA, Mo., June 27.—J. Elmer Ball of St. Louis was elected president of the Missouri State Fire Prevention Association here yesterday. Roe M. Wilcox of Kansas City was named vice president and J. Burr Taylor of St. Louis secretary.

ASSAILS POWER FIRMS FOR APPLIANCE SALES

Hardware Dealers' Group Charges This Is Done at Consumers' Cost.

Public utility companies were criticised by speakers at the National Retail Hardware Association convention yesterday for selling gas and electric appliances, such as stoves, irons, heaters and refrigerators at a loss and then more than regaining on the profits from power which such appliances require for use.

The convention in session all week at the Coronado Hotel with 450 delegates representing 20,000 dealers, in attendance, closed today with a sight-seeing tour of the city.

A resolution condemning this practice by public utilities and asking the association to request state public servic ecommissions to abate this practice, was passed. It was introduced by B. L. Noojin of Gadsden, Ala. J. Charles Ross, Kalamazoo, retiring president, praised the action.

The point of the whole matter, the hardware men explained, is that the alleged unfair competition has cut down the amount of sales of such appliances in hardware stores. No concern, they brought out, could sell, install and bear the long-term payment expense, as many public utilities are doing, at a profit.

W. B. Allen, Palo Alto, Cal., was elevated from the vice presidency. T. B. Howell, Richmond, Va., became vice president. H. P. Sheets, Indianapolis, was renamed managing director. The only addition to the board of directors was that of H. C. Ross, Jackson, Tenn.

Abandons Fight on Schall.

ST. PAUL, Minn., June 27.—Gov. Theodore Christianson formally announced in a statement today that he had abandoned a proposal to contest the victory of United States Senator Thomas D. Schall for the Republican nomination for United States Senator in the June 16 primary. The Governor, beaten by more than 90,000 votes, said lack of funds was the reason for not filing suit. The Governor charged untruthful statements were made against him in the recent campaign and that he would have appreciated an opportunity to refute them in a court action.

St. Louisans Lead Fire Board.

By the Associated Press.

COLUMBIA, Mo., June 27.—J. Elmer Ball of St. Louis, was elected president and Roe M. NCTION SOUGHT AGAINST UILDING OF WELLSTON SEWER tition Filed by County Taxpayers' Protective Association; Similar to Five Other Actions.

An injunction suit, similar to ers against five of the eight St. uis County Sewer Districts or- nized under the Ralph law, was d in Circuit Court at Clayton terday against the supervisors of the Wellston District. It asks that they be restrained from further expenditure of funds for construction of a sewer.

The petition, filed by the St. Louis County Taxpayers' Protective Association, alleges that the Ralph law is contrary to the State Constitution and that the sewer district is controlled by "an organized group." The supervisors are A. E. Rubeling, Jesse M. Barnett and Edward A. Laumann.

KENTUCKY CENSUS 2,604,744

By the Associated Press.

LOUISVILLE, Ky., June 27.—Assuming that the one missing county's population is the same as in 1920, Kentucky's 1930 population is 2,604,744, an increase of 188,114, or 7.8 per cent, according to figures from district supervisors.

The population of the one unreported county was 18,532 in 1920.

Four Children Drowned When Winnipeg-to-Toronto Flyer Plunges Into River at Capreol, Ont.

By the Associated Press.

TORONTO, June 27.—Floods in a 20-mile area in the vicinity of Capreol took 11 lives in three wrecks on the Canadian National Railways last night.

Four children were drowned and 21 other persons injured when the colonist and day coaches of train No. 4, Winnipeg to Toronto, plunged into the flooded Vermillion River at Capreol.

The engineer of freight train No. 401 from ..orth Bay was fatally injured when his train ran into a washout 16 miles east of Capreol. The bodies of six men, said to have been stealing rides, also were found in the wreckage.

Train No. 3, Toronto to Winnipeg, also was derailed near Capreol, but nobody was seriously hurt.

The rain abated this morning, but creeks and rivers remained raging torrents. The rain has been falling at intervals for the last two weeks.

30 Boats Sunk in Storm on Newfoundland Coast.

ST. JOHN'S N. F., June 27.—The fishing village of Lumsden, which suffered serious damage last November in the tidal wave that swept the Burin Peninsula, today was recovering from a hail and rain storm that took three lives and sank 30 boats.

Virtually every pane of glass in the village was broken and many roofs of the fishermen's dwellings collapsed under the weight of the hail stones, some of which a message to the Minister of Posts here said weighed 10 pounds. The storm arose suddenly after a day of perfect summer weather. Three fishermen were drowned when their boat went down in the harbor.

The Canadian Pacific Imperial Limited train after leaving here last night was forced to return by a landslide near Warren. The same landslide held up a local train from North Bay and a relief train was dispatched to bring the passengers here. The crack trans-Canada train and the Vancouver Express were stalled by a washout a mile and a quarter west of Sudbury.

Dozens of motor cars were marooned in the flooded district. Washouts and landslides were reported from several points on the Sudbury North Bay highway.

RHINE OCCUPATION NEAR END

Commander to Leave Monday, Thus Completing Evacuation.

(Copyright, 1930, by the Press and Pulitzer Publishing Cos., the New York World and Post-Dispatch.)

PARIS, June 27.—Gen. Guillaumat, commander of the Rhine Army, will cross the German frontier June 30, formally bringing the military occupation to an end. On arriving in Paris he will pay special homage to France's Unknown Soldier, thereby marking for this country the last military phase of the World War.

An imposing patriotic ceremony is planned at the tomb. Gen Guillaumet will relight the flame that burns there.

CANADIAN BANK HEAD DIES

TORONTO, Ont., June 27.—Peleg Howland, who rose from office boy to president of the Imperial Bank of Canada, died suddenly at his home here last night. He was 73 years old.

He was one of the most powerful figures in the financial and business life of the Dominion.

MAGAZINE BUILDING FIGHT TAKEN TO COURT

Barring of Their Use for University City Municipal Offices Is Sought.

Suit to enjoin University City from using for municipal purposes the Woman's Magazine and Press Building, recently acquired in a trade for the old city hall property, was filed in Circuit Court at Clayton today by George C. Mackay and Royal L. Coburn, attorneys representing about 40 home owners living in University Heights near the two buildings. The plaintiffs ask for a perpetual injunction.

The suit alleges University City took possession of the buildings June 16 in violation of building restrictions which reserved the property in University Heights for residences with the exception that the buildings in question, originally built as E. G. Lewis' publishing house, might be used for printing. Since the restrictions were imposed in 1905, the petition points out, the buildings have not been occupied for other purposes until 1918 when a storage company took possession under a lease protected by a decree of court.

Occupancy of the buildings for municipal purposes, it is alleged, will result in endangering the lives of school children through proximity of the Fire and Police Departments to a grade and high school, will destroy the privacy of streets in University Heights, disturb the residents and place upon them an inequitable burden in the upkeep of streets through increased traffic of heavy vehicles. In addition, such uses, the suit continues, will transform "a high-grade residential district into a commercial and business section."

The buildings are at Delmar boulevard and Harvard avenue, near the gates of University City. The Board of Alderman on May 14 voted unanimously to exchange the old City Hall for the Magazine buildings, although several nearby residents had made strenuous objections to the trade at a mass meeting several weeks previously.

The new City Hall is now occupied by city departments, except the Police and Fire Departments, which will probably move into the Press building about Sept. 1.

Woman Calls Doctor, Dies.

An autopsy will be performed on the body of Mrs. Agnes Dales, a widow, who died at City Hospital early today. At 9:30 o'clock last night Mrs. Dales called telephone central and requested that a physician be sent to her home, 2300A South Twelfth street. The operator noticed that the receiver was not replaced on the telephone and called Mrs. Millie Hermann, occupying the first floor at the Twelfth street address. Mrs. Hermann investigated and found Mrs. Dales lying on the floor near the telephone. At the hospital physicians said Mrs. Dales apparently had struck her head in falling.

JAMES F. BALLARD BUYS MORE RUGS FOR CITY MUSEUM

"Retired" Collector, at 79, Acquires the 100 Masterpieces of V. D. Cliff of Detroit.

James F. Ballard of St. Louis, who "retired" from rug collecting last year after 500,000 miles of travel, announced yesterday in New York that he had acquired the 100 woven masterpieces of V. D. Cliff of Detroit for gifts to the Metropolitan Museum in New York and the Art Museum here.

"I'm 78 years old," Mr. Ballard told the Post-Dispatch a year ago when he gave 70 remarkable rugs worth $250,000 to the St. Louis museum. "The hardships of travel are too much for me. But," he chuckled, "if I saw a good rug, I might be interested."

He has collected rugs through the bombardment of a beseiged city, against the wiles of Oriental dealers, through hardships of primitive travel in remote places, in the cold of Far Eastern mountains and the heat of hemmed-in tropic cities. He made this latest acquisition when ill in his New York apartment. His relatives are convinced he will never retire.

One Piece Worth $15,000.

In discussion with friends who knew he was considering the purchase, Ballard has been outspoken in his admiration of the Cliff collection. He did not announce the price, but he said one sixteenth century Damascus rug alone was worth $15,000. The collection is of the comprehensive rather than the specialized type, including representations of the main phases and periods of the art in Persia, India, the Caucasus, Spain, Mesopotamia and Anatolia.

The retired manufacturer and capitalist announced that he would divide his gifts between the two museums, to which he already has given rugs worth $750,000. It has been his custom in preparing gifts and displays to use the utmost care in selecting rugs to make up collections of significance as a whole. His $500,000 gift to the Metropolitan, for example, comprised 126 rugs representing every peak of the weaver's art in history. For the St. Louis Museum he selected 70 extraordinary rugs for a collection of less universal scope, but still representing the main trends, and including the 10 finest Oushak rugs and the finest group of Asia Minor rugs in the world. His St. Louis acquaintances, in consequence, expect the extent and nature of his additions to each to be determined by the requirements of each collection.

Gift Improves Health.

Ballard has been at the Briar Cliff Apartments in New York for the last month. He is not well, and his daughter, Mrs. David B. White of St. Louis, went to New York last week to attend him.

The famous collector's family is convinced that the interest of planning his gift to St. Louis saved his life. He had been brought to Jewish Hospital from Miami with an illness so grave that physicians advised that his affairs be promptly cleared up. His first thought was of the gift, which he had contemplated for years.

Mr. and Mrs. White and another daughter, Miss Berenice Ballard of Paris, who aided him in planning the gift, summoned attorneys to his bedside. Mr. Ballard, listless for days, took part in the discussions with increasing liveliness, recalled rugs which "simply couldn't be left out" until the collection was increased from 35 to 70—and in a week was sitting up, ready to depart the following month for a California resort.

James F. Ballard of St. Louis, who "retired" from rug collecting last year after 500,000 miles of travel, announced yesterday in New York that he had acquired the 100 woven masterpieces of V. D. Cliff of Detroit for gifts to the Metropolitan Museum in New York and the Art Museum here.

"I'm 78 years old," Mr. Ballard told the Post-Dispatch a year ago when he gave 70 remarkable rugs worth $250,000 to the St. Louis museum. "The hardships of travel are too much for me. But," he chuckled, "if I saw a good rug, I might be interested."

He has collected rugs through the bombardment of a beseiged city, against the wiles of Oriental dealers, through hardships of primitive travel in remote places, in the cold of Far Eastern mountains and the heat of hemmed-in tropic cities. He made this latest acquisition when ill in his New York apartment. His relatives are convinced he will never retire.

One Piece Worth $15,000.

In discussion with friends who knew he was considering the purchase, Ballard has been outspoken in his admiration of the Cliff collection. He did not announce the price, but he said one sixteenth century Damascus rug alone was worth $15,000. The collection is of the comprehensive rather than the specialized type, including representations of the main phases and periods of the art in Persia, India, the Caucasus, Spain, Mesopotamia and Anatolia.

The retired manufacturer and capitalist announced that he would divide his gifts between the two museums, to which he already has given rugs worth $750,000. It has been his custom in preparing gifts and displays to use the utmost care in selecting rugs to make up collections of significance as a whole.

His $500,000 gift to the Metropolitan, for example, comprised 126 rugs representing every peak of the weaver's art in history. For the St. Louis Museum he selected 70 extraordinary rugs for a collection of less universal scope, but still representing the main trends, and including the 10 finest Oushak rugs and the finest group of Asia Minor rugs in the world. His St. Louis acquaintances, in consequence, expect the extent and nature of his additions to each to be determined by the requirements of each collection.

Gift Improves Health.

Ballard has been at the Briar Cliff Apartments in New York for the last month. He is not well, and his daughter, Mrs. David B. White of St. Louis, went to New York last week to attend him.

The famous collector's family is convinced that the interest of planning his gift to St. Louis saved his life. He had been brought to Jewish Hospital from Miami with an illness so grave that physicians advised that his affairs be promptly cleared up. His first thought was of the gift, which he had contemplated for years.

Mr. and Mrs. White and another daughter, Miss Berenice Ballard of Paris, who aided him in planning the gift, summoned attorneys to his bedside. Mr. Ballard, listless for days, took part in the discussions with increasing liveliness, recalled rugs which "simply couldn't be left out" until the collection was increased from 35 to 70—and in a week was sitting up, ready to depart the following month for a California resort.

TWO CHICAGO POLICEMEN HURT WHEN STILL EXPLODES

Officers, Lying in Wait for Moonshiners, Showered With Boiling Mash.

By the Associated Press.

CHICAGO, June 27.—Two highway policemen, lying in wait for moonshiners, were scalded and injured early today when a still exploded. Patrolman Walter Remillard was reported seriously ill of burns. Sergt. John Orgel was not seriously hurt.

Smelling mash, the patrolmen found the still of about 150-gallon capacity in a garage in Markham. They found no one on the premises, but there was a fire burning, indicating the operators planned to return.

The officers concealed themselves close to the still. Twenty minutes later it exploded, showering them with the boiling mash.

Police think the still operators were hidden across the street and fled when they saw the officers running from the garage.

Three Killed; Tree Hits Auto.

By the Associated Press.

ARGONNE, Wis., June 27.—Taylor Ingram and Frank Harris, Alvin, Wis., were killed and the 7-year-old daughter of Ingram was fatally injured when a large tree crashed through their sedan on a highway near here yesterday. The men's wives were injured seriously.

Our 5th Annual and Greatest
Trade-in SALE
Making Tire History!

Price reductions
that set a new low record

Special low prices that go far below anything the past has ever produced—and with our added trade-in allowance during this event the question of cost can not stand in the way of a single buyer.

Blowout-Proof GENERALS
for every car on the road

Sweeping America

More people are changing over to Generals than to any 2 other makes of tires.

SAFETY seeking motorists everywhere are replacing their tires with the new Blowout-Proof Dual-Balloon. Announced only a month ago it has already been acclaimed the greatest hit of all times in the tire industry.

Modern speed demanded the Blowout-Proof Tire. Newspapers tell daily of crashes caused by blowouts. Obituaries list the names of drivers who thought their tires immune.

You can't see a blowout coming. It hides under rubber that still looks good—and "blows" when you least expect it. Then, a head-on collision at fatal speed, or a careening course to the ditch and disaster. Wrecked so quick you can't touch the brake or turn the wheel. At sixty miles per hour, 88-feet a second, it's 1/44th part of a second from blowout to crash.

It can never happen if you ride on the General Dual-Balloon. Spectacular tests prove its absolute safety. It is more than Blowout-Proof. Skid-safe, too! It ends every tire hazard regardless of road, speed or weather.

The world's lowest pressure tire and the easiest riding. Absorbs bumps and jars. Flows smoothly over roughest roads.

Let us give you a demonstration. And be sure to take advantage of this week's drastic cost discounts offered only during our annual sale.

For Owners of New Cars, Too

Our extra allowances and reduced prices on Generals are for owners of new cars, too . . . Now is the time to act—during this sale and before you drive the equipment tires too far.

Convenient Terms

Regular charge accounts and our famous General Tire Acceptance Payment Plan for everyone . . .

Daily 7 A. M. to 7 P. M.

The used tires go on sale as fast as we take them in . . . reconditioned and priced for quick sale.

6-ply and 8-ply DUAL-BALLOONS
Also the famous 4-and 6-ply Dual-Grip Balloons

Every tire in the complete General line included in the sweeping reductions and special trade-in allowances that feature the greatest annual sale in the tire industry.

We Are Smashing Every Argument of Price vs. Quality

If you have thought you couldn't afford the finest tire, forget it now. With record-breaking cost reductions, trade-in allowances greater than ever before, you will save money.

Whether Your Tires Are Practically New or Worn Smooth... An Offer That Can't Be Duplicated

No matter what tires you have or what their condition, you'll get the greatest value and the lowest cost by turning them in now toward our special sale price on Generals. All sizes and types of Generals included in our special reduction.

The smallest car needs General safety as well as the largest. While this sale is on, no car, new or old, need be without it.

Don't risk riding on tires you can't be sure of when you can get the extra security, soft riding comfort and long mileage economy of Generals with actually lower cost than you're paying now.

Just bring in your car before this sale ends and get the Trade-in quotation that can't be duplicated. There is no obligation—one tire or a set of six, it's all the same—courteous attention for all. No delay, extra help to take care of everyone promptly.

CITY HAS OPTION OF MAKING EADS BRIDGE TOLL-FREE

Ordinance as Passed Applies Only to Pedestrians and Noncommercial Vehicles.

THIS CANNOT BE EFFECTIVE FOR YEAR

Credit to Terminal Will Not Apply Until Approaches to Municipal Structure Are Built.

Before the newly passed Eads-Municipal bridge ordinances can be put in effect, the city will have time to consider whether it wishes to pay the Terminal Railroad Association $140,000 a year for partial removal of tolls on the Eads Bridge upper deck, or whether it will pay $200,000 a year and make that deck entirely free of tolls.

As has been told, the opening of the Eads Bridge upper deck, as a free highway, must wait on the construction of approaches to the Municipal Bridge, and the use of the Municipal Bridge by the Terminal Association. Not until this use begins, will tolls accrue to the city, from which the payments for the opening of the Eads Bridge can be made. This is likely to mean a wait of a year or more, after Mayor Miller signs the ordinances, before they will be made effective.

Terms of Ordinance.

The first of the ordinances empowers the Mayor and Comptroller, within six months after the effective date of the ordinance, to enter into a contract with the Terminal, "providing that it shall permit all pedestrians and vehicles crossing said bridge to pass free of tolls, except vehicles, including street cars, carrying freight and passengers for hire, and vehicles engaged in commercial and business service.

"The (Terminal) railroad," the ordinance further states, "shall receive for such permission a credit of $140,000 per annum on account of charges against it for the use of the Municipal Bridge; such credit to take precedence of any other credits to which the railroad may be entitled under the terms of a contract entered into between it and the city providing for the construction of certain approaches to the Municipal Bridge out of funds to be advanced by the railroad and repaid out of such charges.

"The city shall have the option, at any time during the life of the contract, upon the allowance of a credit of $200,000 out of said charges, to secure the release from tolls of all traffic over Eads Bridge, so far as said release may be granted without affecting the provisions of the contract now existing between the (Terminal) railroad and the street car company operating over said bridge."

It is provided that the Terminal shall maintain the vehicular deck of Eads Bridge in a suitable condition; and that the contract shall continue for 25 years, with privilege of renewal for two more 25-year periods, the city to give written notice one year before each renewal.

Rental on City's Bridge.

The second of the ordinances authorizes the Terminal to use the Municipal Bridge, paying the city a rental based on the previous general bridge ordinance, not less than $500,000 a year. The city is first to build approaches estimated to cost $3,250,000, with money to be advanced by the Terminal, at 5 per cent interest, and to be repaid solely out of the rentals paid by the Terminal for use of the bridge.

If the rentals should be largely in excess of $500,000 a year, the city might be able to pay the $200,000 a year required for complete removal of the Eads Bridge tolls, in addition to its repayments on the money advanced for the approaches. If it should not exceed the guaranteed $500,000, the city could probably afford to pay only the $140,000 for removal of tolls on private vehicles and pedestrians.

The third of the ordinances passed is a matter of legal form, and amends the previous general bridge ordinance to conform with the new measures in some points.

WOMAN FREED OF MURDER

By the Associated Press.

MOBILE, Ala., June 27.—Mrs. Gertrude Puckett, who shot Mrs. Francis Hines to death on the night of May 14 when she found Mrs. Hines in the company of her husband, has been exonerated by a grand jury.

Mrs. Puckett shot Mrs. Hines after driving alongside a car occupied by Puckett and Mrs. Hines. The killing was the second time Mrs. Puckett had shot Mrs. Hines; the latter was wounded slightly at the Puckett home a few weeks before the fatal shooting.

Gold Star Mothers Improve.

By the Associated Press.

PARIS, June 27.—Both Mrs. Edwin Lange, Oshkosh, Wis., and Mrs. Annie Raymond, Riverside, R. I., American Gold Star Mothers who underwent blood transfusions earlier in the week in efforts to save their lives, were said today at the American Hospital to have passed a good night.

TWO BEACH RESORTS RAIDED

Sixty-one Arrested by Dry Agents in New York.

By the Associated Press.

NEW YORK, June 27.—Two of this city's popular beach resorts, Long Beach and Far Rockaway, were raided last night by Federal prohibition agents who arrested 61 persons and seized some liquor.

Thirty-six hotels, restaurants, drug stores and alleged speakeasies were visited.

Opera Viewed as Boon to Widespread Area

Municipal Opera's significance to thousands of persons who live within motor distance of St. Louis is emphasized in an editorial in the Springfield, Ill., Register.

St. Louisans and environs can benefit greatly by selecting their upholstered furniture direct from the Prufreck-Litton Factory, Fourth and St. Charles Streets, and thus save the middleman's profit.

143,808 POPULATION IN MADISON COUNTY

Recheck Made When Subdivision Is Missed — Gain of 34.5 Per Cent.

Final revised figures issued today by Census Supervisor Shearburn of Alton show a population of 143,808 for Madison County, Illinois. This is 676 more than the preliminary figure and a gain of 36,913, or 34.5 per cent, since 1920. Of this population, 120,046 is in the seven industrial and residential townships in the St. Louis metropolitan zone.

The bulk of the increase since the preliminary announcement is due to the discovery that a subdivision adjoining Madison, with 578 inhabitants, was overlooked at first, due to a change of enumerators because of the illness of the original appointee.

Alton has 30,140, instead of 39,184 as originally announced, a gain of 5458 in the decade. Collinsville has 9234, instead of 9188, a loss of 519 in the decade. Wood River has 8136, instead of 8028, a gain of 4660 in the decade.

Clinton County, Illinois, has 21,366 population, instead of 21,544 as originally announced, a loss of 1581 in the decade. Bond County, Illinois, has 14,406, instead of 14,427, a loss of 1639 in the decade.

In connection with the census of distribution, report blanks have been sent to 80 St. Louis hotels, the Census Bureau has informed the Chamber of Commerce. This covers only places of 25 rooms or more doing a strictly hotel business, either transient or permanent. Boarding houses, clubs, establishments like the Y. M. C. A. and various other lodging places are not included. Similarly, blanks have been sent to 620 hotels throughout Missouri and about 25,000 throughout the nation.

$1000 Fire Loss at Hotel.

Fire, starting on the third floor of the Pacific Hotel, 901 Market street, yesterday afternoon while the hotel was being fumigated, caused $1000 damage. Due to the fumigation none of the rooms was occupied at the time.

HOUSE GROUP TO INVESTIGATE CAMPAIGN FUNDS IS NAMED

Lehlbach Is Chairman; Michener, Chindblom, Black and Howard Are Members.

By the Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, June 27.—Speaker Longworth today appointed the special committee which will investigate campaign expenditures of candidates for the House during the November elections.

The committee is composed of Representative Lehlbach of New Jersey, Republican, chairman; Michener of Michigan and Chindblom of Illinois, Republicans, and Black of New York and Howard of Nebraska, Democrats.

A Senate committee, headed by Senator Nye of North Dakota, has been authorized for some time and has inquired into campaign expenditures of candidates in Pennsylvania, Illinois and other states.

Foxx and Simmons Hit Home Runs; 'Chick' Hafey Back in Game

By a Special Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch.

PHILADELPHIA, June 27.—After winning the first game, 8 to 2, the Browns lost the second game of the doubleheader to the world champion Athletics this afternoon.

The score in the second game was 8 to 3.

The double-header attracted 20,000 fans.

The game:

FIRST—BROWNS—Haas made a great one-hand running catch of Blue's drive. Badgro was hit by a pitched ball. Goslin forced Badgro, Bishop of McNair. Dykes threw out Kress.

ATHLETICS—Bishop singled off Kimsey's glove. Haas rolled to Kress, Bishop taking second. Cochrane flied to Goslin. Simmons struck out.

ATHLETICS—Foxx walked. Miller singled to right, Foxx taking second. Dykes sacrificed, Blue unassisted. McNair doubled down the left field foul line, scoring Foxx and Miller. Melillo tossed out Mahaffey, McNair taking third. Bishop fouled to O'Rourke. TWO RUNS.

THIRD — BROWNS — Ferrell popped to Bishop. Kimsey singled to right. Blue walked. Badgro forced Blue, Bishop to McNair. Goslin flied to Miller.

ATHLETICS—Haas lined to Goslin. Cochrane singled to right. Simmons was safe when Badgro dropped his liner, Cochrane stopping at third. Foxx hit a home run over the right field fence, scoring Cochrane and Simmons ahead of him. Miller singled through Melillo. Dykes popped to Kress. Miller was caught stealing, Ferrell to Kress. THREE RUNS.

ATHLETICS—McNair flied to Gullic. Kress tossed out Mahaffey. Bishop singled to right. Melillo threw out Haas.

FIFTH — BROWNS — Ferrell singled to center. Kimsey singled to center, Ferrell going to second. Blue walked, filling the bases. Badgro walked, forcing in Ferrell. Mahaffey was taken out. Quinn replaced him. Goslin rolled to Foxx, Kimsey scoring. Kress fanned. Gullic popped to Bishop. TWO RUNS.

ATHLETICS—Cochrane doubled to left. Simmons hit into the upper left-field stands for a home run, scoring Cochrane ahead of him. Melillo threw out Foxx. Miller grounded to Blue. Dykes tripled to right. McNair out, Melillo to Blue. TWO RUNS.

SIXTH — BROWNS — Melillo singled over second. O'Rourke hit into a double play, Quinn to McNair to Foxx. Quinn threw out Ferrell.

EIGHTH — BROWNS — Gullic was thrown out by Dykes. Melillo grounded to Bishop. O'Rourke doubled to left. McNair tossed out Ferrell.

ATHLETICS—McNair popped to Kress. So did Quinn. Bishop walked. Melillo threw out Haas.

MANION 4 UP AFTER 18 HOLES IN SEMIFINAL

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

COLORADO SPRINGS, Colo., June 27.—Jimmy Manion of St. Louis, led by 4 up at the end of the morning 18 holes in his semifinal match with Walter Crooks of Denver in the Trans-Mississippi golf tournament in progress here.

Out:

Par	454	434	344—35
Manion	455	534	344—37

In:

Par	444	344	354—35—70
Manion	454	243	354—34—71
Crooks	546	354	354—39—76

In the other semifinal, Robert McCreary of Des Moines, defending champion, had a 4 up lead over Logan Van Zandt of Tulsa.

Manion had trouble early and he and Crooks were still even after the first nine. In fact, Crooks was two up after six holes and the St. Louis player squared the match by winning No. 7 and No. 9.

On the home nine Jim got going and his 34 total was one under par for the nine. He won the tenth, lost the eleventh and then won four holes in a row, scoring a deuce on No. 13.

McCreary also shot the home nine holes in 34 for a 71 total.

Red Sox Release Two Men

By the Associated Press.

BOSTON, June 27.—The Boston Red Sox announced yesterday afternoon the release of Pitcher Frank Mulrooney and Outfielder Joe Cicero to the Indianapolis club of the American Association. Mulrooney came to the Red Sox from the Pittsfield club of the Eastern League at the start of the season. Cicero had a good year with the Red Sox last season, playing center field and finishing with a batting average of .311.

Gay Past Captures Sprint at Fairmount; Domina Refunds $12.60

By Dent McSkimming.
Of the Post-Dispatch Sport Staff.

FAIRMOUNT TRACK, June 27.—Toltec was the winner of the first race on this afternoon's card. The race was without color or unusual incident. Toltec was away from the barrier flying, established a two lengths lead after going half a mile and then withstood the rush of Angel Bright in the stretch to win by a full length. Southland Pal was third. Cimerak had Tahoka in a pocket most of the way and only bore down on him in the last quarter when it was too late to improve his position.

The track was dry and fast, a hot sun leaving no trace of the heavy rain of Wednesday.

Joan G. Beats Amour.

Joan G., second choice in the betting, beat the favorite, Amour, to win the second race, an event for 2-year-olds which had never scored a victory. Amour now has finished second four times in 12 starts, but has been unable to get her nose in front. Constance Ann was third.

Joan G. paid $10.20 for $2.

Ed McCuan's filly, Fig Leaf, ridden completely out by Melvin Knight, just got up in time to nose out King Pin, a "field" horse, in the third race. Bride O' the Wind was third, and Charming Lady fourth.

Domina Takes Fourth.

Henry Riley, the tiny apprentice rider from Oklahoma, gave the filly Domina a masterful ride to win the fourth race, beating Delmonico, with Willie Day up, in a prolonged and thrilling stretch drive.

Marette, despite the fact that she dropped back when passed on the far turn, came with a second burst of speed in the stretch to take third place. Domina and Delmonico finished far in advance of the others.

The refund on the winner was $12.60 for $2.

Birthday Gift, which has been assigned top weight of 118 pounds in the two-year championship race tomorrow, the Fairmount Golf Club Stakes, probably will be the favorite regardless of track conditions. He has won two races over dry tracks and yesterday he worked five-eighths of a mile over a muddy track in 1:01 4-5, which is faster than most of the two-year-old races are run here.

Ruth Hits No. 27 Against Indians

By the Associated Press.

NEW YORK, June 27.—Babe Ruth continued his assault on his home-run record today by clouting his twenty-seventh homer of the year in the third inning of the Yankees' game with the Cleveland Indians.

Ruth was the first man to face Walter Miller in the inning.

FRISCH RAPS HOMER WITH TWO MEN ON; GRIMES IS ROUTED

By J. Roy Stockton.
Of the Post-Dispatch Sport Staff.

SPORTSMAN'S PARK, June 27.—The Cardinals lost their second straight game to the New York Giants this afternoon. The defeat eliminated the Cardinals' chances of going into third place in the present series.

The score was 9 to 4.

It was Ladies' day, and about 10,000 women passed through the gate. The paid attendance was about 4000.

The umpires were Quigley, Pfirman and Stark.

The game:

FIRST INNING — GIANTS — Critz flied to Watkins. So did Leach. Lindstrom doubled to right. Terry walked. Ott flied to Hafey.

CARDINALS—Douthit flied to Leach. Adams singled to center. Watkins singled to right center, sending Adams to third. Frisch hit on top of the right-field pavilion for a home run, scoring behind Adams and Watkins. Lindstrom threw out Hafey. Gelbert grounded to Terry. THREE RUNS.

SECOND—NEW YORK—Gelbert threw out O'Farrell. Jackson singled to right center. Allen forced Jackson, Adams to Frisch. The Cardinals thought that Umpire Quigley had called a third strike on Pitcher Fitzsimmons and they all walked off the field, only to be called back and informed it was a fourth ball and that Quigley had motioned Fitzsimmons to first base. Grimes tossed out Critz.

CARDINALS—Bottomley flied to Allen. Jackson threw out Wilson. Jackson threw out Grimes.

THIRD — NEW YORK—Frisch threw out Leach. Lindstrom grounded to Gelbert. Terry singled to center. Ott singled through short and when Douthit fumbled the ball, Terry scored and Ott reached second. O'Farrell fouled to Wilson. ONE RUN.

CARDINALS—Douthit flied to Ott. Adams hit in front of the plate and was thrown out by O'Farrell. Watkins flied to Leach.

FOURTH—NEW YORK—Jackson singled to center. Allen singled to center, Jackson stopping at second. Fitzsimmons sacrificed, Gelbert to Frisch. Critz hit to Frisch and Jackson was out at the plate, Frisch to Wilson, Allen reaching third. Leach bounced a home run off the roof of the right field pavilion, scoring behind Allen and Critz. Lindstrom flied to Hafey. THREE RUNS.

CARDINALS —Frisch walked. Hafey hit into a double play, Jackson to Critz to Terry. Jackson threw out Gelbert.

FIFTH—NEW YORK — Terry singled to right. Ott walked. O'Farrell was safe on Frisch's fumble, filling the bases. Jackson hit into a double play, Gelbert to Frisch to Bottomley, Terry scoring. Allen was safe on Adams' fumble, Ott scoring. Grimes threw out Fitzsimmons. TWO RUNS.

CARDINALS—Terry threw out Bottomley, Fitzsimmons covering first. Grimes threw out Wilson. Grimes was awarded first base when catcher O'Farrell tipped his bat. Douthit forced Grimes, Jackson to Critz.

SIXTH—NEW YORK — Critz singled to left. Leach doubled to left center, sending Critz to third. Grimes was taken out and Bell went in to pitch for the Cardinals. Bell threw out Lindstrom. On a high bounder, Critz scoring, and Leach stopping at third. Leach scored on Terry's sacrifice fly to Hafey. Frisch threw out Ott. TWO RUNS.

SEVENTH — GIANTS — Bell threw out O'Farrell. Jackson grounded to Gelbert. Gelbert threw out Allen.

CARDINALS—Lindstrom threw out Gelbert. Bottomley walked. Wilson hit into a double play, Terry to Jackson to Terry.

EIGHTH—NEW YORK— Fitzsimmons singled to center. Critz hit into a double play, Bell to Gelbert to Bottomley. Leach popped to Gelbert.

CARDINALS—High batted for Bell and grounded to Critz. Douthit singled to left, and went to third when Leach missed connections with the ball. Critz threw out Adams, Douthit scoring. Watkins dropped a single in short center. Frisch popped to Lindstrom. ONE RUN.

NINTH—NEW YORK — Grabowski went in to pitch for the Cardinals. Lindstrom doubled to right. Frisch threw out Terry, Lindstrom going to third. Ott walked. O'Farrell bunted for a sacrifice, scoring Lindstrom and sending Ott to second, and on Grabowski's fumble, O'Farrell reached first. Jackson was hit by a pitched ball, filling the bases. Allen hit into a double play, Adams to Frisch to Bottomley. ONE RUN.

The Cardinals failed to score.

By the Associated Press.

POUGHKEEPSIE, N. Y., June 27.—Cornell once again rules the inter-collegiate waters.

Cornell has waited 15 years to pick up the thread of victory cut short by the end of "Pop" Courtney's regime, and has been buffeted about while a new generation of rowing greatness, featuring Washington, Columbia and the Navy, came along to dominate the waters.

Yesterday, through the rough water and the mist that partially shrouded the Hudson, Cornell came back with a startling rush to capture the four-mile varsity race, defeating eight of the finest crews the East, Middle West and Far West could produce.

With a sophomore, Robert M. Wilson of Montclair, N. J., stepping in as a substitute to play a Frank Merriwell role as stroke, Cornell rowed to victory in one of the biggest upsets in the history of the regatta. Syracuse turned up with almost equal unexpectedness as the only serious challenger while the highly favored crews of Columbia, the 1929 champions; Washington and the Navy, each three time winners, struggled far behind.

Cornell Wins by Three Lengths.

Cornell whipped Syracuse by a good three lengths as these two old rivals fought it out alone in the last mile. Scarcely less surprising was the performance of Massachusetts Tech, which set a sensational pace for nearly two miles, yielded doggedly to Cornell's rush and still had the stuff to finish a good third. M. I. T. was five lengths behind Syracuse but in front of all the pre-race favorites as California, Columbia, Washington, Pennsylvania and Wisconsin finished in that order.

Navy, as the climax to the worst afternoon the Sailors have ever experienced in what is usually their own special element, swamped when within 100 yards of the finish and went down.

After a brief spurt at the outset the Sailors never were contenders. The river was whipped to unruliness by a stiff upstream wind and this, along with the disturbance caused by a coast guard vessel, contributed to the shipping of considerable water by Navy, Columbia and Washington. So far as at least the first three or four places were concerned, no untoward circumstances had anything to do with the outcome.

Sub and Bald-Headed Man Help.

Tradition, the coaching of the new mentor of Cornell rowing—Jim Wray—and the inspiration of a brilliant pace setter in the 19-year-old Wilson, all contributed to Cornell's astonishing triumph. Wilson, who became an oarsman by accident with little previous experience, was the third man to stroke Cornell's varsity in three races this season. A third-string substitute, he gained the pivotal seat in the big boat a fortnight before the regatta because of the illness of his commodore, Hod Shoemaker. Yet this youngster, stroking his first big race, rowed with steady confidence, rising to every emergency, as he paced the boat load in which bald-headed, 29-year-old P. J. McManus at No. 5, contributed conspicuous support.

Cornell captured the junior varsity three-mile race in smashing style, beating the favored Washington crew by five and a half lengths. Syracuse beat Cornell's freshman boat by two lengths in the two-mile race that opened the regatta.

Cornell spreadeagled the Jayvee fleet of six entries with Washington, Columbia, Syracuse, Pennsylvania and Navy finishing in that order. Syracuse's freshmen, in their first winning race of the year, topped a field of eight which showed Cornell, Columbia, Pennsylvania, Washington, Navy, California and M. I. T. parading across in that sequence.

Reports circulated that Western crews, dissatisfied with the conditions under which intercollegiate varsity race was rowed yesterday, had threatened not to return to the Hudson next year were described by representatives of the Westerners as "absolutely untrue."

Swiderski to Meet Simms.

CHICAGO, June 27.—Paul Swiderski, the heavy hitting Pole who upset Middleweight Champion Mickey Walker at Louisville May 16, has been signed up for a 10-round match with Frankie Simms of Cleveland as a semi-windup for the Risko-Griffiths card at the Chicago Stadium, July 2.

Sport Salad

by L. C. Davis

His Bushes Mixed.

THERE was a man in our town,
And he was wondrous wise;
He jumped into a razzberry bush,
And scratched out both his eyes.
And when the referee said "foul!"
He said "alas, alack!
I must have got my berries mixed—
I thought it was a black.

And when he found his eyes were out
With all his might and main,
He jumped into another bush
To scratch them in again.
But finding that they still were out
It greatly peeved him as,
It seemed beyond the slightest doubt,
He'd got the same old razz.

And so he muttered, "What's the use!"
Those heavyweights so bold
Are out to kill the willing goose
That lays the eggs of gold."
He then went to an oculist
Who fixed up both his lamps,
And now he can see anything
Except those would-be champs.

Is It Legue-al?

Although there is a law against going to law in baseball, there is no law against going to law to find out if the law against going to law will stand up in court. Hence Milwaukee's suit in re Power House Bennett.

But the fact that Judge Landis is a law unto himself due to powers conferred on him by organized baseball doesn't augur any too well for the Brewers' end of the argument.

The ill wind that blew Clarence Blair into Rogers Hornsby's shoes found "Footsy" with his sails all spread and ready for it. He has so fortified his job that he can now snap his fingers at the trade winds.

In Re Fouls.

Though golf is a game that abounds with birdies, eagles and other members of the feathered kingdom, no one ever heard of a golfer winning a championship on a foul.

Tennis is another good, clean sport in which the players don't attempt to work the foul racket.

Baseball of course is teeming with fouls but they are nearly all of the unintentional kind. Now and then a batter will work in a few premeditated fouls but the best he gets out of it is a base on balls.

There are probably more fouls committed in football than any other sport. But as there are plenty of black eyes but no eye witnesses they can't prove it.

Basketball likewise has its fouls. But that is a personal matter that we'll not go into.

And then there's the boxing game. But why bring that up?

Well, I see where old man ocean has been crossed again by an airplane. It'll soon be as easy as swimming the English channel.

Kingsford-Smith and his three companions arrived only a few days after Junior Lindbergh. Quite a coincidence.

No matter what name they christen the Lindbergh baby we hope the wets won't insist on breaking a bottle of wine across his bow.

Alexander Is Batted Out In Debut at Dallas

By the Associated Press.

DALLAS, Tex., June 27.—A sizzling day proved too much for Grover Cleveland Alexander in his first start for the Dallas (Texas League) baseball club yesterday. Between the heat and the lusty swinging of the Fort Worth Panthers, the veteran star was driven to the showers in the fifth.

More than 8000 fans turned out to greet the hero of two decades of major league ball. They cheered him to the echo when he walked to home plate to receive a basket of flowers before the game began, and they raised the roof again when he went shuffling off the field in the fifth, looking like a tired old man.

His new teammates came to life after his departure and banged out an 18-to-9 triumph.

Fort Worth nicked "Old Pete" for 11 hits and six runs during his stay in the box.

Veteran Horseman Dies.

U. S. PLAYERS STILL WINNING AT WIMBLEDON

By the Associated Press.

WIMBLEDON, June 27.—With the English tennis championships shifting back to the singles today, the Americans continued their victorious march through all opposition.

Two members of the United States Davis Cup team, Wilmer Allison and Gregory Mangin, and Mrs. Helen Wills Moody and Miss Helen Jacobs, America's two foremost women players, came through their matches without much trouble.

Mangin turned in the most surprising victory, when he eliminated Bunny Austin, England No. 1 ranking player in straight sets that stretched over two hours. Allison was forced to four sets before he disposed of G. P. Hughes, British Davis cupper, to go into the semifinal round.

As expected, Mrs. Helen Wills Moody continued her parade through the women's field, defeating Miss M. Canters of Holland with the loss of but one game. Miss Jacobs had equally as easy a time defeating Mrs. W. D. List of England by the same score.

The King and Queen stayed to see Mrs. Moody, the queen of the tennis courts, defeat her sturdy Dutch opponent. Miss Canters displayed a large variety of strokes against the world's foremost women's player but their combined effectiveness enabled her to win only one game, the third of the second set. As usual, Mrs. Moody wasn't extended.

Wilmer Allison and Miss Edith Cross paired to defeat G. R. Sherwell and Miss V. H. Montgomery of England, 3—6, 6—4, 6—2.

Mangin Wins Again.

Mangin continued his brilliant play, when he paired with Miss Sarah Palfrey, Boston star, in the mixed doubles to defeat W. A. R. Collins and Miss G. R. Sterry of England, 6-2, 6-3.

Helen Jacobs, California star, advanced another round in the women's singles championship, defeating Mrs. W. D. List of Great Britain in straight sets, 6-0, 6-1.

In the mixed doubles Elizabeth Ryan and J. Crawford defeated G. G. N. Turnbull and Mrs. J. E. Hill, 6-3, 6-3.

Wilmer Allison of Fort Worth, Tex., defeated G. P. Hughes of England, 4-6, 6-1, 6-2, 6-3.

Mrs. J. L. Colgate and Miss C. Tyrrell defeated Cilly Aussem and Miss M. Palfrey in the women's doubles, 6—8, 6—3, 7—5.

W. T. Tilden, of America, and H. Timmer, of Holland, defeated Landry and Grandguillot, 8—6, 4—6, 4—6, 6—1, 6—4.

Henry Cochet, French tennis star, today defeated H. K. Lester of Great Britain, 6—3, 4—6, 6—3, 6—1.

Johnny Doeg, the California southpaw, joined the American march by defeating H. F. David of England 6—3, 6—3, 6—1.

Doeg's victory over David sent the third American into the last eight, with Tilden and Lott yet to play their fourth round matches. Allison will be confronted with a herculean task tomorrow, when he meets Henri Cochet, the defending champion, in the semifinal. Cochet defeated H. K. Lester of England today but was forced to four sets.

The youthful American pair of Berkeley Bell of Texas and Miss Mary Greer of Kansas City found the experienced game of A. J. Willard of England and Miss S. Payot, the Swiss champion, a puzzle, the English-Swiss couple winning, 3—6, 6—2, 6—3.

FOUR ST. LOUISANS IN ARKANSAS NET EVENT

FORT SMITH, Ark., June 27.—The field of contenders in the Arkansas State tennis singles tournament, which started Wednesday, narrowed down today to eight, all from neighboring states, although one is a former Arkansan.

St. Louis had four stars in the quarter finals, which got under way today. They are Wray D. Brown, Missouri Valley champion; Karl Hodge, Edmund Serrano and Karl Kammann. Arch Holder, the defending champion, of Shreveport, and another Shreveport player, Bill Barrett, and Lasker Ehmann of Austin, Tex., and Paul Belding, formerly of Hot Springs, but now of Mississippi, made up the other quarter-final contenders.

In the quarter-final matches, Holder met Barrett, Belding faced Serrano, Hodge met Brown and Kammann met Ehmann. The finals will be played tomorrow.

Officers of the State Tennis Association will be elected tonight.

CLINSTOCK TO OPPOSE DAVISCOURT, WEDNESDAY

The finish match on next Wednesday night's wrestling card at the Battery A outdoor arena will bring together Dick Daviscourt of California, and Jim Clinstock, Oklahoma Indian, according to an announcement by Promoter Tom Packs. Daviscourt won over Frank Judson, former Harvard wrestling coach, and Clinstock pinned Fred Grobmeier of Harlan, Ia., on Wednesday night's mat card.

Packs is looking for an opponent for George Hagen, who held Rudy Dusek to a draw on the last card. Dusek will be brought back for an important bout on the third outdoor program of the season.

Toltec displayed the most speed, raced into a long lead, tired near the end and had to be roused briskly to withstand Angel Bright. The latter, prominent from the start, was getting to the winner under hard urging. Southland Pal had no mishaps and raced evenly. Princess Dare showed a good effort, held on well in the final drive. Ilso was outrun. Tabeka, outrun to the stretch, made up some ground to finish strong.

$2 mutuels paid: Toltec, win $6.92, place $4.48, show $3.26; Angel Bright, place $9.60, show $6.22; Southland Pal, show $7.20.

SECOND RACE—$800, claiming, 2-year-old maidens, five furlongs. Start good from Waite gate; won easily; place driving. Went to post 2:41; at post 4 minutes. Winner, F. Joan G. broke quickly, was outrun to the stretch, where she gained rapidly, wore down the leaders to win going away. Amour, in close attendance, held on well in the final drive. Constance Ann showed a good effort and was going gamely at the end. Thistle Pattie, hard urged from the start, saved much ground while moving up and finished with good courage. My Jem faltered after setting the pace to the final eighth. Sethlette had no mishap. Sonny Frank, fractious at the barrier, dropped far out of contention and failed to improve his position under punishment.

$2 mutuels paid—Joan G., win, $10.20; place, $4.16; show, $3.18. Amour, place, $3.20; show, $3.12. Constance, show, $12.78.

*Field.

Fig Leaf worked her way up on the outside with a loss of ground, continued gamely after reaching the stretch and was up to win in the last few strides. King Pin, in close quarters during the early stages, got clear entering the stretch, gained rapidly, drew into lead briefly but failed to withstand the winner. Bride O' The Wind raced evenly and held on with good courage in the final drive. Charming Lady gave way after racing prominently to the final eighth. Luck Piece had a rough journey and raced in close quarters throughout. Alamae quit. Tin Hat failed to improve his position under hard urging. Orestes II showed early speed.

$2 mutuels paid: Fig Leaf, win, $8.14; place, $5.48; show, $3.50. King Pin, place, $11.62; show, $4.82. Bride O' The Wind, show, $4.04.

FOURTH RACE—$800, claiming, 3-year-olds and up, mile and 70 yards. Start good from Waite gate; won driving; place same. Went to post 3:44; at post 1 minute. Winner, J. Leiter's br. f. 3, by Donnacona-Lady Finlett. Trainer, W. Hughes. Time, :24, :48, 1:14 1-5, 1:40, 1:45. Value to winner, $650; second, $130; third, $70.

Domina, outrun to the stretch, drew into the lead but was headed by Delmonico, came again during the final strides and outgamed the latter in a strenuous drive. Delmonico moved up strongly rounding stretch turn, went into the lead but failed to withstand the determined challenge of the winner. Marette hustled into the lead soon after the start, gave way badly after going three-quarters. Highway, outrun during the early racing, moved to contention and was used up racing Marette into defeat. The others were outrun.

$2 mutuels paid—Domina, win, $12.40; place, $7.84; show, $4.10. Delmonico, place, $8.88; show, $4.16. Marette, show, $4.50.

Ben Dimond, veteran catcher who has played with several teams in the Western Association, has been appointed an umpire on the league's staff.

RUTH BAILEY IN SEMIFINALS OF DISTRICT MEET

By Davison Obear.

Play in the St. Louis district tennis championship for women players is now in the semi-final round of the singles event as a result of matches completed yesterday afternoon on the Triple A. Club courts. The doubles event has reached the second round.

Medora Steedman, St. Louis Country Club player, provided the outstanding upset in the singles by defeating Lottie Hagemeyer, Forest Park Tennis Club entrant, in a quarter-final round match, yesterday, 6—3, 6—2.

Miss Steedman's superior placements across court gave her the victory. During part of the match Miss Hagemeyer was weak in net volleys. As a result of her victory, Miss Steedman will oppose Ruth Bailey, seeded No. 1, in the semi-finals today.

In another quarter-final singles match, Melicent Endicott defeated Wilma Benson. Miss Endicott won the first set, 6—1, but was forced to closer play in the second. Miss Benson opened strong in the second set, and by consistent play ran up a lead of 4 to 2 in games. Miss Endicott took her service and then lead at 5 to 4, but Miss Benson brought the score to 5-all. Miss Endicott then won two straight games and the set, 7—5.

Miss Bailey Easy Winner.

Ruth Bailey won from Mrs. Florence Probert, 6—0, 6—0, in one of the remaining quarter-final contests, while Mrs. Virginia Duecker defeated Mrs. Zita Cantwell, 6—1, 6—0, in the other.

Mrs. Violet Furlong and Wilma Benson advanced in the doubles play by winning a hard-fought match from Mrs. Anna Lindemann and Ann Kaiman. The winners took the first set, 6—0, but Mrs. Lindemann and Miss Kaiman reversed the order by taking the second set, 6—2, due to good teamwork and placements. The third set was won by Mrs. Furlong and Miss Benson by a 6—2 score, giving them the match. Both teams are O'Fallon Park representatives.

In the singles semi-finals this afternoon, starting at 2 o'clock, Ruth Bailey will oppose Medora Steedman, while Miss Endicott meets Mrs. Virginia Duekel. Miss Bailey and Miss Endicott are expected to advance. Miss Endicott is the defending champion.

Yesterday's Results.

SINGLES.

Quarterfinal Round—Ruth Bailey defeated Mrs. Florence Probert, 6—0, 6—0; Medora Steedman defeated Lottie Hagemeyer, 6—3, 6—2; Mrs. Virginia Duecker defeated Mrs. Ila Cantwell, 6—1, 6—0; Melicent Endicott defeated Wilma Benson, 6—1, 7—5.

DOUBLES.

Second Round—Ruth Bailey and Mrs. Virginia Duecker defeated Medora Steedman and Jane Kaufman, 6—2, 6—2; Louise and Delphine Rauch defeated Mrs. Ethel Shepley and Mrs. Russell Murphy, 6—2, 6—4; Mrs. Violet Furlong and Wilma Benson defeated Mrs. Ann Lindemann and Ann Kaiman, 6—2, 2—6, 6—2.

NIGHT BASEBALL HAS DOUBLED ATTENDANCE IN WESTERN LEAGUE

TOPEKA, Kan., June 26.—Dale Gear, Western League president, today announced attendance so far this season had doubled at Omaha and Des Moines, where night baseball is being played. He said the entire league had shown a substantial attendance increase.

The league president said he would attend the first night game to be played in Oklahoma City July 3, when Topeka meets the Indians under the arcs. He then will return to Topeka for the first night contest here on July 7 when the Senators meet Oklahoma City.

Gear, also president of the Western Association, announced attendance in that circuit at Independence and Muskogee, where night baseball is being played, had been revived. He said Joplin planned to inaugurate night baseball July 1.

WRAY'S Column

New Fight Division Needed.

PRIMO CARNERA is likely to play heck with former fight classifications. At this writing it appears that a new division, the super-heavyweight, may be needed to take care of the men of abnormal size who are now developing or who may in future be developed.

A good big man is better than a good little one. It is no more fair to ask Max Schmeling to fight a Primo Carnera, both being equally advanced in boxing skill, than it would be to force a welterweight to fight Schmeling.

In the olden days the words of Bob Fitzsimmons were accepted as gospel, "The bigger they come the harder they fall." Meaning that mere size meant nothing except that it afforded the opponent a bigger and slower target, and one easier to hit hard.

Big, but That Was All.

IN the past, however, the big men of the ring amounted to little more than cumbersome lubbers with little boxing knowledge. Primo Carnera stands for a new order of heavyweight—that is a super-size heavyweight who at the same time is a real, conditioned athlete.

Since Willard came to the fore there have been a number of new and unusually heavy fighters brought out as prospects. With Carnera coming along there will soon be more discoveries of the sort, emulating him.

When that time comes the fathers of boxing will probably have to group these in the "super" class, consisting, say, of men above 220 pounds.

It's logical and fair. There is no more reason to believe that Jimmy McLarnin can stop Max Schmeling than that Max Schmeling can knock out Carnera.

The difference between a middleweight and the light heavyweight is only 15 pounds. But the difference between a light heavyweight and Carnera is 90 pounds!

Plenty of room for another class in between.

The Betting Angle.

THE foul situation has another angle—betting. Of course to wager on boxing bouts is futile, but the public will do it. And the last four major heavyweight battles have caused plenty of snarls among those who lay their money on the line.

Four fouls, or near fouls, almost have taken the heart out of the speculators. Consider that Von Porat, Sharkey and Godfrey, all favorites and all leading at the time of their mishaps, were beaten by fouls. The men who backed them lost their wagers of course.

What to do about it? Well, if fans must risk the family plate on such things there is only one thing to do—stipulate that the wagers are to be drawn, and the event considered no contest if the affair ends in a foul.

Better still, don't bet at all.

Bring on Bill.

AMERICA'S Davis cup chances are still simmering. Hopes are still entertained that Big Bill Tilden will be enrolled among the actives for the United States Davis cup team.

Probably the Wimbledon tournament, now in progress, will determine Bill's future. Should he come smashing through this event, beating the Frenchmen, it would look peculiar to all the world if he were left off the team. To those who hope to see the cup return to America, it would be the end of their hopes were Tilden not used.

At this time it is highly probable that Tilden could defeat the entire American Davis cup team, one by one, in singles, and need only a couple of days to turn the trick.

Even France ardently desires to have Tilden on the United States team because that insures packed galleries every day of the challenge round.

France is a bit over-confident in this. With Lacoste out of it and with Cochet and Borotra not so "hot" this year, America with Tilden in the lineup would be almost an even-money shot.

Tilden probably would beat Borotra, and might stop Cochet. Lott, too, might defeat Borotra.

It is admitted that the American doubles team is invincible, so that three out of five points would fall to the United States.

Some of our tennis officials may not like Long William; but they need him too badly to ignore him in such a crisis.

Dempsey Silent.

NO WORD from Jack Dempsey. Only a few months ago the wires were singing with the reports that Jack was coming back, to fight Carnera or to challenge Schmeling, if he won the title.

Schmeling has won the crown and Carnera has gone on up the ladder—but Dempsey is silent. It is not even reported that he is in training.

If Dempsey is to appear in a fight this year he must start a slow conditioning process NOW! Getting the rust out of the old fighting machine, after three years, would be a tedious and probably impossible task.

Too bad that Carnera happened along about two years too late. Had Dempsey been still in fighting condition, a meeting between Jack, the irresistible puncher, and that impenetrable mass of bone and muscle, Primo, would have been one of the real gladiatorial epics of modern times.

Dempsey, seemingly, is the only fighter who carries enough artillery to sink the Venetian dreadnaught.

Promoters will turn green when they think that here is a "gate" of at least $2,000,000 lost for want of a little Tex Rickard energy and ballyhoo.

DOLANS WIN LEAGUE TITLE; ACADEMYS TAKE SECOND PLACE

The nine weeks schedule of the Amateur Twilight Soccer League was brought to a close last evening when the German Sports Club and the Cook A. C. played a scoreless tie before about 1000 persons at Sherman Park. The Dolan Football Club won the league championship by holding the Academy Club to a tie on Tuesday evening. Twilight soccer, an experiment in this city, was a success, the promoters feel and it is probable that a similar short season will be attempted in the fall.

The German Club appeared to better advantage last evening than in some of its previous games but, as usual, was weak in the matter of finishing off its scoring moves. Goaltender Bryan of the Cooks was only seriously extended once or twice. The Cooks, on the other hand, were constantly testing Kassler. Pat Reidy's low shot to the corner in the closing minutes was the best effort of the game and Kassler had to throw himself into the goal corner to intercept.

The championship trophy, awarded by the United States Football Association, and the O'Hanlon trophy, to be awarded the club showing the greatest improvement on the season's play, will be presented at the league banquet to be held at the German House, Tuesday, July 8.

LORD GETS LOW GROSS TOTAL IN HANDICAP GOLF

Roger E. Lord, veteran Algonquin Club star, had the low gross score among the low handicap players of the St. Louis District Golf Association in the monthly tournament yesterday. Playing at Normandie, Lord shot 73 over the difficult par 72 course, going out in even par and coming back in 36, one over.

Lord scored birdies on the fourth, eighth, fifteenth and eighteenth holes, the latter a deuce on the very tough par 3 243-yard final hole, while he was two over par on the tenth and one over each on the second and third holes. Roger had a tough break at No. 10, for his second left him on the far side of the ditch to the right of the green, with a tuft of weed only two inches in front of the ball. His attempted pitch shot went straight up in the air, hit the limb of a tree and bounced down again, causing him to take an additional stroke to get on.

In addition to winning low gross prize, Lord paired with K. H. Saunders of Normandie, had the low doubles score, as Roger had 4 strokes handicap, giving him a net 69, while Saunders, with an 84 with 10 off for 74, the pair scoring 143 net.

There were 69 players in the division, and two of them tied for low net with 68, Sid Salomon Jr., Westwood, shooting a 77, with nine strokes handicap, and Richard Fitzgerald, Forest Park, getting a 78, with 10 strokes handicap.

Ewing North Hills Winner.

Togo Hamamoto, star Japanese player from Forest Park, had a hard time getting around in 82, a considerable number of strokes over Togo's game, and it was not until he reached the seventeenth hole that he realized what was the matter. He couldn't get any distance or direction with his tee shots, but not until the round was almost completed did he realize that he was playing with the new-size ball, larger and lighter and more susceptible to influence from the wind. And there was plenty of wind blowing at Normandie yesterday, carrying Togo's ball to the right and to the left or any other direction rather than the one in which he desired to go.

Lord's card, with par:
Out: Par—5 4 3 5 3 4 5 4 4—37
Lord— 5 5 4 4 3 4 5 3 4—37
In: Par—
4 4 3 4 4 5 3 5 3—35 37—72
Lord—
6 4 3 4 4 4 3 6 2—36 37—73

Ken Ewing, of Forest Park, with a score of 86 and a handicap of 20, for a net of 66, showed the way to the other half of the field, which played over the North Hills course. E. V. Maher of North Hills won the low gross prize with 80. In team play, Ewing and A. E. Vieth tied with J. A. Shontz and J. R. Kearney with totals of 143.

REINHARDT TO MEET GEORGE DAW ON PRO FIGHT CARD, MONDAY

In a five-round preliminary match, Joey Reinhardt, hard-punching Salt Lake City fighter, will face Georgie Daw, Pine Lawn welterweight, on Monday night's professional boxing card at the Battery A open-air arena, according to an announcement by Eddie Felix, matchmaker for the Walter Hatefeld Post of the American Legion.

Reinhardt knocked out Jackie Doss, a Choctaw Indian, in an early round on the last Battery fight card.

Daw formerly held the Western A. A. U. walterweight championship and since he has been fighting in the professional ranks he owns a record of five victories and one draw. Mickey Cummings held him to an even point score Bobby La Plante of Hannibal, Mo., is one of the fighters he has beaten.

John Schwake, local heavyweight, and Dave Knost, George Wilsman's protege, engaged in stiff training sessions yesterday in preparation for their 10-round battles. The former meets Chunky Ewing, and the latter faces Joe Brian. Ewing and Brian hail from Indianapolis.

BOBBY JONES BEGINS TRIP BACK TO U. S.

By the Associated Press.

LONDON, June 27.—With the British open and amateur golf championship cups in his baggage, Bobby Jones left London today for New York by way of Southampton. He was accompanied by Cyril Tolley, British golfer. This is the first time that both British golfing cups have left England together.

In strong contrast to the big galleries which followed him around the links at St. Andrews, Hoylake, and elsewhere, Bobby's departure from Waterloo Station was a quiet affair with only a few newspapermen to see him off.

"Don't think I will be able to come across to Britain next year," he said, "in fact you can pretty well take it for granted that I won't be in England in 1931. I could not have been better treated than I have been in your country, but I feel a bit nervous about what is to come. I understand they are planning a big reception for me in New York. I don't know how I am going to get on with that business at all."

Eight-Year Rivalry Between Mrs. Wallace and Virginia Pep Culminates in Match, Tomorrow

By W. J. McGoogan.

Two players who have practically dominated the St. Louis Women's District Golf Association for eight years will meet tomorrow in the final round of the eleventh annual district championship tournament, at the St. Louis Country Club.

The contest will be 36 holes, 18 in the morning, starting at 9 o'clock, and 18 in the afternoon, starting about 1 o'clock. The principals are Mrs. Mahlon B. Wallace Jr., St. Louis Country Club, and Miss Virginia Pep, Midland Valley.

It will be the fourth meeting between the pair in the final match for the title in the past eight years and in each of the four other years one or the other has been a finalist. Miss Pep has won the championship four times and Mrs. Wallace three times. Only once has the combination been broken and that was last season when Mrs. I. S. Hynes of Normandie defeated Mrs. Wallace for the championship. In the three final matches between Mrs. Wallace and Miss Pep, Mrs. Wallace has won twice and Miss Pep once.

Miss Pep's First Victory in 1922.

Miss Pep won the championship first in 1922, defeating Mrs. E. Lansing Ray in the final and repeated her triumph in 1923 at the expense of Mrs. R. J. Kohn. The next year she met Mrs. Wallace in the final for the first time and Mrs. Wallace, then Miss Audrey Faust, won. In 1925 Miss Pep won from Mrs. Hynes in the final match which was Mrs. Hynes' first year in golf.

Miss Pep met and defeated Mrs. Wallace in 1926 and that was the last time Miss Pep has won the title for in 1927 she lost to Mrs. Wallace and in 1928 and 1929 Mrs. Wallace was the finalist, but Mrs. Hynes took Miss Pep's place as her opponent. Mrs. Wallace defeated Mrs. Hynes for her third district championship in 1928 and then lost to Mrs. Hynes last year.

Mrs. Hynes was eliminated by Miss Pep in the second round of the present tournament while Miss Pep and Mrs. Wallace went on to win their semifinal matches yesterday, Mrs. Wallace defeating Mrs. M. J. Isler, Midland Valley, eight and six and Miss Pep winning from Mrs. E M. Brennan, North Hills, five and four.

Miss Pep, of course, is eager to win tomorrow's match and even the count with Mrs. Wallace and it may be the last chance she will have to do so in a district final, for some time at least. Some of the other women in the district have been advancing rapidly, and no doubt Mrs. Wallace and Miss Pep will find it more difficult to reach the final round hereafter.

Other Players Show Improvement.

In addition to Mrs. Hynes, Miss Elizabeth Douglas of the Country Club, who gave Mrs. Wallace such a hard battle in the second round, Mrs. E. M. Brennan, North Hills and Mrs. David R. Calhoun, Country Club, displayed a brand of golf in this tournament which indicates that they will be heard from in future competitions.

Although those who have been following the tournament at the Country Club this week are inclined to make Mrs. Wallace favorite over Miss Pep on the strength of her splendid play so far, Miss Pep also has played well and the one who wins will have to be at her best. Mrs. Wallace has some advantage in playing on her own course but Miss Pep has been able to get around it pretty well all week.

Mrs. Wallace had an even forty on the first nine of her match yesterday and had to play but three additional holes, while Miss Pep had a 44, due to a 9 on No. 6. On the five holes of the second nine she played right close to men's par.

Play in the major flights will be suspended today but there will be semi-final matches in the championship non-qualifiers' flight and in the second flight for non-qualifiers.

This afternoon the annual mixed two-ball foursome will be played with members of the men's and the women's district associations being paired. Between 40 and 50 pairs are expected to compete.

STEVENS, WABASH STAR, IS LEADING BATTER IN INDUSTRIAL LEAGUE

Stevens, of Wabash, is the leading batter of the Y. M. C. A. Industrial Baseball Leagues with an average of .615; Kramer, of Laclede-Christy, is leading No. 3 League with .519; and McDermott, of the Red Goose team, leads No. 2 League with a percentage of .500.

Other leading hitters in No. 1 League besides Stevens are Muskopf Peters, .609; and Bottini, Wabash, .577. Mirkay, of Quick Meal Stove, is second in League No. 2 with .473, while Weiss, of Nooter Boiler, is third with .455. In League No. 3, Kinealy, of Oliver Cadillac and Goetter, of Midwest Piping, are tied for second with .500.

Shapp, of Red Goose, and Menze, of Quick Meal Stove, are leading their division and the whole league in pitching, each having won five games. Grove, of McQuay-Norris, is leading No. 1 League with five games won and one lost, while in No. 3 League, Fowler, of Oliver Cadillac, has won four games and Plowdre, of Laclede-Christy, has won five and lost one.

PLAYGOER II TO START IN CUP EVENT TONIGHT

Playgoer II steps out for his first engagement over the trying five-sixteenths mile course in the Alton Cup race, carded as the ninth event on tonight's greyhound racing program at the Madison Kennel Club and bringing the sensational black juvenile against such top-notch rivals as Fearless Duke, Dry Creek, Grey Buck, Cashoo, Royal Palm, Banjo Encore and Louis Meadows. The Alton Cup will be presented to the owners of the victorious speedster by Joseph E. Goekeo, heading a representative delegation of business men and sports enthusiasts from the thirving East Side industrial center.

The race stands out as one of the best offerings of the season and brings into action the smartest troupe of speedsters sent to the post in a distance engagement at the track since the running of the last Madison Derby. It will afford Playgoer II a chance to avenge the defeat he suffered last week when Fearless Duke defeated him by a length in the Futurity Championship Cup contest. The wonder-pup partly atoned for that setback by winning his last effort, marking the tenth triumph he has scored in the 14 engagements of his career.

Fearless Duke holds the season's record of :32 flat for the five-sixteenths mile route and shares with Professor the track record of :28 1-5 for the futurity. His time for the latter distance is one-fifth of a second faster than the best performance Playgoer II has turned in to date. Cashoo recently covered the five-sixteenths in :32 1-5 while Royal Palm negotiated the distance in :32 2-5 in another recent encounter. All the others in tonight's blue-ribbon field have also chalked up commendable speed performances within the last few weeks.

Dick Skeets, the Baker Kennel's clever white and brindle racer, which covered the distance in the near-record time of :39 4-5 in winning his last race, engages some of Madison's best distance runners in a three-eighths mile feature carded as the fifth event, with Hawke's Gold, Hard-a-Starboard, Hilcourt's Wonder, Glenview Rover and Model Oak among the other contenders.

ST. LOUIS GIRLS ENTER NATIONAL SWIMMING MEET

Two St. Louis girl swimmers, Miss Jane Waite and Miss Charlotta Moran, will compete in the National A. A. U. swimming championships at Long Beach, Cal., it was announced today by Robert Probst, president of the Western A. A. U. Miss Waite will compete in the 100-meter and 400-meter events, and Miss Moran will enter the 220-yard breast stroke event. They plan to depart from St. Louis Monday. Both are members of the St. Louis Women's Swimming Association.

A. A. U. Swimmers in Exhibition.

By the Associated Press.

LOS ANGELES, Cal., June 27.—As a forerunner to the National A. A. U. championships at Long Beach next week, the leading swimmers of the country will appear in an exhibition meet at the Los Angeles Athletic Club tonight.

Two 500-yard free style events will feature the program, with Buster Crabbe of the L. A. A. C. opposing such experts from the East as Al Zorilla and Ray Ruddy, members of the New York A. C. In the women's section, a battle is anticipated bttween Helene Madison, schoolgirl sensation from Seattle, and Josephine McKim of the L. A. A. C., holder of three world's records.

Other expected features will be the 100-yard free style, with George Kojac, New York A. C., meeting Al Schwartz, Illinois A. C., and world's intercollegiate champion, and a matched race between the New York Women's Swimming Association team and a quartet from the L. A. A. C.

NEW DRIVERS TO SHOW IN AUTO EVENTS AT CREVE COEUR SUNDAY

Four prominent dirt track drivers, never before seen here in competition, are entered in Sunday's motor racing program at the new speedway at Upper Creve Coeur Lake, it was announced today by Louis E. "Ed" Montgomery, president of the Greater St. Louis Speedway Association, Inc., on his return from Indianapolis, where he conferred with drivers relative to making Sunday's card the speediest of the season.

The quartet lined up by Montgobery to compete with the 18 previously entered, comprise Leo Kracke of Chicago, owner and driver of No. L-4, which holds the world record for the half-mile dirt track, :22 2-5, which Kracke established last season at Atlanta; Bob Straub of Indianapolis, victor in a 15-mile feaure event at Brazil, Ind., last Sunday; Roscoe L. Ford, Cedar Rapids, Ia., who triumphed in a short event at Milwaukee last Sunday, and who holds track records in various parts of the country; and Bennie Booker of Sullivan, Ind., who has been winning purses regularly this season.

Joe Boyd, full-blooded Indian, who was seen here in the Inaugural, Young Howdy Wilcox, Pat Cunningham, Pete Alberts and other nationally famous drivers have entered the competition for the $1300 in purses Sunday.

The speed trials tomorrow afternoon will be free to the public, but the regular $1 admission will be charged for the Sunday forenoon time trials, it was annoounced by Mart Molloy, track manager.

Caldwell Released Outright.

After the Minneapolis Millers returned First Baseman Bruce Caldwell to the Cleveland Indians, the former Yale star was released outright by the Tribe.

WHICHONE NOT TO BE STARTER IN DWYER STAKE

By the Associated Press.

NEW YORK, June 27.—Whichone, Harry Payne Whitney's star three-year-old, will not start in the Dwyer Stakes at Aqueduct tomorrow, Trainer Tom Healey said today. The colt has two quarter cracks which will prevent him from meeting Gallant Fox for the second time this season.

Although Whichone was named overnight to start in the Dwyer, Trainer Healy announced today he would not start. The withdrawel of the Whitney star leaves the mile and one-half test at the mercy of Gallant Fox, which is expected to go to the post at odds of 1 to 10, or even shorter. His only opponents will be the Rancocas Stable's Limbus and the Wheatley Stable's Flaming, which will be coupled with William Woodward's Star, as both are trained by Sunny Jim Fitzsimmons.

Although the seriousness of the injury to Whichone has not been determined, the two quarter cracks may keep him from the races until late in the fall, thus missing the major 3-year-old events.

"CHUCK" KLEIN FIRST BIG-LEAGUE PLAYER TO COLLECT 100 HITS

By the Associated Press.

CHICAGO, June 27.—"Chuck" Klein of the slugging but errant Phillies is the first major league player to hang up 100 hits in the 1930 campaign.

Klein got three hits for his 100 yesterday in a losing double-header with Pittsburg, while Terry of the Giants fell short by one when he got only one blow in a winning game against St. Louis.

Hodapp of Cleveland has the most hits in the American League with 96, yet neither he nor Klein lead their leagues in hitting.

HOW MUCH EXTRA

© 1930, The Texas Company

ARE YOU GETTING FOR YOUR 3¢ EXTRA?

HERE'S what Texaco-Ethyl gives you for your three cents extra—all that is famous in gasolines! It's dry! It's high test! It's anti-knock!

The Ethyl compound in Texaco-Ethyl assures a smoother, quieter-running engine even on the hottest day—on the highest hill.

The dryness of the gasoline base—the new and better Texaco—assures complete and uniform diffusion of the anti-knock fluid through the manifold into the cylinders of your engine. That means greater power—quicker than ever before—without a sign of a sputter or a hint of knock!

The high-test rating assures quicker starts, extra power and greater mileage.

Nowhere have three cents ever meant so much as at the Texaco-Ethyl pump!

DRY AND GAMBLING RAIDS IN ST. LOUIS

accordance with orders of of Police Gerk for members regular force to supplement work of the gambling and squads police yesterday 19 raids, arresting 19 men two women for violation of the dry and anti-gambling laws.

Those arrested on gambling rges were: Henry A. Dinges, a gist at 2710 Arlington avenue, officers confiscated a mint ding machine, chips of which, said, were redeemable for rchandise, and Andrew Spera at Morgan avenue, where a slot chine was confiscated.

Handbook raids and arrests : At the Fairmount Book Shop, Delmar boulevard, John Fles- at the Yankee Smoke Shop, North Broadway, Frank Saborosch; at a barber shop at 2501 Sullivan avenue, Robert Fasnet.

Captain Mulcahy of the Mounted District, led a raid at 2221 Edward street, discovering a 200-gallon still in operation and arresting Mrs. Mario Antinore, 40 years old. While police were dismantling the still, some alcohol caught fire but they extinguished it before the arrival of the fire department. Three vats, one under the house containing 1000 gallons of mash, were found also.

Other liquor arrests were: At 4555 Gravois avenue, Frank Rudolph; at 3752 Cozens avenue, Richard Stockwell, and at 3140 Washington boulevard, three Negroes.

Other raids, one of which was made with a search warrant, and those arrested were: At 1102A Market street, Robert Roberts; at 603A Walnut street, Mrs. Kitty Toolis; Ora Masterson, in a saloon at 1004 Chestnut street; Michael Stujar of the La Salle Cafe, 4052 Forest Park boulevard; George Marven, at a rooming house at 2A North Twentieth street; Frank Giavononi, at a saloon at 930 Market street; Harry McKenzie, at a saloon at 3552 Olive street; Ray Isabel, a Negro, at the "Famous Dugout," 114 North Cardinal avenue, and Herbert Vaught, in a flat at 5333A Natural Bridge avenue. A total of 556 quarts of beer and 136 quarts of whisky were confiscated at the nine places, police reported.

Boys Hurt in Fall From Box Car.

Walter Rygaliski, 11 years old, 1021 Cass avenue, suffered a cut on the head, and Chester Cieloszyk, 13, 1525 North Eighth street, suffered a fractured right arm yesterday afternoon when they fell in jumping from a box car at Main and O'Fallon streets in an effort to escape from a railroad watchman. Clinton Neef, the watchman, took them to City Hospital for treatment. The boys said they had been searching for pecans in the empty box car.

Springfield (Mo.) Jailer Dies.

SPRINGFIELD, Mo., June 27.—Frank Goodson, 39 years old, City Jailer, died at Police Headquarters yesterday immediately after he had remarked to another officer, "Well, I have to go up and feed the prisoners; there's just 13 of 'em, so I suppose I'm in for some bad luck." He had been complaining for several days of feeling ill.

MILITARY REGIME DUE TO BOLIVIAN REVOLT REPORTED

Dispatch to Buenos Aires Newspaper Says Provisional Government at La Paz Has Resigned.

RIOTS IN CAPITAL INCITED BY GIRL

More Than 40 Killed in Streets When Police Fire Machine Guns Mounted on Trucks.

By the Associated Press.

BUENOS AIRES, June 27. — A La Nacion dispatch from Arequipa says the provisional Government of Bolivia at La Paz has resigned as a result of the revolt this week and that a military committee is in charge. The dispatch, giving as its authority Bautista Saavedra, former Vice President of Bolivia, adds that the Government now has only two army corps which have taken positions on Murillo Square and Comercio street to fight the rebels. He said he thought the revolution had been successful.

By the Associated Press.

LIMA, Peru, June 27.—Spurred by the martyrdom of a young Bolivian girl, who had urged the men of La Paz to strike in defense of their liberties, a mob in that city Sunday fought vainly against police.

The gendarmes mounting machine guns on trucks, repulsed wave after wave of the enraged citizens, until finally 40 or more lay dead on the streets, and more than 50 lay wounded.

The demonstrators then took the bodies of the girl and a boy student companion whom the police also killed and carried them to every part of the city, exhibiting them as evidence of what was called an outrage perpetrated by those whose duty was to defend.

Again Monday, when a public burial was sought for the dead, the police dispersed the crowds with gun fire and others were killed and wounded.

Bautista Saavedra, former vice president of Bolivia, in a telegram from Arequipa, Chile, today said there had been a heavy loss of life in fighting in La Paz, Wednesday night. His message follows:

"The rebels are dominating the situation and I can assert that the only Government positions are the Government palace and Commercio street.

"It is known that the number killed last night in La Paz is great, among them many socially prominent persons."

Previous telegrams from the former Vice President had said that the Military College, aided by civilian and other military elements, revolted and defeated the loyal Yngavi regiment.

Saavedra blames the President-resigned, Hernando Siles, and the German commander of the Bolivian armies, Gen. Kundt, who has supported Siles, for the sanguinary disturbances. The revolutionary elements charge that Siles attempted to have himself re-elected President in defiance of the Constitution.

Artillery Chiefs Declare Aims of Revolution.

By the Associated Press.

SANTIAGO DE CHILE, June 27. —Chiefs of the Camacho artillery regiment at Oruro, Bolivia, have made public a manifesto listing aims of their movement against the Bolivian Government. The manifesto follows:

"It is resolved, first, to disavow the existing Government as unconstitutional.

"Second, to constitute a military directorate which will be formed exclusively of elements of known highest intellectual attainment and patriotism.

"Third, that the military directorate will contain six members who will assume immediately the government of the country with all its responsibilities.

"Fourth, to establish contact with civil bodies, and invite them to prepare to establish a civil regime.

"Fifth, that after 30 days, when the directorate will have established itself, a general amnesty will be granted permitting return to the country of all exiles, civil and military, most of whom are persons whose services the country needs.

"Sixth, to support decidedly all acts of the military directorate while the political parties are being reorganized, that they may arrange a free plebiscite to call a first magistrate of the nation who will be genuinely representative of the people.

"Signed this twenty-fifth day of June, 1930, in Oruro, by Lieutenant-Colonel Jose Luis Serrano, Lieutenant-Colonel Emilio Gonzales Quindt and Maj. Julio Fernandez."

THE CRIME AGAINST TEMPERANCE

By Ex-Senator James A. Reed

A Series of Articles Indicting Prohibition on Eighteen Counts

'With a Club Over Congress, The Drys Forge Fiercer Laws To Punish Those Who Disobey'

"Many People Seem to Have Conceived the Idea That Whatsoever Is Done Under the Form of a Statute Is Just and Righteous, That Law Can Sanctify Cruelty."

ARTICLE V.

Intolerance — Heart of Prohibition.

I HAVE already stated that national prohibition was enacted at the demand of the Anti-Saloon League. At the head of that organization and its presiding genius was the late Dr. Wayne B. Wheeler. His official biographer, himself a member of the League's staff, describes him far more vigorously than I can ever hope to do. Justin Steuart was Dr. Wheeler's publicity secretary and knew his subject intimately. Here is his estimate of the man:

> Wayne B. Wheeler controlled six Congresses, dictated to two Presidents of the United States, directed legislation in most of the states of the Union, picked the candidates for the more important elective state and Federal offices, held the balance of power in both Republican and Democratic parties, distributed more patronage than any dozen other men, supervised a Federal bureau from outside without official authority. . . . A tireless opportunist, he dramatized himself as a mighty St. George fighting single-handed against a swarm of dragons. . . . He loved power. . . . His favorite text was: "The powers that be are ordained of God." . . . He was an exponent of force. . . . He preferred threats to persuasion. . . . He desired the most severe penalties, the most aggressive policies, even to calling out the army and navy, the most relentless prosecution. A favorite phrase was: "We'll make them believe in punishment after death."

Such was the man and such is the spirit that has permeated our country. It has usurped the kindly persuasion and gentle ministrations of the temperance folk of a few years ago. The doctrine of force espoused by Wayne B. Wheeler has supplanted the spirit of charity and love taught by Jesus Christ. Formerly we sought to persuade. Now these apostles of reform by persecution assert that they will compel.

"We'll make them believe in punishment after death," we, "the powers that be," who are "ordained of God." Can the sunlight of this day harbor the foul blackness of such a fanatical creed? Unfortunately we are in the toils of it, the spirit of persecution has fastened itself upon us.

"The torments of the wicked in hell occasion no grief to the saints in heaven." That was the bigot's doctrine, Jonathan Edwards' creed of 195 years ago, and it still lives today. Through penalties, threats and force, a cowering, sinful people will be lashed into obedience if not into moral grace.

That is the philosophy of the present day professional prohibition reformer. It lives on into today. In the current copy of "The American Issue," official organ of the Anti-Saloon League, the Rev. Ernest H. Cherrington characterizes the conscious law violator as "a dangerous individual of vicious instincts and of criminal mind. . . . He belongs behind the bars."

Vengefulness of Zealots.

At least under old Jonathan's creed, the wicked were not consigned to eternal torment until after death. According to the improvements of his contemporary successors, which have been enacted into the prohibitory laws, the wicked are imprisoned on earth, in a crowded penitentiary, where they may be roasted alive or shot to death by machine-gun fire.

There might be some chance for a sinner to escape the flames of torment. Hell-fire is not as effective as it once was. But from the modern persecutors there is no escape. "Punish them while still alive." The professional reformer will see to that.

With a club over Congress, the professional drys forge the links of intolerance into fiercer and still fiercer laws to punish those who disobey them. They will secure appropriations to build more penitentiaries to hold the ever increasing stream of convicts.

Last month the Warden of the Federal Penitentiary at Atlanta telephoned to the Attorney-General of the United States that in a prison "built for less than 2000 . . . he had 3900 at Atlanta and a couple of hundred more on the rails, and he did not know just where to put them."

The terrible holocaust in dry Ohio is a reminder of unspeakable conditions there. In a prison crammed to twice its capacity, 317 convicts were burned to death. At the investigation following the disaster, prisoners testified to revolting sanitary conditions.

In my own State of Missouri, the Warden of the penitentiary admits a daily fear of prison mutiny. At Jefferson City 4052 prisoners are housed in cells that were constructed to hold 2661.

These shameful figures can be equaled in every state and in many surpassed. There are at least 125,000 prisoners in Federal and state penal institutions. This does not take into account the city and county jails which are as badly overcrowded.

But the reformers will know what to do. They will see that there is standing room at least for every culprit.

The proudest boast of the prohibition zealot is the number of convictions secured. In a speech made last year, Senator Morris Sheppard eulogized prohibition and revelled that the following admirable results had been obtained:

78,000 arrests in the Federal Courts,"—78,000 human beings upon whom the law laid its heavy hand. "58,000 prison sentences,"—58,000 men and women of vicious instincts and of criminal minds . . . behind the bars. That is prohibition's crown of glory. "Aggregate of all sentences 5631 years." If the prohibitory agents had locked Adam up for his law violations in the Garden of Eden, he could have just about served out that period of time, if fundamentalist chronology is to be relied on. "Suspended and pardoned sentences, 4627 years; probated sentences 2265 years.

In the opinion of the distinguished Senator, the number of prison sentences imposed is the yard-stick by which to measure the success of prohibition. Therefore he compared these figures with those for 1927. In that year, arrests totaled 51,945; convictions, 36,546; sentenced to prison, 11,818.

More Arrest, More Success.

As the sentences for 1928 were much greater than for 1927, the Senator insists that prohibition is becoming progressively successful. We are arresting more people every year, sending more people to prison every year, ruining more men and women every year, taking more fathers and husbands from their families, destroying them body and soul, branding them so that as they go down the ways of life their names will be the names of criminals and outcasts upon the lips of all people—more, more and more of that every year; hence prohibition is a glorious success.

"The basic principle underlying the eighteenth amendment is the Master's teaching concerning human brotherhood." This is the latest revelation of Bishop James Cannon Jr., the ecclesiastical philosopher and speculator upon things divine and mundane, as handed down to us in a recent issue of the Forum magazine.

In two short years 125,000 to 130,000 have been jailed. human beings, with souls to be ransomed or destroyed. Into prison cells in contact with vice, with every form of loathsome crime, these men, made criminals themselves by law, were thrust and thereby you think you serve the good and merciful God, fulfill the law, and justify "the Master's teaching concerning human brotherhood."

Many people seem to have conceived the idea that whatsoever is done under the form of a statute is just and righteous; that law can sanctify any cruelty, any atrocity.

What is law?

Tortured by Authority of Law

A proper law is a rule of conduct springing from common custom and ordained by general consent.

It must be more than that; it must be founded upon justice; it must experss equity and right; it must be humane in its provisions. Such a law commends itself naturally to the intelligence and appeals to the soul of mankind.

Unfortunately, justice, equity and humanity are not inherent attributes of law. There have been also improper laws, corrupt laws and laws that corrupt. An unjust law, a cruel law may be as much a crime as is the act of an individual who assassinates in the dark.

Intolerance Under the Law.

Law has been the tool of tyranny, the instrument of intolerance, the weapon of brute force, since time began. The atrocitites of the world have been cloaked and badged with law. The Savior of mankind was crucified according to Roman law and with the sanction of Jewish law. This was the formula whereby His Person was demanded. "We have a law and by our law he ought to die."

John Calvin roasted Servetus, the foremost physician of his day, by authority of the laws of Geneva and, as he pretended, at the direct command of God.

The Salem witches were hanged in accordance with the due process of law, after legal indictment, trial and conviction.

The monsters who proclaimed such laws, the wretches who drove the nails, piled the faggots, and applied the brand, were as great criminals as though they had acted against the express letter of the law. Such laws were nothing but harsh commandments for the perpetuation of villainies.

It is urged that a majority may dictate any kind of law, however brutal, however unjust, however atrocious. Such was not the doctrine of the founders of this republic. They declared that all just laws spring from the consent of the governed. They forbade cruel and unusual punishment. They set bounds to the authority of government itself. They created checks and balances to preserve the liberty of the citizen. As they unfurled the battle flags of the revolution, they asserted that all men were entitled to life, liberty, and the pursuit of happiness, and that all just laws were established to preserve these inalienable rights.

The British Government dragged our ancestors across the sea and put them to trial according to the laws of England. The laws were atrocious, the penalties were cruel, and our fathers repudiated both England and her laws. Both in England and in the colonies, there was written into the laws the heavy penalty of death for offenses, trivial and involving no moral turpitude in their commission. Men could be thrown inot prison for killing a rabbit or even hanged for trespass or the theft of a sheep.

Dry Penalties Too Severe.

The Judges who pronounced sentence and the officers who dragged the victims to the gallows were as certainly murderers as they would have been if no form of law had been observed. The "it is hereby decreed" of a despot exercising authority and the "be it enacted" of a few men gathered together in legislative assembly are alike powerless to make wrong right or rob cruelty of its criminality.

The penalties of the prohibitory laws are altogether out of harmony with the rest of our criminal statutes. For a single act in violation of them, penalties can be piled up that will put the culprit in the penitentiary for a long period of years. A boy who delivers a jug of moonshine can be indicted for possession; he can be indicted for transportation; he can be indicted for conspiracy to violate a Federal statute. He can also be tried under State codes, and conviction by the States does not bar conviction under Federal laws. Penalties may be imposed for the simple act of transporting a bottle of liquor that are far greater than those frequently visited upon the thief and the killer.

It is hard to believe that any human being would want to send a lad to the penitentiary for carrying a pint of liquor. It is hard to believe that in a civilized country we would tear a father from his family, disgrace the wife, their children and brand them forever with a mark that time could not erase because that father sold a quart of liquor or a bottle of beer to a man who wanted to buy.

Recently I read of a single violation of the prohibitory law, which sent 29 heads of families to jail and left 29 families destitute and dependent upon private charity for their existence. Here is what had happened: The fishing season in the village of Ocean City, Md., had been poor and work was scarce. A sea-going rum-runner arrived. To these two facts add prohibition, with the result that 29 fisher-folk are in jail charged with smuggling. That is more criminals than have been corralled in the little town's 400-year history.

Despicable Informers.

They were promised $25 apiece for a night's work. Of course, they did not get the money when they were detected and arrested. Some of their families are ill, one wife is mentally unbalanced, all of them are destitute. In all, there are 114 persons affected, including 40 children under 10 years of age. One of the prisoners had pleaded that they be allowed to leave the jail during the day, so that they can work and help their suffering families. The town is a tourist resort and one reporter has shrewdly suggested that Gen. Wickersham's Crime Commission might profitably spend an invigorating week-

WAR VETERANS' PENSION FIGHT SHIFTS TO SENATE

FIRST YEAR'S COST PUT AT $50,000,000

Legislation Provides Payments of $12 to $40 a Month to Those of 90 or More Day's Service.

By CHARLES G. ROSS,
Chief Washington Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch.

WASHINGTON, June 27.—The fight over World War veterans' pension legislation shifted today to the Senate where the Finance Committee began consideration of the Johnson bill passed by the House yesterday by a vote of 365 to four.

Passage of this bill, following hard upon approval of the President's veto of the Rankin bill, represented a temporary victory for the administration but it did not wholly clear away the embarrassment brought upon Mr. Hoover by veterans' relief legislation.

The victory was obtained at the price of seeing written into World War relief legislation, for the first time, the principle of a general disability pension. If World War legislation continues to follow the precedent established after the Civil War, the general disability pension will, in due course, be followed by an old age pension for former soldiers regardless of the state of their health.

The Senate Finance Committee was told by Senator Watson of Indiana, the Republican leader, that the President favored the Johnson bill as it camef rom the House.

The committee, in a long secret session, heard testimony from Gen. T. Hines, director of the Veterans' Bureau, who supported the House bill, and from John T. Taylor, legislative agent of the American Legion. The decision of the committee was not expected before late today or tomorrow.

$12 to $40 a Month Pension.

The Johnson bill, which was said by its sponsors to have the approval of the President, provides for payments of $12 to $40 a month to non-income-taxpaying veterans of 90 or more days' service who can show a disability of at least 25 cent that was not the result of "willful misconduct."

Its estimated cost the first year is $50,000,000, as compared with an estimated initial cost of the vetoed bill amounting to $102,000,000.

Rankin-bill advocates in the House got on the bandwagon for the Johnson bill after the veto of the former had been sustained by a surprisingly large vote—188 for the veto to 182 against it—but in so doing many of them expressed the view that the rates would be increased in the Senate.

For 10 Per Cent Disability.

Senators Walsh of Massachusetts and Connally of Texas, Democrats, who were among the first to propose a general disability pension scheme as an extension of the present compensation law, announced at once that they would seek to provide a scale starting with $20 and running up to $60 and lowering the required degree of disability to 10 per cent. This proposal would bring the World War scale into line with the Spanish War scale recently made effective over the President's veto and would add materially to the estimated $50,000,000 cost.

The proposed increase to the Spanish War rates was opposed in the House yesterday, by friends of the Johnson bill, on the ground that the average World War veteran is a younger man by 25 years than the average Spanish War veteran.

"The 25 per cent disability," said Congressman La Guardia (Rep.), New York, a World War veteran, "is a far greater handicap to a man of 55 or 60 years of age than to a man of 25 or 30 years. Also bear in mind that the Spanish War veteran waited a great many years before obtaining his first pension. It was far less than the provisions and the rates contained in the present bill. If, after 12 years, the World War veterans obtain a pension law with the rates contained in the present bill, 25 years from now they will be far better off in the way of rates than their brothers of the Spanish War are today."

Outcome Is Uncertain.

Walsh and Connally expressed confidence that their amendment would be approved by the Finance Committee and on the Senate floor. If this prediction is correct, the fight over pensions will be reopened with the outcome uncertain. Administration leaders declared that acceptance of the Johnson compromise was necessary to bring about veterans relief legislation at this session.

The Johnson compromise salvages from the discarded bill several important features to which the President did not object in his veto message. One of these grants an extra $25 a month compensation to a veteran who lost a hand or foot in the service and another admits lay evidence in the adjudication of claims.

It is estimated that these provisions will cost, respectively, $1,000,000 and $1,400,000 a year.

By the Associated Press.

HAMBURG, Germany, June 27.—A fine of $1,200,000 was imposed yesterday by a court on a German liquor smuggler and two accomplices.

Albert Schramm and his aids were caught smuggling 150,000 tons of spirits into Germany from a free port. In German currency the fine amounted to 5,238,456 marks.

German law prescribes a fine 100 times the normal duty for tax evasion, plus heavy penalty for smuggling.

POPE RECEIVES PRELATES AND GIVES AUDIENCE TO PILGRIMS

Reports of Pontiff's Illness Discredited by Variety and Extent of His Activities.

VATICAN CITY, June 26.—Reports that Pope Pius XI is ill were belied yesterday by the variety and extent of activities in which he engaged, both in public and private. His health appeared neither better nor worse than it has been for the last three years.

Among the prelates and distinguished visitors the Pontiff received in his library were Cardinal Cerretti, Bishop Lamarche of Chicoutimi, Canada; Bishop Walsh of Newark, N. J.; Mgr. Kurteff, Apostolic administrator of the Bulgaria Byzantines, and Father Ledechowski, superior general of the Jesuits.

Bishop Walsh said after his audience that the Pope was obviously in good health and spoke with a strong voice. The Pope appeared to have recovered completely, he said, from last Sunday's fatigue when he presided in a canonization ceremony lasting from 8 a. m. until 12:50 p. m.

The Pope also gave a general audience yesterday to 110 pilgrims from Upper Silesia and 40 from Berlin. In the latter group were two pairs who had just been married in the Church of Santa Maria del Anima here. The Pope congratulated them in German.

SEVERE STORMS IN FRANCE

Worst Catastrophe in Department of Gard in Years.

By the Associated Press.

PARIS, June 27.—Southern France, particularly the lower Rhone Valley and the Departments of Gard and Adreche, suffered heavily from violent storms yesterday. Towns were inundated, buildings wrecked, crops ruined and railways and highways put out of order. Extent of the damage has not been determined.

The Department of Gard suffered most. The hospital was flooded at Pont Saint Esprit. It was regarded as the greatest catastrophe in the section since 1860.

Three Hindus and Sikhs Denounce Commission's Recommendations and Burn Copy of Them.

By the Associated Press.

SIMLA, India, June 27.—Thousands of Indians followed a donkey wearing foreign clothes and an English hat and carrying a copy of the Simon Commission report through the streets of India's summer capital today. The procession wound up at the grain market, where a mass meeting was held. Hindu and Sikh speakers condemned the report. A copy was publicly burned.

At Delhi police made a two-hour search of the premises of the All-India Congress Committee and the Satyagraha Ashram, or self-government college. They remover copies of a pamphlet calling upon the police and military to resign. No arrests were made.

Leaders of British Parties Hold Conference on India.

By the Associated Press.

LONDON, June 27.—A conference on the situation in India was held by the leaders of all British political parties in the Prime Minister's room at the House of Commons last evening.

Prime Minister MacDonald, Capt. Wedgwood Benn, Secretary for India; Stanley Baldwin, Conservative leader and former Premier; David Lloyd George, Liberal leader and former Premier; Sir Austen Chamberlain, and the Earl of Reading, a former Viceroy of India, participated in the meeting.

No official statement of the proceedings was issued. It is understood they were concerned mainly with preliminary arrangements for the Indian conference in London next October.

Opposes City-County Plan.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch.

A PETITION to amend the State Constitution, having to do with the consolidation of city and county, is being circulated and the Post-Dispatch should give it the check and double-check. Under the proposed amendment there would be created the "City of Greater St. Louis" with a governing body or council, a separate police force, various departments and with full powers of taxation, legislation and administration; the City of St. Louis would be continued with its Mayor, the president of the Board of Aldermen, Comptroller and board of 28 Aldermen, with full powers of taxation, legislation and administration; all county municipalities, some 40 in number, with Mayors and Boards of Aldermen with full powers of taxation would be continued; there would be created "one or more municipal corporations" with complement of officers and powers of taxation; and St. Louis County would be "retained" for purpose of maintaining the county offices and courts, with full powers of taxation to provide for compensation of county officers.

Such a pyramid of governments, such systems of municipal administration, such conglomeration of independent authorities, each with taxing and administrative powers, will not appeal to a progressive, economic and forward looking people. We want fewer governments, not more governments.

The plan contemplates the divestment of departments from the City of St. Louis and their transfer to the "City of Greater St. Louis." In a political campaign, under a separate vote of city and county, such emasculation of the city government will certainly be uncovered and will defeat the whole plan.

Sub-section five of the petition, dealing with franchises, demands the talents of all the lawyers of Philadelphia to define it, and the Supreme Court would be construing it, if adopted, for the next 100 years. It even attempts to control the courts, as it directs how it shall be "construed."

Sub-section seven provides that "whenever petitions, including the full text of a charter," shall be filed, an election shall be held. It does not provide for a legally constituted body of freeholders, delegates or commissioners to prepare and draft a charter. It leaves it to Tom, Dick and Harry. In the 100 years of the State's history, no such contrivance has yet found its way into the Constitution. Shall we change history, tradition and safety?

Of course, somebody expects to write the charter. But who will it be? What will be put in it? Who will be interested?

In a recent newspaper account of a meeting in connection with the proposed amendment, a speaker was reported as saying, "We will take care of the problem of granting franchises to public utilities." Who is "we"? We are curious to know. Should not the Post-Dispatch examine this extraordinary clause and inform the public?

This proposed constitutional amendment contains 3256 words. It is not an amendment. It is a compilation and code of town ordinances. Under the Supreme Court decision in State vs. Roach, 230 Mo. 408, it will be the duty of the Secretary of State to reject it. In that event we can go ahead under the present Constitution, appoint a Board of Freeholders, nine from county and nine from city, and a consolidation plan will be quickly submitted, and, considering existing conditions, will be adopted.

We are told that the basis of the whole proposition is this: that the plan when adopted will be so unsatisfactory, so complicated and complex that we will move to adopt some other plan at once. In other words, we are asked to vote for a plan that we don't want so as to make ourselves adopt another plan we know nothing about. No man of sense and understanding, when informed, will vote that way.

A "JAKE-LEGGED" man arrested at Russellville, Ark., was found to be carrying a bottle bearing the following label: "Arkansas Razorback Moonshine. Aged in the woods, bottled in the barn. Funeral services arranged later." The bootlegger's trademark was a razorback hog.

At Brockton, Mass., recently, a one-eyed man was arrested for driving a one-eyed Ford on the sidewalk. He resisted the law and lost his glass eye. When he saw the optic again it was the target in a game of marbles. The boy who found it had won 500 marbles with it.

After colliding with another autmobile an undertaker of Lenoir, N. C., was arrested and charged with driving a hearse while drunk. Whether said undertaker was lushed on giggle soup or formaldehyde deponent saith not. Evidently business wasn't so good.

WAR'S REAL MENACE.

Speaking at the Rotary International's silver jubilee anniversary in Chicago, Sir Henry Worth Thornton, chairman of the Canadian National Railways, touched the quick of the tariff question when he said that industry's competition in seeking adequate markets for products was the real menace to world peace. He called attention to the effect upon international relations of tariff barriers to trade. They create friction and hostility, which endanger peace.

Not only the power but the actual life of modern nations depend upon trade. The sources of raw material, and markets for manufactured products, are national necessities. In ancient days nations fought for conquest and enriched themselves through loot and exploitation. They levied tribute on conquered peoples. In modern days nations enrich themselves through trade, and up to the present time armies and navies have been the adjuncts of trade expansion. The struggle for colonies, which was at its height when the World War broke out, was a competition for raw materials and new markets. At the bottom of the naval competition between Germany and Great Britain was commercial rivalry. Germany wanted a great navy to promote and protect her world trade. Great Britain feared the overthrow of her supremacy in world markets. So in its last analysis the place in the sun for which all nations are striving is the advantage of cheap raw material and profitable markets.

Great Britain insisted at the naval limitations conference on a large number of light cruisers for the purpose of protecting her trade routes and her food supply. The United States must build up to Britain's naval needs with equivalent warships in order to maintain parity. France and Italy could not agree because Italy is ambitious for expansion, which threatens France's advantages in colonial possessions. Until we understand the real motives that underlie these rivalries we cannot have comprehension of the controlling factor in the international situation. Imperialism, religion and statecraft, to which Sir Henry ascribed past wars, are passing, and in this Machine Age commercial rivalries take their place.

It is futile, therefore, to talk peace and hold peace conferences for the purpose of reducing armaments and not find a workable solution of the great problem which confronts every nation in the world. That problem is the opportunity to obtain raw materials and dispose of industrial products. The great prosperity of the United States has rested upon our vast natural resources and our great domestic market, caused by the free interchange of the raw materials and products of all the states.

Our situation, however, has changed and is continuing to change. We have built up a vast and efficient industrial machine which produces far more than our own people can consume. We have both an industrial and an agricultural surplus for which we must find markets. Other nations are in an even worse position than we are, having limited resources, restricted areas and smaller domestic markets. In order to live and thrive they must find markets. The struggle for new markets is growing in intensity.

Our policy, however, embodied in the new tariff law, is to shut off all other nations from our own great domestic market. We have notified them that we will not permit them to sell goods in the United States. We have put up barriers against trade that are practically prohibitive. But we want to trade with them; we want their markets. Retaining all the advantages of our own domestic market, we propose to dump our surplus products on other nations. This policy is not confined alone to the United States, but to a certain extent has been followed throughout the civilized world. Trade barriers have been built on every side, but we are the leading exemplar of the policy of restricted trade. In the long run this policy is suicidal because there cannot be trade without exchange of commodities. The ideal condition, as Mr. Ford said, is co-operative trade, reciprocal exchange, in which each nation sells to the others what it can make cheapest and best. Thus opportunity is given to all to develop their resources and industries and to profit by them.

What the world needs now more than anything else is freer trade and commercial co-operation to revive prosperity for all.

It is reassuring to find for the first time in the history of tariff legislation leading manufacturers, outside the immediate beneficiaries of tariff graft, and business men in general protesting against this damaging policy. Doubtless it was necessary for us to suffer from this extreme greed of the tariff plunderbund to bring American business men to realize its folly. Not only is it the enemy of prosperity, but it is the enemy of peace and of friendly and cordial international relations. Persistence in it will make peace treaties and armament agreements mere scraps of paper.

THAT NOISE ORDINANCE.

Mayor Miller has announced he will veto the anti-noise ordinance because, says he, "With that ordinance we would have to stop running street cars and I couldn't play my radio," and some contractors are going to complain about the measure.

St. Louis in this ordinance has a chance to take a place with leading cities of the nation and the world which have recognized what a toll noise takes of their citizens' nerves, how it adds to the perils of city life and how it depreciates property values. They have found that anti-noise legislation interferes with no one's legitimate rights and the absence of pandemonium makes for better places to live.

Even previous to the Board of Aldermen's action in passing the measure, there had been many indications that St. Louis wanted to keep up with other cities in outlawing unnecessary noise. Director of Streets Brooks, in acting last fall to silence air compressors and steam shovel exhausts, indicated the trend of opinion. Citizens' groups have protested against public loud speakers and other nuisances. The people are ready to co-operate with such a measure.

Mayor Miller need not worry about violating the ordinance with his own radio, unless he intends to use it for advertising purposes between 9 p. m. and 7 a. m., which is forbidden by the ordinance. Nor do street cars come under its provisions if they are kept in repair and do not make unnecessary noise. New York has found that "many of the building construction noises are avoidable," according to the treasurer of the Park Avenue Association. Many of the migrants from St. Louis to the county doubtless moved in search of quiet. The proposed ordinance would bring a large measure of relief, and deserves serious consideration by the Mayor.

THE NEW YORK RAIDS.

At a season when thousands of Americans are enjoying the freedom of other lands, the dry raids in New York afford a contrast that cannot escape popular observation.

Before the shock troops of the prohibition department swept down upon the diners, there was nothing at the roof garden of the Ritz-Carlton or the exclusive Central Park Casino to distinguish these places from others of their kind all over the world. The people who were eating and drinking there might have been doing so in any European or South American metropolis undisturbed by any eccentric notion of what they might better be doing. It is this sort of thing in the United States that has made the rest of the world wonder. There was no disorder, the diners were exactly like other diners everywhere else, and to the observer unfamiliar with the anomalous situation in the United States nothing could have been more incredible than that the places should be raided. Perhaps the following bit from the news best illustrates this unbelievable tale:

> At the Casino, one of the most expensive and fashionable eating and dancing resorts in the city, about 600 persons were in the dining room when the raid occurred.
> One of the four agents in evening clothes seated in the dining room rose and went to the veranda, where he signaled with his arms. Sixteen other agents who had been hidden in the Central Park shrubbery surrounding the Casino dashed from their places of concealment. At the same time an automobile filled with agents arrived.
> The music was stopped and the agents swarmed among the tables snatching bottles. Persons arrested were herded into the ballroom to await the arrival of patrol wagons to take them to the station. Woman companions of the men arrested were ordered to leave.
> The Casino was a scene of disorder. Guests accused the agents of being rude to women and there were shouts and threats. Many women disobeyed the orders to remain in their places and fled toward the exits.

Imagine such a scene in London, Paris, Berlin, Buenos Aires, the City of Mexico, Shanghai, Sydney, Tokio. It is with such absurdities that prohibition has at once made us ridiculous and cooked its own goose.

OUR CASH REGISTER CIVILIZATION.

We suppose it is inevitable that in a dollars-and-cents civilization like ours, nothing can escape the possibility of commercialization. Thus, when the rumor spread that a Lindbergh baby was on the way, postcard vendors, songwriters and others undertook to capitalize the event. Floods of hideous postcards were put on the market weeks ago announcing the forthcoming birth, and now a rash of cheaply sentimental "Baby Lindy" songs has appeared to plague and irritate a private family. We sympathize with Col. Lindbergh, whose good taste and dignity have been demonstrated on countless occasions, and whose great precautions against just this sort of thing have proved ineffectual.

CIVIL LIBERTY IN AMERICA.

The American Civil Liberties Union has issued its annual report covering violations of civil liberties in the United States for the past year.

It finds that 920 free speech prosecutions were brought in the first three months of 1930 as against 36 in the same period last year; five young women in prison in California for displaying a red flag; three men imprisoned for sedition in Pennsylvania; three persons convicted in Ohio for distributing Communist literature in a coal strike district; three coal and iron police acquitted in Pennsylvania after the brutal murder of a miner; 12 workers and union organizers in prison in North Carolina following the violence growing out of the textile strike.

Meanwhile, no one has been punished for the deaths of seven workers killed in the strike; Mooney and Billings are still in prison in California for a crime the Judge and jury who convicted them now say they did not commit; Harry Canter is in prison in Boston for carrying a placard reading "Fuller, murderer of Sacco and Vanzetti," and four persons have been denied citizenship for refusing to bear arms in battle.

So the record runs on.

"If there is any principle of the Constitution that more imperatively calls for attachment than any other," said Justice Holmes, "it is the principle of free thought; not free thought for those who agree with us, but freedom for the thought we hate."

In the land of the free, the battle for freedom is never-ending. The Civil Liberties Union is fighting many of these cases in the courts. True friends of civil liberty should support it in its work.

KEEPING THE RECORD STRAIGHT.

Not so many years ago the Safe and Sane Fourth of July campaign was carried on by newspapers and child welfare bodies. Its result, within a few seasons, was to reduce the annual toll of fatal, maiming and blinding accidents due to careless use of powder and fireworks. This was done in part by legislation, but more through home and school training in safety, and in better ways of expressing patriotic spirit.

Since this danger to childhood has been in large part removed, it is discouraging and irritating to read, year after year, a long compilation of so-called "Fourth of July fatalities." Canadian papers, on July 5 last year, carried a dispatch from Chicago containing such a compilation, which the Winnipeg Tribune printed under an eight-column banner line, "159 Lose Lives in U. S. Celebrations." On reading the story, it appeared that 70 deaths were due to automobile accidents, 81 to drownings, one to heat prostration and only seven to fireworks.

Highway accidents and drownings occur on every summer holiday, and the Fourth of July naturally has many of these. Safety warnings for such days are always in order, but the fatalities which occur belong in the year's casualty total, and not in special Independence day celebration records.

HORRORS OF PEACE.

An English View of the Simon Report

Survey of situation in India gives no encouragement to those who consider people permanently incapable of self-rule; nor does it cheer those who want British to leave at once; unstable condition of peasants one reason for frowning on "risky experiments" in government; clash of great religious groups also a disturbing factor.

From the Manchester Guardian Weekly.

THE Simon Commission's survey of the Indian situation is now before the world. There can be no doubt about the quality of the sources of information accessible to the surveyors or the pains taken by them to perfect their work. It is true that the country under examination was unfamiliar to them. But, though this fact may in some respects have hampered their work, it certainly lends additional interest and additional value to their judgment.

The results of the survey do not give any encouragement to those who think it possible to demonstrate that the people or peoples of India are permanently incapable of self-government. On the other hand, they are hardly reconcilable with the hopes of those who desire to see British control immediately and completely withdrawn, or think that our relations with India can be satisfactorily readjusted by the mere use of the words "dominion status."

The Commission makes it clear that the three great difficulties standing in the way of the immediate establishment of full Indian self-government are not imaginary but real. What is worse, they interlock. The prospect of self-government fills the Moslem and Hindu communities with anxieties, ambitions and mutual suspicions. It is not possible immediately to withdraw British troops and officers and to create an Indian army which could be trusted to act as a national army if friction developed between the Moslem and Hindu communities. The first step has hardly yet been taken in the difficult and complicated task of fitting the Indian states into the framework of a self-governing all-India federation.

The Commission's report and the news from India contain plenty of evidence to remind us that till that task is achieved we must expect to have our time occupied with unpleasant, undignified and dangerous quarrels. We see the work to be done: the building up of a great self-governing United States of India. Can it be expedited?

Now that we have the Commission's survey of the materials available, let us try to see what are the governing factors in the situation. Surely the chief of them is the Indian cultivator. For some 90 per cent of the population of India lives in the villages, and they live on his labor. He is the typical Indian citizen. It is of him and for him that the Indian state of tomorrow must in the main be built.

Now the typical Indian cultivator has a holding of about five acres, consisting usually of numerous unfenced fields scattered here and there among the fields of his neighbors. The country is densely populated. There is no fresh land available for him. His agricultural operations can be carried on only at certain seasons. Half his time he is unemployed. He is illiterate and usually in debt to the nearest moneylender. He is the chief producer of India, yet his production leaves little to spare after his family has been fed, and the taxes must come out of production.

How is his product to support an expensive system of administration or to find the immense sums required to give India efficient education and efficient sanitation? The money must be found, but there is no margin for waste or for risky experiments. His government must be simple and economical, and nothing is economical which is not efficient.

We have to remember, too, another fact connected with his case. For centuries he has been accustomed to live from hand to mouth and to turn his thoughts away from the dangers of tomorrow. When a lucky rise in world prices, a new irrigation canal or an improved strain of cotton brings him some small profit, he is little likely to make a prudent use of the windfall. It is usually squandered in one way or another. Thus the whole basis of India's social and economic structure is wallowing hopelessly in poverty, thriftlessness and ignorance.

The submerged once dreamt of no better fate. Now they have come to hear of the possibility of a life above the poverty line. They therefore feel a new discontent. What wonder, too, if of the few who succeed in clambering out, a great proportion have the fear of slipping back always in their minds, and are therefore apt to think everything justifiable to keep them and their families out of the morass?

The day when foreign control might be useful is passing. Perhaps it has already passed. But new blood and minds accustomed to a western standard of living may be very useful, in fact almost indispensable, under Swaraj (home rule).

We have argued that the Indian peasant is a governing factor in the situation, and that his ignorance and poverty make a simple, economical and efficient form of government necessary for India. Does that mean that the old regime of the British civil servant is best suited for India? Surely, no. In its way it did useful work, and proved itself a far better ruler than the Indian military adventurer class which it swept aside.

But the regime of the British civil servant gave an opportunity for the rise of a new Indian aristocracy, the professional class. This class has, and it feels that it has, a natural right to be the governing class in India. The friction developed by its ambitions has been so great as to destroy the efficiency of the old regime. This natural ambition is "nationalism," and it is as much a governing factor in the situation as the poverty of the Indian villager.

The Commission clearly recognizes this fact, pointing out that till the demands of Indian nationalism have been reasonably met, all evils will be attributed to the absence of self-government. The Commission adds that even the evils for which Indians themselves are responsible will be much less likely to be remedied while the blame for their continuance can be put, however unreasonably, upon others. That is the truth.

Thus the future Government of India must be constructed with an eye on the needs and limitations of the Indian peasant, but it must be so contrived as to make full use of the energies of India's professional classes and to give them not only a sense of their responsibility to the peasant, but also a pride in their work and a feeling that their position is in no way inconsistent with the dignity of representatives of a great and ancient civilization.

WASHINGTON DAY BY DAY

WASHINGTON, June 27.

WHATEVER individual members of the United States Senate may think of the merits of the tariff bill — and it goes almost without saying that there are about 96 different opinions—on one thing there is complete accord—

That the lanky, serious-minded chairman of the Finance Committee—Reed Smoot of Utah—has set an all-time record for industry and patience during these long months the question has been before the Senate.

It was a man-killing job that Senator Smoot took on last summer when his committee plunged into the tariff. Day after day, month after month, through one of the capital's hottest summers, from morning until night and often away into the night, he labored.

Not a strong man physically, and well on to 70 years of age, he met attack after attack under the most difficult and trying conditions. His thin voice, which scarcely carries from his seat in the center of the Senate chamber to the opposite side, has been raised many times in the last year in defense of the various provisions of the bill.

IN THE eyes of many observers, his task has been a superhuman one. He has stood on the floor of the Senate answering literally thousands of questions affecting the countless items of the bill. Often he has battled for a seemingly doomed cause, but not once did he falter. Always considerate, courteous at all times to his bitterest foes, Smoot endeared himself to Republican insurgent and Democrat alike by his patience and kindly attitude.

Firm in his belief in the bill which bears his name, nevertheless he was tolerant toward those who differed with him. So impressed was Ashurst, the big Senator from Arizona and one of Smoot's most persistent opponents, with this fact that the other day he was prompted to say:

"No Senator differed more radically from the tariff views of Senator Smoot than have I. I have seldom agreed with him at any point. But I have been the recipient of constant acts of courtesy on his part. He has listened to arguments with civil consideration, and all anyone has a right to ask is that the duly appointed authority listen to argument."

PROUDLY does one of the regular Republicans, Tasker Oddie of Nevada, say of Smoot: "He has stood here like the rock of Gibraltar in defense of the measure."

Thomas of Oklahoma, Democratic member of the Finance Committee, who sat with Smoot longer than some of the others, says that no member of the committee gave the work anything like the time that did the chairman. But Thomas, true to form, could not help but ask, in a voice of despair: "But what kind of a bill have we now as a result of all this work?"

THE OUTLINE OF ART. By Sir William Orpen. (G. P. Putnam's Sons, N. Y., $4.50.)

THE reputation of Sir William Orpen should be sufficient guaranty that this compact but comprehensive survey of the art of painting during the past six centuries is not merely another outline of something or other produced to capitalize the fashion for broad and shallow knowledge. It is an eycyclopedic handbook on the subject, written in a direct and pleasing manner that was apparently calculated to convey the maximum of vital information and understanding thereof with a minimum of words. Mastery of the subject, obvious even to a layman, has made possible elimination without loss, so far at least as any average reader is concerned, and the amount of material that is packed into less than 700 small octavo pages is surprising. An index to the more than 300 reproductions of famous paintings serves to render all the material readily accessible. Incidentally the volume has been made as small as possible and was manufactured to withstand much usage.

An introduction rapidly traces the history of the art of painting from ancient times to "the birth of modern painting" with the humanizing influence of St. Francis and the rise of Giotto, with which the body of the work begins. "The history of modern art," says the author, "begins with St. Francis of Assisi, the most lovable of all the Christian saints. He, the first forerunner of the Renaissance, substituted a religion of love for the sterile authority of orthodoxy, and in his infinite charity brought divinity nearer not only to mankind but to all creation. The birds and fishes are his little brothers and sisters, and like the Psalmist of old, he calls the hills and valleys, the rivers and the woods, to join him in praising God. In a word, by his teaching, religion was reconciled to Nature, and with Nature again piously occupying the minds of men, art could progress. It was only gradually that these new ideas popularized by St. Francis penetrated to the surface of painting. First of all, the change is limited to human psychology. Madonnas become more human in expression and saints lose their severity to take on a mild and benevolent aspect. But still their figures are shown against a gold background which serves to isolate

But still their figures are shown against a gold background which serves to isolate them from all terrestrial objects. Then the gilded screen is lowered, and in its place a landscape fills the background, at first a rather barren landscape with a few rudimentary trees, but soon enriched with shrubs and flowers, and ultimately completed by the presence of our little brethren the birds and the animals."

All the great representatives of the various schools of art in Europe are treated in historical order, and the numerous illustrations make clear the substance of the text. The work closes with a discussion of the principal modern movements, impressionism, post-impressionism, cubism, futurism. There is a chapter on art during the World War and another on the art of today.

AMERICAN HOUSING. By Edith L. Allen. (The Manual Arts Press, Peoria, Ill., $2.)

This study is concerned with the many changes that have taken place in the plans and equipment of dwelling houses in America from the time of the earliest settlements to the present day, the purpose being to show how these changes have been caused by scientific discoveries, inventions, educational progress, financial conditions, political situations, immigration, etc. It is necessarily quite as much a study of the American family and American social and economic conditions as of our domestic architecture. The work was produced as a doctor's thesis for American University at Washington, D. C., but it is not, for that reason, to be ignored as dull reading. Many housewives should find the book intensely interesting, as well as of practical value in solving certain problems of homemaking.

Rene Fulop-Miller, celebrated German writer, author of "Rasputin, the Holy Devil," "The Power and Secret of the Jesuits," etc., has recently come to America for a two years' visit, his avowed purpose being to discover the true soul of the country. Judging by quotations from interviews, he seems to entertain the conventionally accepted opinions concerning our literature, art and characteristic activities, and he should therefore prove an altogether pleasing guest. He will first visit Hollywood where he will make an intensive study of the screen industry for a book which he plans to write on the subject. Later he will study our customs and methods of industry in all parts of the country for yet another book, and he plans to spend considerable time in St. Louis.

In Europe, Herr Fulop-Miller says, the impression among intellectuals is that America is playing the role of Imperial Rome to Europe's Greece. This is one of the beliefs that he intends either to verify or negate.

48 PER CENT IN CITIES LIVE IN APARTMENTS

This Type of Home Has Greatly Outdistanced One-Family Dwelling in Last Four Years.

By the Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, June 27.—Apartments are the chief form of domicile in 257 identical American cities of more than 25,000 population, and during the last four years have completely eclipsed the one-family dwelling which formerly held the lead.

Statistics gathered by the Department of Labor disclose that during the last calendar year 48.6 per cent of the 244,197 families provided for in all classes of dwellings in these cities were housed in apartments, with 40.2 per cent in one-family dwellings. The remainder were provided for in two-family dwellings which included one and two-family dwellings with stores combined.

In 1928 a total of 53.7 per cent of the 383,678 total families were provided for in apartments as against but 35.2 in one-family dwellings. The previous year the percentage was 48.3 and 38.3, respectively, and in 1926, 45.4 and 40.7, respectively.

The rapid strides of the apartment house is readily discernable from the department's earliest figures, 1921, when 58.3 per cent of the total number of families were provided for in one-family dwellings. The apartment house ratio was then 24.4.

Fourteen cities of the United States boasting a population of 500,000 or more contributed heavily to the favoritism shown apartments. In these cities 64.4 per cent of the new family dwelling units for which permits were issued during 1929 were in apartments, and 25.3 in one-family dwellings. The previous year the ratio was 67.2 and 22.1 per cent, respectively.

In New York City 58,320 families were provided for during the last year. Of this number 83 per cent were provided for in apartment houses, and only 10.8 in one-family dwellings. In the borough of Manhattan 99.9 per cent of the 18,067 families provided for were to live in apartments.

Chicago ranked next to New York in the percentage of apartments with a total of 77.9 per cent.

Baltimore continues to be the outstanding city in the erection of one-family dwellings. In the Maryland metropolis 3022 families and 92.7 per cent lived in one-family dwellings. Pittsburg, Philadelphia and Cleveland were the only other cities in this group in which more than half of their new family units lived in single family dwellings.

Brigadier-General Deakyne, Reduced at Own Request, to Remain on Engineers' Board.

WASHINGTON, June 27.—Brigadier-General Herbert Deakyne, assistant to the chief of engineers, became a Colonel in the army today at his own request, although eligible for retirement as a Major-General. His voluntary sacrifice of rank was made that he might continue to give to the army his experience in the rivers and harbor improvement program now under way.

Secretary of War Hurley characterized Deakyne as a "good soldier." "He did it with the best of good will," Hurley said. "He is a good sport."

Deakyne was prominently mentioned as chief of army engineers when that position was last open, but it was found he would have reached the retirement age of 64 before his tour of duty was completed. Hurley has approved the request of Major-General Lytle Brown, chief of engineers, to have Deakyne become a member of the Board of Engineers for Rivers and Harbors.

PRINCE OF WALES ON RADIO

Will Be Heard in United States July 7 Making Dinner Speech.

NEW YORK, June 27.—The Prince of Wales is to be heard in the United States of America on the radio July 7, the National Broadcasting Co. announced today.

His speech, to be made at a dinner at the Savoy Hotel in London at th annual banquet of the National Union of Students, will be brought across the Atlantic and retransmitted to the American coast-to-coast network. The broadcast is to last 15 minutes, starting at 3:25 p. m. (2:25 St. Louis time).

Prince Olav's Daugher Christened.

By the Associated Press.

OSLO, Norway, June 27.—The baby daughter of Crown Prince Olav and Princess Martha was christened Reginald Alexandra in the Royal Chapel today. The King of Sweden, represented by his Minister, and the British Duke of York, also represented, were among the Royal sponsors. The Bishop of Oslo officiated, expressing Norway's joy at the birth of the first Royal child born in Norway in hundreds of years.

Merchants' Parade and Masquerade

The South Broadway Merchants' Association will conclude its Thirty-eighth annual Carnival Week tonight with a parade and masquerade ball, the parade to commence at Broadway and Barry street at 8:15, proceeding south on Broadway to Lafayette avenue. The masquerade will be held afterward at Broadway and Soulard street.

SOCIAL ACTIVITIES

DAISIES in their various bright colorings will be used effectively in the decorative scheme for the wedding at 8 o'clock tonight of Miss Helen Heise Huntington and William Davis Dobson II, at the home of her mother, Mrs. Howard R. Huntington, 17 Thornby place. Clusters of yellow daisies combined with huckleberry foliage will adorn the draperies in the living room and will form a background against French doors where the ceremony is to be performed by the Rev. Dr. William Crowe of the Westminster Presbyterian Church. The wedding party will pass down the stairs and through an aisle of ribbons held by four small girls in yellow voile frocks, Anne and Maury White and Elizabeth and Lucy Gray Hill, and Joseph Mullen Jr., and George C. Wilson Jr., directed by Miss Margaret Huntington, a cousin of the bride.

Miss Kathryn Huntington will be her sister's maid of honor, and the bridesmaids will be Miss Eleanor Dobson, sister of the bridegroom; Miss Anne Becker and Mrs. Goronwy Owen Broun. William G. Raith Jr. will be best man and the groomsmen are to include William Ewald, Donald Cramer and Logan Mock. Howard Huntington will give his sister in marriage.

The bride's attendants are to be gowned in shades of yellow to correspond with the floral decorations, from banana yellow, worn by Miss Dobson, to deep orange. Miss Kathryn Huntington will be in chartreuse green. The gowns are taffeta, designed alike with long shirred bodices and full skirts touching the floor, attached in irregular points. Fish tail taffeta trains are attached at the bodice line, and the V necks in back are trimmed with French flowers. The bridesmaids will carry yellow and white daisies, and yellow gladioli. Miss Huntington's flowers are to be Talisman roses.

The bride will wear deep ivory satin made on princesse lines, with a train built into the skirt. The neck is cut square in front, and to a deep V in back. Her veil will be antique tulle on which are scattered tiny Calla lilies, worn with a lace coronet. She will carry Calla lilies and will wear a strand of pearls, the gift of the bridegroom.

Mr. Dobson and his bride will go to Yellowstone Park on their wedding trip, and later will visit the bride's ranch in Idaho. They will make their home with Mrs. Huntington. The out-of-town guests include Mrs. P. H. Griffith, Los Angeles, grandmother of the bride; Mr. and Mrs. Warner D. Huntington, Baltimore, and Mr. and Mrs. oJhn Van Valkenburg, Chicago, the latter a sister of Mrs. Dobson.

The bride attended Mary Institute, the University of Missouri, Barnard College and Washington University. Mr. Dobson is the son of Dr. and Mrs. Walter N. Dobson, 6420 San Bonita avenue. He is an alumnus of Washington University and a member of Kappa Alpha.

Mr. and Mrs. Albert T. Perkins, 6365 Ellenwood avenue, and their daughter, Miss Katherine Perkins, who left St. Louis Tuesday, sailed yesterday from New York on the Lafayette for Europe, where they will remain until fall. Miss Perkins had planned to spend the summer in Wyoming, but changed her arrangements to accompany her parents.

Mrs. Thomas J. Drummond, 4943 Lindell boulevard, has returned home after an extended visit in the East. She spent much of her time in Syracuse, N. Y., where her son, Douglas Drummond, was married June 19. Mrs. Drummond has canceled her passage on the Franconia, sailing Aug. 2, and will remain in St. Louis for the present.

Miss Edith Peters, daughter of Mrs. Frederick R. Peters, 4905 Argyle place, has gone to Chicago to visit Miss Dorothy Morehead for a few days. Her sister, Miss Marion, will leave St. Louis tomorrow to join her, and they will go to Harbor Beach, Mich., to open their cottage. Mrs. Peters and her sister, Mrs. David Brouster, 5138 Waterman, and her son, Robert Brouster, will motor to Harbor Beach in 10 days.

Mr. and Mrs. John G. Lonsdale of Cherry Hill, Sappington, Mo., have taken a house at Northampton, L. I., for the month of August. They will have with them their son, John G. Jr., and their son and daughter-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Lawrence Battle of New York. Mrs. Battle was Miss Elizabeth Bemis of St. Louis.

Mr. and Mrs. Hugh Sullivan will be host and hostess at a dinner party tonight at Happy Hollow, the country home of Mr. Sullivan's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Frank Sullivan, in honor of Miss Florence Rock, Bayside, L. I., who is visiting Miss Elizabeth Ferguson, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John David Ferguson.

The guests will include Miss Ferguson, Miss Mary Schofield, Miss Katherine Koerber, Miss Anne Sipple, Miss Marion Bischoff, Edward Haverstick, Mike Strassberger, Jack Green, William Hatcher, Tom Noel, John Cook and Arthur Feuerbacher. Bridge will be played during the evening.

Mr. and Mrs. Frank Sullivan have bought a country home at Sullivan, Mo., where Mr. and Mrs. Hugh Sullivan are spending most of the summer.

The following girls will leave this week for the holiday camps near Hackensack, Minn., to spend the summer: Yvonne Bebie, daughter of Dr. and Mrs. Jules Bebie, 4207 Magnolia avenue; Dorothy Lee Culver, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. E. R. Culver Jr., 7945 Park drive, Hampton Park; Marjorie Gault, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. P. M. Gault, 7744 Pershing avenue, Clayton; Miss Gladys Hecker, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. A. A. Hecker, 7059 Lindell avenue, University City; Helen Mardorf, daughter of Dr. and Mrs. William C. Mardorf, 2136 South Grand boulevard; Nancy Martin, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. L. C. Martin, 22 Joy avenue, Webster Groves; Virginia Phelps, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. Q. Phelps, 6907 Pershing avenue, and Martha and Marjorie Shutt, daughters of Dr. and Mrs. C. H. Shutt, 3929 Magnolia avenue.

Mrs. Hugh McKittrick Jones of McKnight road has returned from a visit to New York. She attended the commencement exercises of the Sarah Lawrence College, Bronxville, from which her daughter, Miss Grace Jones, was graduated. Miss Jones returned to St. Louis with her mother. Mr. and Mrs. Jones and their family will depart about July 6, for Annisquam, Mass., to spend the summer.

Dr. and Mrs. Francis W. Kirsch Jr., 7133 Delmar boulevard, have gone to New York to sail tomorrow on the Reliance for a cruise to Iceland, the Scandinavian Peninsula and Russia. Later they will spend a month in Germany, France, Switzerland and England.

Miss Alma Savage of Boston, Mass., has arrived in St. Louis to be the guest for several weeks of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Charles J. Savage, 6154 Suburban avenue.

Mr. and Mrs. Stanley F. Jackes have moved into their new home at 7300 Princeton avenue, University City. They are being congratulated upon the birth of a daughter. Mrs. Jackes before her marriage was Miss Josephine Murphy.

Mrs. David G. Evans, 6363 Pershing avenue, accompanied by her son, Dr. Archer O'Reilly, departed last week for Kingston, Mass., where Mrs. Evans has a summer home. Mrs. O'Reilly and her sons have departed for Massachusetts to open their cottage at Plymouth, which is near Mrs. Evans' summer home. They will remain in the East until late in September.

Day by Day at Sea
By O. O. McIntyre

ON THE ATLANTIC.

ALL the songbirds are flying from America to their native lands, consequently the ship's concert—usually a terrific yawn—was musically an event. Such singers as Giovanni Martinelli, Metropolitan tenor, shivered the ship's tembers with booming notes.

There were also Pavel Ludikar, Metropolitan basso, Antonin Trantoul, French tenor, Alexandre Kurganoff, of the Philadelphia opera, Pierre Luboshutz, pianist, Jean Bedetti, cellist of the Boston Symphony, Paul Kochanski, violinist, Maria Kurenko, soprano, and Maurice Yvain, composer of "My Man" and "Ta Bouche."

Each responded freely and the suave Henry Sell as master of ceremonies collected $800—a record amount—which will be turned over to the charity fund for seamen's orphans. I have somehow always believed these orphans breakfasted on caviar and played with jeweled toys, judging from the huge sums raised for them.

But I am told the money is judicially and wisely expended. The most poignant lines ever written, I think, were those penned by Pierre Loti in his "Pecheurs d'Islande" as a glowing tribute to the widows and orphans of the brave men who go down to sea in ships. It reads:

"And all the hours of the day passed, one after another, and all the hours of the evening, and all the hours of the night, and all the hours of the morning. As she counted the days when he ought to have been back, a wild terror seized upon her. She did not want any more to know either the dates or the names of the days."

I am told, too, that the financial plight of the majority of grand opera stars this year is similarly tragic. With few exceptions they were caught in the market crash—innumerable completely wiped out and in debt. And with the popularity of grand opera at a low ebb the future is dark. But they twittered magnificently.

In a few hours the good ship will be warped to the dock at Le Havre and those of us from back home will be "vulgar foreigners." It has been the smoothest crossing ever experienced, and if I don't neglect to pack the lower section of a pair of silk pajamas or something, I am content. And may come again.

MY irrepressible pooch, Billy, has a morning habit at home of leaping to the middle of the floor stretching and yawning something that sounds like "Yee-oo-or-ork," rolling over and over and scooting himself along on his back. But the roll of the ship cramps his style. He makes the effort, sits on one haunch mystified and cocks his head quizzically like the dog in the talking machine ad. Sometimes I think he is positively ridiculous.

ONE of those crisp talking bankers met Edna Ferber the other morning and tactlessly observed: "I have read about 40 pages in your novel, 'Cimarron,' and don't like it at all." Miss Ferber offered sympathy and walked on. This morning he stopped her again and in a gale of enthusiasm said the book had kept him up all night—proving so enthralling. Miss Ferber, by the way, strikes one as a most unusual New York literary celebrity. She has not only never met Texas Guinan, but has never seen her.

AT lunch today I overheard one of the Palm Beach chatterers who speak of America as "the states" talking to a very British couple at a nearby table. He was one of those garrulous whelps with an Argentine slick to his hair and a flair for loud talking and boasting. When he left the table, they winked at each other, nor do I blame them. On the other hand, the winking couple can have—with love and kisses—the silly ass from perfidious old Albion who sits near us in the lounge every evening smoking a pipe that smells like a last year's paste bucket.

A NONALCOHOLIC tipple on this boat I never tasted in America is mint tea—an oolong with mint flavor. It is soothing for stomach likely to be agitated by Mrs. Atlantic's permanent wave.

I ACTED as referee, wearing spats and everything, this afternoon at a boxing bout on the second-class deck between two sailors — Gunner Bob and Slugger Dupuis. The Gunner knocked The Slugger as stiff as Martinelli's pompadour in 34 seconds. And when Dupuis struggled up he kissed The Gunner on both cheeks. Marvelous manners, the French!

THE ship is slowly nosing into the Havre slip and all the boys and girls on the ship who helped us in crossing are standing at attention in the companionway—palms up.

PLAZA PURCHASE OK'D AT 19TH AND MARKET

Negotiations Under Way There for Four More Pieces of Property.

On completion of the purchase of the northwest corner of Nineteenth and Market streets, facing Union Station, which was approved yesterday by the Citizens' Bond Issue Supervisory Committee, the city will be in possession of 932½ front feet of the 1104 feet frontage in the site of Aloe Plaza. Negotiations are under way for the four pieces of property comprising the remainder and they may be bought when the Board of Aldermen reconvenes in the autumn.

It was said today at the Comptroller's office, which has charge of the purchases, that it was probable the buildings on the two city blocks of the plaza site would be wrecked next autumn. Many of them are old and unsightly, presenting an unpleasant picture to travelers arriving at the station.

However, no decision has been reached as to how the plaza, which will be bounded by Eighteenth, Twentieth, Market and Chestnut streets, can be developed. The City Plan Commission has proposed a scheme of ornamentation of the surface, together with a lower level for automobile parking and Market street trolleys.

Legal Questions Involved.

The commission wanted to combine the balance which will remain from the land purchase fund with money from the street widening bond issue item to finace the completion of the plaza without delay. Legal questions are involved in this which have not been taken up.

Including the purchase approved yesterday, property acquired to date will have cost $1,858,487.50, the prices being those fixed by condemnation commissioners in the Market street widening case, with which the plaza scheme was consolidated. If the four remaining pieces are paid for on the same basis, total cost of the site will be $2,494,925. This would leave a balance of $105,075 in the $2,600,000 bond item for acquisition of the plaza.

Although the city has refrained from wrecking many buildings on property it has acquired for Memorial Plaza, and instead is collecting rent from them, officials are inclined to the view that it would be desirable to remove the structures from Aloe Plaza promptly, as a matter of civic pride and because there are many vacancies anyway.

While the Aloe Plaza property is being bought at the condemnation prices, which range considerably above the assessments for taxation, the city is obtaining fee simple titles. If it awaited completion of the condemnation case and took title under court judgment, the title would be only for the purpose of the plaza, and the land would revert to heirs of the present owners in event use as a plaza was abandoned. With fee simple title, use of the property could be changed in the future, if for any unforeseen reason this should be desirable.

The purchase approved yesterday was of a lot with 80-foot frontage on Market and 73-foot depth, occupied by the Pontiac Hotel, a four-story brick structure, 1901-07 Market. The present owner is Theodore W. Pleadwell. The price is $259,875, compared with an assessment of $180,380.

The pieces remaining to be acquired by the city, all with buildings, are: Eighty-foot lot at northwest corner Eighteenth and Market, regarded a valuable place for retail business; a 20-foot lot on Market between Eighteenth and Nineteenth, a 31½-foot lot on Market between Nineteenth and Twentieth, and a 40-foot lot on Chestnut between Nineteenth and Twentieth.

Approval was given by the Supervisory Committee also to an appropriation of $600,000 of hospital funds for a new nurses' home at City Hospital, plans for which were announced recently.

CITY'S CARE REQUESTED FOR FIRST MRS. WILSON'S GRAVE

Rome, Ga., Urged to Place Markers In Cemetery Pointing Way to Obscure Burial Plot.

By the Associated Press.

ROME, Ga., June 27.—Directors of the Chamber of Commerce here have asked municipal authorities to assume responsibility of caring for an obscure grave in Myrtle Hill Cemetery in which is buried the body of President Woodrow Wilson's first wife.

Visitors seeking the grave have complained frequently that they were unable to find it. The Chamber of Commerce requested that markers be placed in the cemetery, pointing the way.

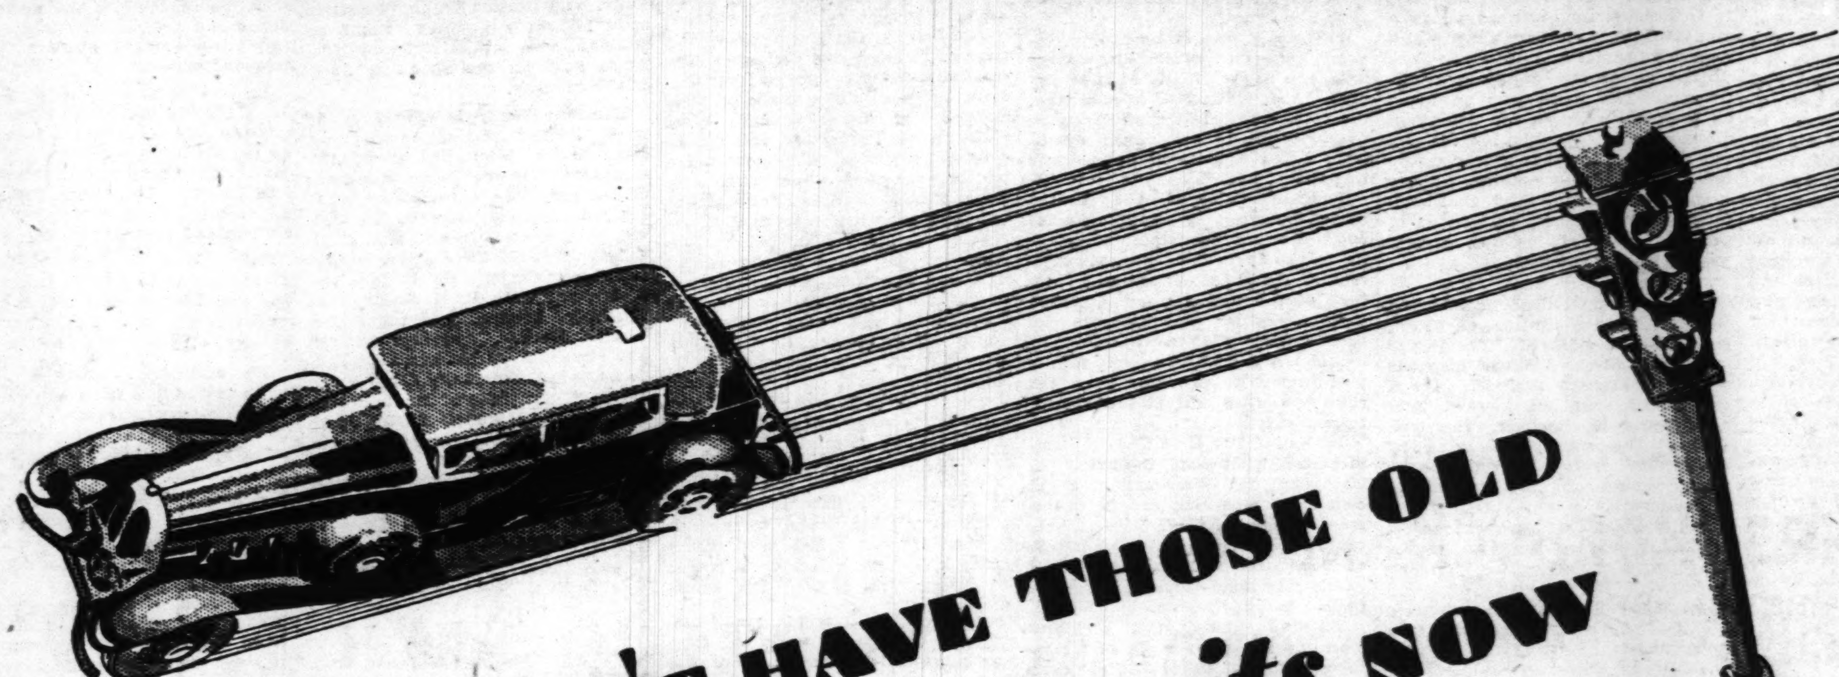
KEEP THE AIR MOVING



WE DON'T HAVE THOSE OLD 8 mile speed limits NOW

Many states prohibited driving in excess of 8 or 10 miles per hour in "built-up" communities. Twenty miles per hour was once considered highly dangerous. Improvements in the automobile and advances in traffic control have changed all that. ¶ Likewise the constant improvements wrought by Shell in motor lubrication have made higher speeds safe for the automobile engine. That's the important thing about Shell Motor Oil. It is always ahead of requirements . . . ready now for next year's car. ¶ Low-temperature refining preserves all of the rich lubricating elements of Nature's best-balanced crude. No emergency, no unusual demand of the motor ever finds Shell Motor Oil lacking in protective qualities. No wonder motorists are turning to Shell in ever increasing numbers.

OBBER SEEKS DARROW'S AID

alph Feagle Trying to Escape Death Penalty.

CANON CITY, Colo., June 27.—Warden F. E. Crawford of the Colorado State Penitentiary, has announced that Ralph Fleagle, bank robber, is seeking the aid of Clarence Darrow, attorney, in an effort to escape the death penalty.

Fleagle was sentenced to death for his participation in the $200,000 robbery of the Lamar (Colo.) First National Bank two years ago and the slaying of four men in connection with the robbery. Three of the gang are under death sentences, the fourth, Jake Fleagle, is at large. Ralph Fleagle, the Warden said, has asked Darrow to argue his appeal before the United States Supreme Court.

end at Ocean City, where they could "get some hard facts as to the economics of prohibition."

For such violation of the law, a fine of a few dollars would be a heavy penalty.

With this, the fanatic and the hired reformer will not agree. There is no cruelty so relentless as the cruelty of intolerance.

I say that a law that allows unnatural men who prefer threats to persuasion and who desire the most relentless prosecution, to demand the full pound of tortured flesh from their victims, is an immoral law. Its genesis is in intolerance and it is supported by force. It is the worst crime ever committed within the borders of the United States. Prohibition is the breeding place and feeding ground of crime. That which produces crime is itself a crime.

I do not advocate the defiance of the prohibitory laws. We have the power of remedy in our own hands. General hatred and defiance of the law will undermine the structure of our government as surely and as speedily as the continued existence of the harmful law itself. It is our business to proceed by constitutional methods to remedy existing wrongs. The right way is to repeal bad laws and to correct bad constitutions.

The title of Monday's article by former Sentor Reed will be: "We, the People?" He will discuss the constitutional standing of prohibition and its relation to the Bill of Rights.

ATTEMPT TO WRECK TAXICAB

Three Men Try to Force Independent to Drive Into Quarry.

An attempt was made to force an independent taxicab driver to wreck his machine in an abandoned quarry at Marcus and San Francisco avenues early today but the driver's three assailants fled when startled by the headlights of an approaching car.

Carl Hinze, 301 Fillmore street, driving a Columbia cab belonging to Leslie Autry, 5630 Delmar avenue, picked up a man at Sixth and Chestnut streets who told him to drive to the 47 block of Ashland avenue. There the passenger got out and talked to two men in a parked machine. One of them entered the taxicab and made Hinze drive to the quarry while the others followed in their car. "You can jump out if you want—but the taxi goes in the dump," the man, who was armed, said as they neared the brink of a 125-foot drop. Hinze started his motor and jumped, but the engine stalled. The men had ordered him to start the motor again when they were frightened away.

DINTY MOORE'S NEW YORK RESTAURANT PADLOCKED

Closed for Four Months Following Ninth Raid by Dry Agents.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

NEW YORK, June 27.—Dinty Moore's restaurant has only nine lives. It was padlocked by Federal Judge Knox yesterday on the basis of spirituous evidence seized there March 28 when the place was raided for the ninth time since 1922.

The eating institution Dinty Moore's has become will not be dark forever, if Dinty observes the amenities that the court's decision demands.

"Padlocked for four months," read the decision, at the end of which dangled the usual injunction restraining the sale of liquor at the restaurant. Dinty may resume the restaurant business when the padlock is removed, but the Federal authorities will not relax their scrutiny, the decision warned the proprietor.

RECIPES FOR DISHES IN WEEK'S MENUS

Housekeepers Will Find These Good Recipes to Add to Their Cook Books.

There are many ways of making chop suey and this might be called an Americanized version. It is a good recipe when you feel the need for a change from the regular routine of foods. In most stores nowadays canned bean sprouts and bamboo shoots may be purchased—two ingredients that are useful in making chop suey. Use the canned boned chicken also, unless there is leftover chicken on hand.

For four servings, cut cooked chicken in strips to make two cupsful; dice celery to make one cup. Melt three tablespoons butter, add the diced celery and one small thinly sliced onion and cover closely. Cook slowly for eight minutes, but do not let the mixture brown. Add the chicken, two cups chicken stock (canned soup does nicely), a small can of bamboo shoots and one of bean sprouts and one-half cup mushrooms. Simmer for 10 minutes and then thicken with two teaspoons corn starch mixed with a little cold water. Season to taste and serve with mounds of boiled rice.

Vegetable Salad.

In buying vegetables on Saturday see that there is a variety for the salad on Sunday night. Almost any combination may be used, including any leftovers that are on hand. There should be some shredded raw cabbage, a little diced raw celery and one or two pimientoes to add crispness and color.

A good mixture uses one cup shredded cabbage, one-fourth cup each diced celery, cooked diced carrots, string beans or peas, lima beans or corn, and one-fourth cup sliced pimientoes. Moisten first with French dressing for flavor and then serve with mayonnaise. Do not add dressing to salad until just before it is to be served.

Jellied Tomato Bouillon.

Simmer three cups of canned tomato juice with two tablespoons minced union, a sprig of parsley and two whole cloves for 10 minutes. Add three bouillon cubes and one-half cup boiling water and when dissolved stir in two teaspoons plain gelatin that has been softened in one-fourth cup of cold water for five minutes.

When the gelatin is dissolved, strain the bouillon into cups and set aside to chill and stiffen. Break up with a fork before serving.

Raspberry Gelatine Whip.

Pick over and wash two cups fresh, ripe, red raspberries. Sprinkle with one-fourth cup powdered sugar and set aside for at least half an hour. Dissolve a package of raspberry flavored gelatin product in one cup of boiling water and then add one-half cup cold water. Cool until beginning to thicken and then beat with an egg beater until creamy. Fold in the stiffly beaten whites of two eggs and the sugared raspberries. Pour into individual molds or one large one and chill before serving. A custard sauce made from the yolks of the eggs, one-fourth cup sugar, one cup milk and one teaspoon cornstarch may be used with the dessert, or it may be served plain.

Chocolate Frosting.

Melt two ounces chocolate over hot water. Add two teaspoons butter and slowly one-third cup hot milk. Add one-fourth teaspoon vanilla or almond. Beat in sifted powdered sugar to make right consistency.

FISH IS WHOLESOME FOOD

Camping Parties Should Bear That Fact in Mind.

Fish is one of our best body-building foods. It gives protein and phosphorus to the body.

It is an erroneous idea that fish and milk cannot be served at the same meal or in the same recipe.

If you will look through the recipes of Southern cook books and those used in the states on the eastern and western coasts, you will find that many of the recipes call for the addition of cream and milk.

RICHER and CREAMIER

JUNE 20
IVANHOE MAYONNAISE
John Rae '30

NO WONDER IVANHOE'S FLAVOR IS DIFFERENT

Such flavor, such perfection doesn't just happen. It's the result of an old time recipe, developed by a mother to delight her family. Today it is made with the same fine ingredients, the same painstaking care!

Plenty of eggs. Spices fragrant with the tang of the East. Vinegar for sharpness. Next, drop by drop was added the pure, rich oil. Then the work began! Beat. Beat. Beat. Faster. Faster. Faster. 'Til the mixture was golden as a buttercup and smooth as a perfect custard!

Buy richer, creamier Ivanhoe today at almost every grocery—quarts, pints, half-pints and 3¼ oz. jars. It's the same homey dressing that it was when first made in a sunny kitchen of long ago! Yet it costs no more than ordinary mayonnaise.

"SALAD LEAVES" is a unique booklet of salad recipes and balanced menus. Write for your free copy to Harriet Meeker Osborne, Ivanhoe Kitchen, Auburn, N.Y.

PLANNING MEALS FOR THE FAMILY TABLE

Meals That Are Easy on the Cook Should Be Served This Time of Year.

Menus for this week have been planned with the work factor especially in mind. No one wants to spend much time in the kitchen this time of year, yet food must be prepared that will meet the nutritional needs of the family, and the same old three meals a day provided.

A glance over the menus for the week will show some of the ways of doing this.

The traditional Sunday roast can be done away with during the summer months without hurting anyone, and those dishes substituted for it that can be cooked in shorter time and therefore with less meat. Steak is chosen for this week, preceded by a jellied tomato bouillon. This makes the meal seem more substantial and the gelatin really aids in digestion. The best part of the meal is that so little time is required to cook it. The soup may be made the day before—is best that way, in fact; enough potatoes should be cooked on Saturday night to take care of Sunday's dinner; the dessert may be bought ready to serve, and the berries crushed right after breakfast. That leaves only the peas to be shelled and cooked, the steak to broil and the potatoes to cream. Forty-five minutes and the dinner should be on the table ready to eat.

Steak for Dinner.

In Saturday's shopping select either a sirloin or a porterhouse steak as these cuts are usually more tender than others. A piece of the top round is also good. In many localities there are specially named steaks—talk with your butcher and find out what he recommends. Buy a steak large enough so that the tougher end may be curried and served with rice for Monday's dinner. If you are not fond of curry, make beef and rice croquettes, or if there is enough meat omit the rice and serve creamy beef croquettes.

Fresh Produce Abundant.

The fresh vegetables and fruits that are abundant now have been very liberally used in this week's meals. Peaches are just coming in and are suggested sliced for Sunday night's supper. Peach shortcake is used later in the week. It may be that this fruit is not reasonable enough in price or good enough in quality to warrant its use just yet—if this is the case substitute any seasonable fruit for it. All the berries as well as stewed rhubarb make delicious shortcakes.

Advertised Brands.

When selecting the week's supply of canned or packaged foods, remember that the standard advertised brands generally give the most satisfaction, for by using them you are assured of a uniform quality and a wholesome product.

On Thursday night the family may partake of a Chinese meal insofar as the main dish goes. Chicken chop suey is appetizing for a change and you will like the recipe that is given. You can buy most of the ingredients for chop suey and chow mein in cans in the average grocery store, as well as ready-to-serve preparations of these same dishes. Fried noodles, Chinse sauce, bamboo shoots and bean sprouts—all are moderate in price and good to keep in mind when the home cook is looking for a change.

SERVE GREEN CORN IN THE HOT WEATHER DIET

Corn on the Cob Is One of the Favorite Foods of the American People.

Sweet corn should be used while fresh, as should all green vegetables. It starts to depreciate in value soon after being gathered.

Corn on the Cob.

Corn on the cob probably ranks highest in favor. The preparation is simple. Remove the husks and silk. Place in boiling water in a covered kettle and boil for 15 minutes. Use only sufficient water to cover the ears. Drain and serve.

Baked Corn on the Cob.

Descended from the old-time custom of baking corn in a bed of hot ashes, baked corn today is prepared by roasting in a closely covered dish. The ears are prepared as for boiling, then placed in a pan and sprinkled with water. They are then baked in a moderate oven for 30 or 40 minutes. This method gives a tender grain and a natural flavor.

A STEAK FRY IS SUITABLE FOR A HIKING PARTY

Particularly Nice for an Early Sunday Morning Breakfast in the Park.

A steak fry is an interesting way of entertaining when possible to arrange it.

A simple but delightful way to handle this type of serving is to pack individual boxes containing food for each person.

These boxes can be given to the guests after they have been seated around the big fire that should be lighted in advance, if possible, or the very first thing after arriving at the picnic place. When flat stones that have been heating in the fire are piping hot, place one in front of each person.

When the lunch boxes are opened among other things in the box will be found a steak and two strips of bacon, wrapped in wax paper.

The bacon is first rubbed on the hot stone so as to thoroughly grease and prepare it for the immediate cooking of the steak.

PEACHES ARE IN MARKET

Time Has Arrived to Include Them in Home Menus.

Fresh peaches are splendid sliced for breakfast. If they are a little tart, and you do not care to add sugar, then add a little strained honey. To many people, peaches are more easily digested when the cream is not added.

Of course, there is nothing much better than fresh, ripe peaches sliced and covered with cream.

Fresh peach shortcake, fresh peach mousse, the dainty whole peach tart are all attractive ways to add peaches to the menu.

LEMON GARNISHES ARE APPETIZING

Liberal Portions of Fruit Make It Easy to Squeeze Out the Juice.

A liberal use of lemons is popular with the best chefs. To enhance the appetizing quality of food servings, to bring out their most effective appeal to the taste, there is nothing that will so well answer the purpose as lemons.

Citrus fruit garnishes for oysters, fish and meats have a two-purpose value: Not only do they impart appetizing quality through their decorative effect, but they furnish a definite alkaline balance for these acid-forming foods, helping to prevent acidosis.

Because the garnish should be "eaten as well as seen," liberal portions of it should be served in forms which make it easy to squeeze the juice. The half or quarter is the practical shape for this purpose.

Garnishes should be cut with clean edges. For decorative purposes they should be thin, and may be cut into many fancy shapes, limited almost entirely to the preparer's ingenuity.

Lemon slices may be sprinkled with paprika, rolled in chopped parsley or mint, or stripped with pimiento.

Lemon juice may be mixed with cream cheese which is used as a stuffing for green peppers. Slice and use as garnish.

Garnishes of lemon are excellent for cold, sliced meat, meat loaf, head cheese, etc. Orange slices should be used with ham, duck and other fowl.

Additional flavor is often achieved with a sauce for meats or fowl, using the appropriate fruit juices, orange sauce with duck and lemon butter with meat and fish.

FRUIT SANDWICHES HOLD THE POPULAR FAVOR

There Are Food Fads as Well as Millinery or Fashion Fads.

One of the fads of the hour is to make fruit sandwiches. Here are recipes for several simple fruit sandwiches:

Cherry Sandwiches.

Cherry sandwiches are delicious to serve at tea. Use cream cheese moistened with cream. Stir into it candied cherries and blanched almonds, chopped fine. Spread on thin slices of fresh graham bread and cut in strips.

Toasted Berry Sandwich.

Cut as many slices of fresh bread as needed. Let them be about three-eighths of an inch in thickness. Toast lightly and quickly one side only, under a broiler, so that the toast does not become hard.

Butter slightly on toasted side and spread thickly with crushed sweetened fresh berries. Place two slices together, sandwich fashion, and toast on the exterior quickly on both sides. Cut in strips and serve hot.

Egg Baskets.

Cook the desired number of eggs and let them cool in the water in which cooked to prevent discoloration. Shell the eggs, cut in halves lengthwise and remove the yolks. Mash the yolks, moisten slightly with cream, season and shape into small balls. Roll part of the balls in chopped parsley, part in grated cheese and part in paprika. Place several balls in each egg-white half, or basket. Parsley stems or narrow strips of green pepper may be added for handles.

For up-to-date people who believe they are entitled to the last word in coffee excellence

WHY should any coffee lover be satisfied with the old style coffees? In these days of progress you deserve something better—a truer coffee flavor that belongs strictly to this age in which you live.

That truer flavor—that new goodness—you will find in DEL MONTE Coffee

—because it was created by the same organization that has made DEL MONTE stand for unfailing quality and uniform, fine flavor in canned fruits, vegetables and many other foods

—because it represents a new viewpoint: a disregard of old prejudices—a free hand to use every 20th century improvement.

Order a can of DEL MONTE Coffee from your grocer today. Treat yourself to this new modern coffee flavor, a flavor that belongs—not to yesterday—but to today. Just the coffee you'd expect DEL MONTE to bring to your table.

And now—a Bond loaf for the smaller family

BEFORE Bond Bread came, housewives asked why they couldn't get from the grocer a loaf that was really home-like—home-like in purity, texture, and flavor. The answer to that question was Bond Bread, which for more than ten years has been the favorite loaf of the careful housewife.

Today many housewives are asking why they can't get a loaf of Bond Bread in a size especially suited to the needs of the smaller family. The answer is that they can.

Your grocer now has Bond Bread, the home-like loaf, in two sizes. Bond Bread in the smaller size comes to you with the same guarantee of purity and perfect baking, the same firm, close-knit texture, the same rich, home-like flavor.

BERRY TIME HELPS THE MENU MAKERS

Their Good Qualities Place Them Near the Top of Our Wholesome Fruits.

Generally speaking, any fresh fruit that is as delicate in flavor as the berry, is best served in as simple a manner as possible.

However, when the supply is plentiful, there are times when it is advisable to serve berries in various combinations in order to keep up interest in them. Used with oranges, grapefruit or pineapple, they make delicious and refreshing fruit cups that may be served for breakfast or at the end or beginning of any of the other meals in the day. In the form of tarts or cream pies, or mashed and served as a sauce for baked or boiled custards, used in gelatin desserts of almost endless variety, in frozen desserts or in salads they offer interesting possibilities for the menu maker.

There is always outstanding, the ever popular berry shortcake. This should have been put first in the list of ways for using berries, but there may still be truth in the old childhood rhyme of "last's the best of all the game."

Some of the nicest ways of using berries when combinations are desired are given below.

Berry Bavarian Cream.

Dissolve a package of gelatin product in one cup of boiling water and set aside to cool. Wash and pick over one quart of ripe berries. Hull, mash thoroughly and sweeten with one-third cup of powdered sugar. Whip one cup of cream or evaporated milk until stiff enough to hold its shape. When the gelatin mixture has cooled to the thickness of syrup, or when it begin to stiffen, beat with an egg beater until foamy, then fold in the berries and the cream. If the weather is very warm it will be best to stand the gelatin mixture in a bowl of crushed ice, or ice and water, until it stiffens. When mixed pour into one large mold or into eight individual ones and set aside to chill.

Berry Cottage Pudding.

Cream together one-fourth cup shortening and three-fourths cup sugar. Add one egg and beat until smooth. Next stir in three-fourth cup of milk and one and three quarter cups flour sifted with three teaspoons baking powder. Beat thoroughly. Mash ripe berries slightly and spread two cups of them in the bottom of a buttered baking dish, pour the batter over them and bake in a moderate oven for 25 minutes. Serve warm with cream or hard sauce.

Berry Sherbet.

Soak one tablespoon gelatin in one-half cup cold water, then add one-half cup of boiling water and stir until the gelatin dissolves. Mix one cup of sugar with one cup of boiling water and stir until the sugar dissolves, then add to the gelatin mixture. Set aside to cool.

Mash one quart of ripe berries and squeeze out the juice either by pressing it through a fine strainer or squeezing through cheese cloth. Stir this strained juice together with the juice of one lemon into the gelatin mixture and freeze. This makes one quart of sherbet.

THIS GREEN APRICOT PIE AS TASTY AS APPLE PIE

Fame of Green Apple Pie Is Well Known to All Family Cooks.

Cook a dozen or more green apricots in a shallow, covered pan, with one cup of water and one-half a cup sugar, until soft.

Have ready a pastry shell of good size, well built up around the edges.

Brush over the bottom with the beaten yolk of one egg, then pour in the syrup from the apricots, and arrange the fruit in the pastry shell in the form of a pyramid.

Make a meringue of the whites of one or two eggs, pile this over to cover the pyramid, sift fine, granulated sugar over it, and place in a moderate oven for five minutes to set and lightly brown. Serve while hot.

Green Apple Pie.

Wash and core apples, but do not peel; then cut fine; sugar. Turn into pie pan lined with crust. Dot with small pieces of butter or fat. Put on top crust, pushing it toward the center and pressing off edges. Bake in a moderate oven 50 minutes.

SWEDISH FRUIT SOUP MEETS THE SEASON'S DEMAND

Summer Food Fashion Specializes on Serving Fruit Soup for Dinner.

The vogue for serving fruit soups for the first course of hot-weather meals has brought to the front Swedish soup, which has the advantage of being prepared with dried fruits, which will appeal particularly to those housewives who maintain an emergency shelf of canned and packaged products.

This soup, which is especially wholesome and nutritious, is made with one-third cup evaporated apricots, one-third cup prunes, one-third cup sliced apples, two quarts water, one-half cup raisins, one-half teaspoon cinnamon, two tablespoons tapioca, three-fourths cup sugar and one-fourth teaspoon salt. Wash the fruits, pit prunes and let them stand over night in the water. Next day bring to the boiling point and simmer for about 45 minutes, or until the fruit is nearly tender.

Then add the cinnamon, sugar and tapioca and simmer 30 minutes longer.

Take off the stove and run through a colander. Serve either warm or cold.

TOURIST CAMPING NOW AN OUTDOOR SPORT

Campers Should Endeavor to Prepare Nourishing, Balanced Meals.

Tourist Camping has climbed to the top of the list of outdoor sports. It seems that once the "bug" has taken a nip, it never lets go. The tourist camper of last year is the tourist camper of this year and to this number is added the host of novices who are learning for the first time, the joy of sleeping in tents and eating outdoors. Practically all cities and towns support tourists camps and these camps are becoming better and better equipped each year.

The meals cooked by tourist campers do not differ greatly from those cooked at home. While the variety is somewhat less, the volume is greater because food never tastes so good as when cooked and eaten in the open where everybody has a hearty appetite.

It is no longer necessary to stock the car with a great variety of foods, for there is usually a store convenient to the camp.

The wise camper, however, carries a small stock of such canned goods as peas, tomatoes, corn, peaches and salmon; he will no doubt carry a small supply of potatoes, onions, possibly dried prunes, apricots and breakfast cereals. Of course, he will not forget sugar and condiments. A supply of canned milk takes care of all milk and cream needs.

Breakfast.

Both cooked and prepared breakfast cereals are popular for the camp berakfast as are also fresh berries and fruits when obtainable.

The appetite urge is greater when camping than when at home, and, while griddle cakes and bacon are considered by many too heavy for a midsummer breakfast, they do appeal to the tourist camper.

It is a good plan to fry the bacon first, then use the bacon fat as a constituent of the cakes and also to grease the griddle on which they are cooked.

Some campers take a percolator, but by far the greater number prefer the ordinary boiled coffee, which may be made in a convenient kettle. Somehow boiled coffee seems to fit best into camp conditions and nobody objects to a few coffee grounds.

Dinner.

The average camper dines at night, preferring to drive all day, stopping for lunch at some wayside stand.

Probably ham is the most popular meat for the camp dinner.

Sometimes it becomes a problem to cook enough ham for the whole party in one frying pan. This may help: Have the ham cut thick—an inch or an inch and a half. Sear on both sides in the hot frying pan and then cook with the cover on, pot roast style, for about 45 minutes. When cooked through, the cover of the pan is removed, flour browned in the drippings, and then a delicious gravy made by adding evaporated milk diluted with an equal amount of water.

Here's a suggestion for a salmon dish most campers are fond of: The unopened can is placed in a pan of boiling water for 10 or 15 minutes. It is then opened after having been dipped for a moment into cold water to prevent the liquid from spurting. When served with cream sauce, this makes a very delicious dish.

PEACH COMBINATION DISHES FEATURED BY HOME COOKS

Practice of Serving Extension Dishes Conserves Amount of Fruit Used.

At the early stage of the peach season it is the custom of home cooks to use the fruit in combination with other foods. These recipes for peach salad and peach tarts will illustrate how cleverly peaches may be utilized in such dishes.

Stuffed Peach Salad.

Peel and stone peaches. Chop nuts and celery fine. Whip cream and add it to the dressing so it will be fluffy. Add the nuts, celery and shredded coconut to the dressing.

Place two halves of peaches, with the pitted side up, on one lettuce leaf. Add a heaping dessert spoonful of dressing to each half.

Peach Tarts.

Place the peaches in the tart shells in layers with cinnamon, butter and sugar. Add about two teaspoons of water to each shell. Cut the marshmallows into fine pieces and place over the peaches. Bake in a moderate oven for 25 minutes. The ripe peach cooks very quickly.

These may be served with a rosette of whipped cream for a fancy garnish.

USE SOUR MILK AND CREAM IN MAKING QUICK BREADS

No Necessity for Wasting These Products as They Are Fine in Biscuits.

During the hot season many housekeepers find a supply of sour milk and cream in the refrigerator.

There is no necessity for wasting these products as they are most useful in making quick breads, especially muffins and biscuits.

Usually a scant half teaspoonful of soda will neutralize one cup of sour milk, although the amount of soda required varies with the acidity of the milk.

Sour Milk Biscuits.

Sift together one and one-half cups of flour, one and one-half teaspoons baking powder, one-half teaspoon salt, one-half teaspoon soda; chop into this one and one-half tablespoon cold shortening.

Add a cup of sour milk, cutting the dough with a spatula or knife.

Toss the soft dough on a floured board; knead in a little flour if the dough is too soft. Roll. Cut small biscuits, and bake in a quick oven.

Macaroni Soup.

Soak macaroni in water one-half hour. Boil until soft and add to soup stock or drain before cooking and simmer in soup stock until tender. Season and serve.

SHE'LL MAKE SO

Pauline M—— is just a young girl—as you can tell from her letter. But she has what I wish every young girl had—a real enthusiasm for cookery, and a real cleverness in ferreting out cooking secrets.

But let me quote her own spontaneous and delightful words: "I have tried many of your recipes—salmon croquettes, creamed chicken, spinach au gratin, baked cauliflower, devil's food cake, caramel nut cake, cherry pudding and so many of them I just can't name them. They were wonderful.

"You see, we were giving a shower for a friend and I made some of the recipes, and the people just couldn't get over how good and delicious they were, especially the caramel nut cake. They all asked who made all that, and they said me, but, boy! did they rush to me and ask how I got the recipes! I told them from Carnation Company, and they said, gee, they never knew Carnation Milk could do so much. So you see how all my friends appreciate your delicious recipes."

Pauline knows what you should know—that Carnation Milk, being simply pure whole milk, evaporated to double richness and "homogenized" so that the cream is broken up into finest particles and distributed through every drop, gives cooking results that even the best of bottled milk cannot equal, and that it is extraordinarily convenient, dependable and economical.

They all asked who made all that, and they said me, but, boy! did they rush to me and ask how I got the recipes! I told them from Carnation Company, and they said, gee, they never knew Carnation Milk could do so much. So you see how all my friends appreciate your delicious recipes."

Pauline knows what you should know—that Carnation Milk, being simply pure whole milk, evaporated to double richness and "homogenized" so that the cream is broken up into finest particles and distributed through every drop, gives cooking results that even the best of bottled milk cannot equal, and that it is extraordinarily convenient, dependable and economical.

Carnation Caramel Nut Cake—1⅓ cups pastry flour, 2 tsp. baking powder, ¼ tsp. salt, ¼ cup Carnation Milk, ¼ cup water, ⅓ cup shortening, 1 cup brown sugar, 2 eggs, ½ cup chopped nuts, ½ tsp. vanilla. Measure flour after sifting once. Resift with baking powder and salt. Dilute Carnation with water. Cream fat and sugar thoroughly. Add well beaten eggs and beat until mixture is light and creamy. Dredge the nuts with part of flour. Add flour and milk alternately to the creamed mixture, beginning and ending with flour. Add nuts and vanilla. Bake in moderate (375° F.) oven. Ice with Caramel Icing—2 cups light brown sugar, ⅓ cup Carnation Milk, ⅓ cup water, 1 tbsp. butter, ¼ tsp. vanilla. Mix sugar and Carnation diluted with water; cook until it forms soft ball in cold water. Add butter, cool, add vanilla, and beat until creamy. Spread on cake.

USE THE SAFEGUARDED MILK

Only purest whole milk, safeguarded at the source by the strictest cleanliness in the care and in the milking of the cows, and then evaporated to double richness, goes into Carnation cans. These cans are then hermetically sealed to continue the protection until Carnation reaches you. To save on butter and cream and get wonderfully fine textures, use Carnation Milk in all your cooking.

NUTRITIOUS COOKIES FOR PICNIC BASKET

Many Housewives Prefer to Bake the Cakes for the Family Outing.

Housewives who are planning to pack a picnic hamper will do well to concentrate on cookies and small cakes for the sweets for the lunch.

The most delicate and dainty tea cakes, jumbles and cookies may be purchased at the grocery and chain stores. Sweet fancy crackers are also obtainable in a variety of types suitable for picnic meals.

However, many housekeepers prefer to bake cookies for the lunch basket. These several varieties will be found very attractive for the purpose.

Oatmeal Cookies.

Ingredients needed are one cup shortening, one and one-half cups brown sugar, two eggs, three-fourths cup milk, two cups flour, two cups rolled oats, two teaspoons baking powder, one teaspoon cinnamon, one teaspoon nutmeg, one-half teaspoon cloves, one cup raisins, one-half cup finely chopped citron, one-half cup finely chopped candied orange peel and one cup chopped nut meats.

Cream the shortening and sugar and add the eggs. Mix the flour, baking powder and oatmeal together, add the spices, fruit and nuts and add to the other ingredients alternately with the milk. Mix well and drop spoonfuls on a greased and floured baking sheet about an inch apart. Bake in a moderate oven.

Butterscotch Cookies.

Use one-half cup shortening, two cups brown sugar, two eggs, four teaspoons baking powder, one-half teaspoon salt, two teaspoons vanilla and four cups flour.

Cream the shortening and sugar and add the eggs and vanilla. Sift the salt, flour and baking powder and add gradually. The dough should be very solid. Shape into a long roll and put in the icebox for several hours overnight. Cut in very thin slices and bake in a moderate oven.

Orange Cup Cakes.

Two cups cake flour, four teaspoons baking powder, two tablespoons butter or other shortening, one cup sugar, one egg, unbeaten, one tablespoon grated orange rind, one-fourth cup milk and one-half cup orange juice.

Sift flour once, measure, add baking powder, and sift altogether three times. Cream butter, add sugar and cream together thoroughly. Add egg and beat until light and fluffy. Add orange rind. Add flour, alternately with milk and orange juice, a small amount at a time. Beat after each addition until smooth.

Pour into muffin pans, filling them 2-3 full. Bake in moderate oven 25 minutes. Makes 12 large or 18 small cup cakes.

Sugar Cookies.

Take two and one-half cups cake flour, two teaspoons baking powder, one cup sugar, one-half teaspoon grated nutmeg, one-half cup butter or other shortening, two eggs, well beaten, grated rind one lemon and one tablespoon cream.

Sift flour, baking powder and nutmeg together twice. Cream butter thoroughly, add sugar gradually, and cream together until light and fluffy. Add eggs, lemon rind, cream and beat well. Add flour mixture gradually. Beat after each addition until smooth.

Roll into thin sheet, cut with cooky cutter and dredge with granulated sugar. Place on greased baking sheet and bake in hot oven about seven minutes.

According to Statistics.

In one of the last reports the total estimate of raw sugar used in this country in one year was 6,648,000 tons, which made an average of 114.4 pounds per person. United States used more sugar than any one country.

CREAMED DISH GARNISH

Dressing Up a Colorless Food Adds Appetite Appeal.

A finely chopped hard boiled egg and a tablespoon of minced parsley added to creamed chipped beef gives it an entirely new appearance and a delightful flavor that is excellent for breakfast on a warm morning.

It may be appetizingly served in cases made by cutting a slice from the tops of small rolls, removing part of the crumb and heating the rolls to make them crisp. This is a welcome change from toast.

ICY COLD DRINKS FOR SUMMER DAYS

Besides Being Cooling These Beverages Are Wholesome and Stimulating.

It matters not whether we see it on an attractive tea room menu or hear it from the lips of the dispenser in the circus tent, "ice-cold drinks" seems to have the same psychological effect on us on sweltering hot days; possibly it is the inviting sound of the tinkle of the cracked ice against the side of the glass that comes to the memory.

Often temptingly cooked food will have absolutely no appeal on the hot day, while just at the mere suggestion of a cooling drink the heat fairly seems to lift around us.

Sugar Syrup.

During the warm months it is a good plan to keep a bottle of sugar syrup in the refrigerator for sweetening beverages. This will blend instantly with the water and fruit juice and save the constant stirring which is necessary to dissolve the sugar.

This syrup may be prepared by stirring together two cups of sugar and one cup of water, until the sugar is dissolved. Boil slowly without stirring for five minutes, skim, cool and put away in a bottle for future use.

You will find that the fruit juices left from canning make most delicious beverages, so during the canning season be sure to save all the fruit juices left in the preserving kettle.

It is also a good plan to keep on hand several bottles of the commercial fruit juices as well as grape juice and ginger ale. These are excellent to use by themselves or in combination with the fruit juices.

Also, never be without lemons, for they greatly improve practically every summer beverage and are easily kept if placed in the icebox. Oranges may also be used for their juice and the grated rind.

Combine Various Fruits.

In using the fruit juices, better results are obtained by combining several fruits. Orange and pineapple combine well, using the finely grated pineapple and straining it before serving. Berry juices, especially currants and loganberries, make satisfying drinks. There are many ways that you may vary a foundation drink recipe.

One of the most refreshing, thirst-quenching drinks is made by combining orange beverage and grape juice. This is very easily and quickly prepared. Use one part of the beverage to two parts of grape juice to six parts of water and serve it in tall glasses with shaved ice. If an especially attractive drink is desired, add one or two maraschino cherries and a sprig or two of mint leaves.

SUITING MEALS TO THE WEATHER IS A REAL ART

Mineral Acids in Fruits Are Cool and Refreshing for Hot Weather.

An excellent way of insuring an ample amount of fruit in the summer diet is by generous use of fruit beverages. Alone or in combination with ginger ale or other carbonated drinks they offer a pleasant and wholesome method of cooling off.

Grape juice, the juice from stewed rhubarb or any of the stewed berries, canned pineapple juice, lemons and oranges of course grapefruit juice, etc., are not expensive and may be kept on hand to use for lunches or those in-between-times when a cooling drink is so much appreciated.

Cooling Drink.

Try, for example, a combination of one cup juice from stewed rhubarb, the juice of one lemon and one orange, sugar to sweeten, one cup crushed ice and two bottles ginger ale. If you have fresh mint on hand, garnish each glass with a fragrant sprig.

Fruits may also be used as appetizers for luncheon and dinner. There are many excellent combinations that can be made according to one's taste and the fruits on hand. The only precaution that must always be observed is not to oversweeten the fruit, especially if it is to serve as an appetizer, and to be sure that fruit cup or plain fruit is well chilled before serving.

VEGETABLE CHOWDER MAKES A GOOD LUNCHEON DISH

Chowders Are Distinguished for Being Both Appetizing and Wholesome.

Almost any mixture of vegetables may be used for this, providing it includes potatoes and onions, one cup potatoes in small dice and one-quarter cup chopped onions.

But four cups of mixed vegetables—potatoes, onions, carrots, peas, string beans, squash, lima beans, corn, celery or whatever is convenient—in a saucepan with three cups boiling water, two teaspoons salt and a tiny pinch of sugar.

Cover closely and boil slowly for 20 minutes. Then add one quart of milk, three tablespoons butter, and two tablespoons flour mixed to a smooth paste with a little cold water. Reheat to the boiling point and serve hot with crakers or croutons.

The vegetables should be cut in small dice or coarsely chopped, and they may all be raw or some raw, as the potatoes and onions, and the others leftover cooked ones.

About Cottage Cheese.

This form of cheese is one of the most wholesome and nutritious foods that we have on our food lists. It is also one of the most easily digested protein foods. Besides it does not only contain body building matter, but is worth eating because of its high lime and mineral salt content.

Slo-baked Wonder Bread now in ready-to-use form Wonder-Cut Bread

If you have waited for the regular Wonder Bread to be sliced—you can get it at your grocer's today!

Wonder-Cut Bread . . . the new form of slo-baked Wonder Bread . . . is on sale for all those who prefer the ready-to-use loaf.

Wonder-Cut Bread has the same full nut-like flavor as regular Wonder. It has the same delicate texture. The same golden-brown, unbroken crust. The same slo-baking process that promotes freshness and greater digestibility.

All we do is slice it for you.

Keen, razor-edged knives cut the regular Wonder Loaf into even, uncrumbled thicknesses. Each loaf after it is cut is placed in a specially designed wax container . . . made of prepared paper . . . then wrapped in a special air-tight wax wrapper. This preserves the Wonder Bread flavor that has won a nation.

Nothing is missing. The same super-quality ingredients, that cost $2,000,000 extra each year, are used. The same "short patent" flour that is milled from the heart of the wheat berry. The same pasteurized milk and double the usual quantity.

Wonder-Cut Bread is equal in every respect to the quality loaf you have come to expect in regular Wonder. If you prefer this new ready-to-use form of bread, get a loaf of Wonder-Cut today.

Remember, it is the only loaf of sliced bread that is slo-baked.

ICE CREAM MOST POPULAR DESSERT

This Ever Welcome Frozen Sweet Heads the List of Summer Favorites.

When the question of "What shall we have for dessert" is asked, in almost nine times out of 10 the answer is, "Let's have ice cream."

No matter in what form it is served, ice cream is the favorite dessert of youngsters and grown-ups. Perhaps that is why the United States uses more of this delicacy than any other country in the world.

There are, of course, all kinds of ice cream and an almost endless array of plain and fancy frozen desserts that are quite different from the original that was made in Italy about 1600. It was not until a hundred years or so later that America knew of it.

The food value of ice cream depends on the kind of mixture and the ingredients used in it. Generally speaking commercial ice cream is made of milk, cream, sugar, flavoring, gelatine and sometimes eggs.

The days of adulterating ice cream by using large quantities of some kind of filler are practically past. The materials used now are wholesome and pure and the product is made under modern sanitary conditions.

The finished ice cream has all the food value of milk and cream with their mineral and vitamin content, as well as the nutritive value of the sugar and whatever fruit or flavoring is used. Gelatine in small quantities is added to give smoothness and body to the ice cream and it also makes it more digestible.

About Frozen Mixtures.

In making frozen mixtures of any kind, more sugar is usually needed than would be required in an unfrozen mixture. For instance, a frozen custard is made much sweeter than a plain boiled custard. We say that frozen mixtures lose some of their sweetness during the freezing but what really happens is that the coldness retards the action of the taste buds in the mouth and that some of the flavor is really lost to the sense of taste—in other words, we lose the power of tasting the sugar, so that melted ice cream tastes much sweeter than when it is frozen solid.

Fruit Ices and Frappes.

Fruit ices, sherbets and frappes are made chiefly of fruit juices, sugar and water with a little gelatin or accasionally some beaten egg white. They are cooling and refreshing, but they do not have the high food value of ice cream.

Mousses and parfaits are made from whipped cream, sugar, fruit or other flavoring and are quite rich. For this reason, they are not so readily digested as the plainer ice cream.

Food Value of Ice Cream.

Home-made ice cream varies in its food value the same as does the commercial variety, depending entirely on the ingredients used. It is a very simple matter nowadays to provide a frozen dessert for the family dinner if one has one of the new types of refrigerator with the handy freezing unit. All that is necessary is to prepare the mixture, pour it into the freezing pan and let it stand for several hours.

Or commercial ice cream may be kept hard and frozen for hours by placing it in the freezing compartment.

There are still a great many of us who still depend on the old-fashioned turn-the-crank type of ice cream freezer and who prefer the kind of ice cream it makes to all other kinds. A good plain vanilla ice cream mixture for such a freezer uses three cups of rich milk, one cup of cream or evaporated milk, one cup sugar, one-quarter teaspoon salt and two tablespoons vanilla extract. Scald the milk, add the sugar and stir until dissolved. Cool, add the cream, salt and vanilla and freeze, using eight parts of finely crushed ice to one of coarse freezing salt.

Frozen Custard.

A delicious frozen custard calls for one quart of scalded milk, one cup of sugar, three beaten eggs, one-fourth teaspoon salt, one teaspoon corn starch, one tablespoon vanilla and one teaspoon lemon extract. Beat the eggs until light. Mix the corn starch and sugar and add the eggs, then stir in the scalded milk. Cook, stirring constantly until as thick as thick cream. Remove at once from the fire, add the salt and flavorings and cool. Freeze as plain ice cream.

Crushed sweetened fresh or canned fruit may be added to either of the above recipes, using two cups of fruit and two cups of milk instead of three. Add the fruit just before freezing. For chocolate ice cream, add four squares of melted unsweetened chocolate to the custard mixture and cook for five minutes, stirring constantly.

How to Can String Beans.

Wash, string and break two gallons of green beans. Bring three quarts water to a boil with one pint vinegar and one cup sugar. Add the beans and cook for 30 minutes. Seal boiling hot in hot sterilized jars. This will make about five quarts of canned beans. To serve, drain off the liquid and cook, seasoning with salt and bacon until tender.

Food Value of Corn.

Corn is high in starch content and moderate in potassium salt. It is low in lime. In bulk, it classes as medium.

NEW CAPITAL BASE FOR REPUBLIC STEEL

Ohio Corporation Also Absorbs Berger Manufacturing Co.; Doubles Preferred Stock.

By the Associated Press.

COLUMBUS, O., June 27.—Merger of the Republic Iron & Steel Co. of Youngstown and the Berger Manufacturing Co., Canton, into the Republic Steel Corporation was announced here today with the filing of merger papers with Secretary of State Brown.

The merger papers provided for a revision of the capital structure of the company. Preferred stock was increased from $25,000,000 to $50,000,000 and no par value common was increased from 1,000,000 to 5,000,000 shares.

In the application the companies said their properties in Ohio had a total valuation of $181,186,595 and that the properties owned and operated by the merged organizations outside the State were worth $540,433,979.

Absorption of Berger Manufacturing Co. by Republic Steel is a formal legal step in consummation of the merger which formed Republic from a half dozen other steel companies, chief of which was the old Republic Iron & Steel.

BRITISH TO BAR U. S. APPLES TO KEEP OUT INSECT LARVAE

WASHINGTON, June 27.—A proposed embargo by Great Britain on apples from every section of the United States between July 7 and Nov. 15, except for certain certified grades, was made known today at the British Embassy. The State Department was notified.

The proposed embargo was described as a step to prevent the entry into England of apples infected with fruit fly larvae and was explained as in no sense a retaliation against the recently enacted United States tariff act.

Under the embargo, all United States apples, except the barreled grades of "fancy" and "fancy No. 1," and the boxed grades of "extra fancy" or "fancy" would be prohibited. Even these would be excluded unless bearing a certificate from a properly authorized inspector of the Department of Agriculture stating the shipment contained no other apples than the grades named.

DIVIDEND DECLARATIONS

By the Associated Press.

NEW YORK, June 27.—Directors of Devoe & Raynolds have declared a quarterly dividend of 30 cents each on the Class A and Class B common, payable July 17 to stock of record July 7, placing both issues on a $1.20 annual basis, compared with $2.40 previously paid.

Directors of U. S. Finishing Co. have omitted the regular quarterly dividend of 50 cents on the common due at this time.

Directors of the Eagle Picher Lead Co. passed the quarterly dividend of 20 cents on the common stock, basing their action on an inventory shrinkage caused by the decline in metal prices.

COMMERCIAL BULLETIN REVIEW

BOSTON, June 27.—The Commercial Bulletin of Boston tomorrow will say:

"The wool market is less active and hardly so optimistic, in consequence of the sale of some low-priced fine tops, induced, it is believed, by general commodity and stock market conditions. The majority of the trade, however, believe that the market is fundamentally sound and that even though the heavyweight season be far from successful, the last half of the year will see a better business.

"Foreign markets are low and generally in favor of the buyer, although Australia kept surprisingly steady this week. European markets are awaiting the opening of the London auctions July 8, when offerings of 155,000 bales are expected.

"The activities in the West are gradually subsiding. With 85 per cent of the new clip moved, this is only natural. Prices are at the top as the season ends, 25 cents being paid for the best Montana clips.

"Mohair still is slow and prices are hardly changed at about 40 cents for original adult Texas hair.

"The rail and water shipments of wool from Boston from January 1, 1930, to June 26, 1930, inclusive, were 66,070,000 pounds against 87,133,000 pounds for the same period last year. The receipts from January 1, 1930, to June 26, 1930, inclusive were 137,640,900 pounds against 141,161,985 pounds for the same period last year."

BOND TRADE QUIET, PRICES IRREGULAR

By the Associated Press.

NEW YORK, June 27.—Investors displayed only nominal interest in the listed bond market today and no change of trend was evident in the quiet trading. Prices were irregular.

The apathy was particularly apparent toward the railroad list of issues, usually most active. Sales of legal issues were small and prices little changed. Atchison 4s, and Erie 5s, both up ½ point were among the few rails for which a moderate demand developed.

Utility bonds showed to the best advantage among the corporation issues. Bell Telephone of Pennsylvania 5s touched a new high for the year. Columbia Gas and Electric 5s, Detroit Edison 5s, Duquesne Light 4½s, and Metropolitan Edison 4½s gained about ½ point. General Public Service 5½s appreciated one point.

Some sharp changes took place among industrial bonds with a speculative flavor. Cuban American Sugar 8s touched a new low for the year, and other sugar bonds were depressed. Container 5s lost more than a point to touch a new low. Pierce Oil 8s and Solvay American 5s sold at new highs for the year. International Paper 5s lost 1½ to set a new low price.

Trading in convertible issues dwindled and prices softened in sympathy with stocks. Foreign issues were quiet and irregular.

The entire list of United States Governments was traded in with prices ruling steady.

NEW YORK, June 27.—Fabricated steel plate orders in May totaled 28,678 tons, compared with 37,709 tons in April and 47,715 tons in May last year. Orders for the five months ended May 31 amounted to 182,846 tons, compared with 238,835 tons in the corresponding period last year.

A special meeting of stockholders of J. G. White & Co. has been called for July 21 to vote on a plan approved by directors to split the common stock on a five-for-one basis and increase the authorized common to 500,000 shares from 30,000. The new common would have a par value of $20, instead of $100, as at present.

Adolf Gobel, Inc., has called its outstanding 10-year 6 per cent notes on Julyl 7 at 104 and accrued interest.

Directors of the Diamond Match Co. have determined to proceed with the preparation of a plan for reincorporation and recapitalization of the company, President Fairburn announced. He said it is expected the plan, which the board is convinced will benefit stockholders, will be submitted to the stockholders during the latter part of the summer.

Sales of department stores reporting for May in the New York Federal Reserve District averaged five per cent higher compared with the same month last year, the New York Federal Reserve Bank monthly review reports. Stocks of merchandise on hand at the end of the month were slightly smaller than a year ago. May sales of reporting wholesale firms, however, showed a decrease of 14 per cent from last year. Total sales of chain stores were below those of April, but slightly larger than those of May last year.

Billings of woolen and worsted cloth in May exceeded production for that month by 172,000 yards, the Wool Institute reports. The May output of 4,698,788 yards was about 4 per cent below that of the previous month, while billings of 4,870,449 yards were practically identical with those of April. Stocks on hand showed an increase of less than one-half of one per cent, a change held due to the readjustment of inventories as of June 1.

The Continental Oil Co. has obtained from the Interior Department permission to drill three offset wells in North Dome, Kettleman Hills, to temblor zone, to protect its property lines from drainage. The company, however, will not be permitted to place the wells on production.

Dutch East Indies rubber shipments during May totaled 25,329 tons, compared with 24,090 tons in April, cables to the Rubber Exchange of New York announced.

Silk Market.

NEW YORK, June 27.—Raw silk futures closed weak; sales, 1240 bales; July, 2.95; September, 2.90; December, 2.91. Open market quotation (60-day basis). Shanghai steam extra B 3.40; Canton double extra A 14-16s, 1.75; Japanese crack double extra, 3.50.

COTTON CLOSES LOWER ON NEW YORK MARKET

By the Associated Press.

NEW YORK, June 27.—Yesterday's advances were followed by reactions in cotton during today's trading under realizing or reselling by recent buyers who appeared to be influenced by the failure of demand to become more general or aggressive and an easier technical position.

July contracts sold off from 13.82c to 13.45c and the new October from 13.6 to 12.87c making net declines of about 15 to 25 points with the mid afternoon market showing rallies of some 5 or 10 points from these figures on covering.

WHEAT CLOSES LOWER ON LOCAL EXCHANGE

ST. LOUIS MERCHANTS' EXCHANGE, June 27.—Wheat closed ⅜c lower on July and ¼c on September after an irregular course. Corn closed ¼c lower on July and ⅜c higher on September. Fairly liberal movement of wheat in southwest taken as a whole was mentioned in news of market.

Opening unchanged on July and ⅛c up on September, the market sold off early, July going down ½c. Liverpool closed ½d to 2d higher. Winnipeg opened higher but lost most of its gain early.

The news of trade included report of offerings from North America being less numerous and that report sales yesterday and today were over 2,000,000 bushels.

July wheat opened at 80¼c, September wheat 93¼c. July corn 78⅜c, September corn 74c and December 68⅛c.

Local wheat receipts, which were 190,000 bushels, compared with 315,000 a week ago and 81,200 a year ago, included 15 cars local and 21 through. Corn receipts, which were 96,600 bushels, compared with 67,200 a week ago and 201,000 a year ago, included 56 cars local and 13 through. Oats receipts, which were 57,200 bushels, compared with 35,000 a week ago and 39,600 a year ago, included 8 cars local and 8 through. Hay receipts were 9 cars local adn 1 through.

St. Louis Cash Grain.

WHEAT—No. 2 hard, 90½c; No. 3 hard, 89c; sample grade hard, 79c; sample grade yellow hard, 78c; No. 4 dark hard, 9½c.

CORN—No. 1 mixed, 80½@81c; No. 2 mixed, 80@81c; No. 3 mixed, 79c; No. 6 mixed, 75½c; No. 2 yellow, 83c.

CHICAGO WHEAT CLOSES UNCHANGED TO HIGHER

By the Associated Press.

CHICAGO, June 27.—Report that Kansas farmers are piling their wheat on the ground and making few deliveries except for storage, counted today as a strengthening market factor. On the other hand, the movement of wheat in the Southwest taken as a whole continued to be of fairly liberal volume, eight points receiving a total of 1662 cars today. Some selling here resulted from reported rains in Alberta Province, Canada.

Wheat closed firm, at the same as yesterday's finish to ⅜c higher. Corn closed unchanged to ⅜c up, oats ¼@⅜c off, and provisions varying from 2c decline to an equal gain.

Cable dispatch at hand said millers abroad were purchasing wheat more freely, and that offerings from North America were less numerous. Opening unchanged to ⅜c higher, Chicago wheat dropped more than 1c a bushel, but then rallied in some cases upwards of 2c. Corn and oats followed wheat, with corn starting unchanged to a shade higher and afterward developing firmness. Provisions held about steady.

Explaining the many nervous changes in wheat values today was talk current that a sick man does not get well in a day, and that the wheat market could not be expected to advance continuously after the severe setbacks that it has suffered of late. Moreover, indications appeared plain that many traders bullishly were disposed to proceed with caution, and to avoid purchasing on bulges in prices, but seizing opportunities to buy on setbacks. Houses with Eastern connections were conspicuous at times as buyers.

Tending to lift wheat values today were estimates that North American export business yesterday and today totaled more than 2,500,000 bushels.

CURB MARKET DULL BUT HIGHLY IRREGULAR

By the Associated Press.

NEW YORK, June 27.—Curb prices were highly irregular in a dull market today. The line of least resistance was downward until late in the last hour when a spurt of short covering reduced earlier losses of 1 to 3 points in the active utilities.

After extending yesterday's advances a point or so at the opening, the market was again subjected to short selling, but resistance was fairly strong and the professional operations for the decline met with little encouragement. Electric Bond and Share was used as the chief vehicle of the bear faction. The stock was ridden down nearly 4 points below the Thursday close before the rally started. It finished the day a point lower.

Until the final 15 or 20 minutes the day's trading was at an unusually slow pace. Turnover quickened on the covering, however, and the tape was slightly late at the close.

American Gas & Electric had a move of several points, but was up nearly 2 on the day. Stocks like Middle West Utilities, Niagara Hudson, American Superpower, Consolidated Gas of Baltimore, United Gas and United Light & Power "A" were called upon to withstand only a moderate volume of selling and held mostly firm.

The oil group was irregular, with net changes small. Lone Star Gas, Gulf and Vacuum lost about a point, Cosden and Standard of Kentucky rallied.

Deere recovered most of a four-point decline. Niles Bement Pond, Dresser Manufacturing "A" and "B" and American Cynamid "B" were firm. Aluminum of America and Spiegel May preferred each broke five points. Technicolor was subjected to another barrage of selling that depressed it 7 points to a new low before it was permitted to recover part of the loss.

Six True Bills Supressed—Dr. J. C. Thurman Accused Under Drug Act.

Sixty-five indictments were returned by the grand jury in its final report yesterday, including six which were suppressed pending the arrests of those against whom charges were brought.

Dr. Joseph C. Thurman, a physician with offices at 4489 Delmar boulevard, was indicted on charges of violating the Harrison anti-narcotic act. The bill contains 19 charges of prescribing drugs to addicts outside of regular professional practice. Others named in narcotic charges were Willie Carroll and Edward Wallace, alleged drug peddlers.

In considering cases presented to it under the drastic Jones amendment to the Volstead act the grand jury exercised the privilege the law provided for the courts—that of distinguishing between petty and major violations. It voted no true bill in more than half of the cases called to its attention. Those indicted were:

Bernard Perkins and Jueta Cerita, manufacture; Antonio Trampiano, transportation; Simon Bloomberg and Earl Richardson, transportation; Sam Cuiera, 8625 South Grand boulevard, manufacture; Charles Kreutztrager, basement saloon at southeast corner of Seventh and Olive streets, sale; Charles Valoni, Pevely, Mo., sale; Clarence Boyer, Valley Park, sale; John Lugar, Fourteenth and Spruce streets, sale; James J. Snodgrass and Ben Scarisci, Bayless and Gravois roads, manufacture; Sam Valenti, transportation; John Bianchi, Pendleton avenue and Hodiamont car tracks, sale; Frank Vines and Charles Lisitano, 1046 North Grand boulevard, sale; John Lacuni, 1730 Missouri avenue, manufacture, and Joseph Tallo, 721 North Leffingwell avenue, sale.

Counterfeit Money Cases.

Indictments charging manufacture of counterfeit money were returned against Samuel C. Boyer, Robert Edgar Reed, Willis B. Lewis, Charles Moore, Lee Longenecker, Mrs. Margaret Schneedle, Emil Enstall and Charles Hookes. George P. Dausch, Harry J. Grass and John F. Sebol, were indicted on charges of raising the value of money orders.

Mail fraud schemes are charged in indictments naming L. M. Abernathy, Frederick Burkhalter, Lynn H. Dale, Leo F. McBride, Mack Rommell, Jacob Goldstein and Ben Peltz. Irving R. Gaertner, former operator of an agency which attempted to "shame" debtors into paying delinquent accounts, was indicted for sending scurrilous dunning letters through the mails. Charles W. Cole and Louis Knauer were indicted on charges of stealing from residence mail boxes. Other indictments and the charges:

C. E. Winslow, obtaining funds by impersonating a Department of Agriculture agent; Fred Tatum, Negro, perjury; Wesley Pope Sykes, impersonating an army officer and passing a worthless check; Leon R. Sanford, forging signature to a Government check; Oscar L. Priess, concealing a check stolen from the mails, and Claude S. Griggs and Pearle May Jordon, conspiracy to violate the Mann act.

TELL IT —To— SALLY

Should Young and Healthy Women Be Supported by Their Ex-Husbands?

By SALLY MARTIN

SUPPORT for minor children—or for wives who have grown old and sick in marriage service—of course.

But how about young, healthy, childless women who are perfectly able to support themselves? Should the courts back them in the claim for support from men with whom they will no longer live. Is such alimony just? Is it even decent? Isn't the woman who takes it on a par with the thug and the white-way butterfly? And shouldn't all decent citizens despise such a parasite?

"Dear Miss Martin:

"Five years ago I married a girl that I was crazy about. She worked in the same office with me. Every man who met her fell for her—she was so pretty, so smartly dressed, so quick and capable, and had such a snappy line. When we married, I thought I was the luckiest fellow on earth. What a sap I was!

"As soon as she married, she quit her job. That was my wish. I had dreamed, as any regular fellow does, of coming home to a beautiful, happy wife and a comfortable home. But right from the start I found my mistake. As soon as she stopped working, my wife also dropped every other responsibility. She seemed to think she had settled herself pretty for life, and didn't need to make any further effort.

"She not only let herself get sloppy, but she let our home get the same way. She was lazy and whining and ill-tempered. She sat around reading and let the house get dirty and disordered.

"Well, we had argument after argument, with her always insisting that I was in the wrong, and having hysterics all over the place when she couldn't have her own way about everything.

"Finally, we had one whale of a row, and I got so disgusted and infuriated at the way she did and talked, that I did lose my temper, and I slapped her. Not a hard blow, but one that made her goggle-eyed with surprise. Well, after that I left the house and went on a fishing trip. If the row hadn't come up we were slated to go to an expensive seaside resort for two weeks, but I was so disgusted that I just left. I was gone for a little over two weeks.

"And the minute I hit town on my return, a divorce complaint was slapped on me. And you should have seen the accusations in it! She had me charged with everything she could think of! Most of it was lies, but what could I do? A woman gets believed in court, and her cousin had seen me slap her . . . that one and only time.

"You know the answer. When the case came to trial, she wept and looked pathetic all over the place. And her cousin testified for her. The judge gave me hell for slapping her, and awarded her $100 a month alimony . . . permanent alimony!

"I'd have been willing enough to pay her alimony for a few months, to give her a chance to brush up on her business training and find a job . . . but that wasn't enough. She'd got me hooked and she intended me to stay hooked! You should have seen the gleam in her eye when she passed me, going out of the courtroom with her nose in the air. She had me and she knew it.

"$100 a month wasn't so bad then. I was making $300 myself. But now things have changed with me. I got sick, and when I was well again I had to take less pay for the next job I got. I only get $160 now . . . and although I explained to the Judge how things were, the most reduction I can get in that alimony is $20. I still have to pay her $80 a month.

He's the Goat.

"Now, honestly, sally Martin, do you think that's fair? My wife absolutely refuses to do one lick of work. She is young—only 28—healthy, and perfectly competent to earn at least $125 a month herself . . . But she'd rather live on $80 and do nothing.

"She lives with her mother, and runs around to night clubs and road houses half the night with a lot of gigolos she finds in such places. While I'm the goat.

"Bob Gordon."

Sports Stockings

CORRECT for the sports frock of cotton and silk or cotton shantung is the stocking of mesh lisle, woven with a slenderizing clock and available in a wealth of fashionable new colors.

More suitable for the spectator than the town costume is the stocking of sheer silk which has a colored clock in contrast. The spring colors in hosiery are accented with clocks in green, blue, red or black, all with very attractive effect when worn with harmonizing shoes.

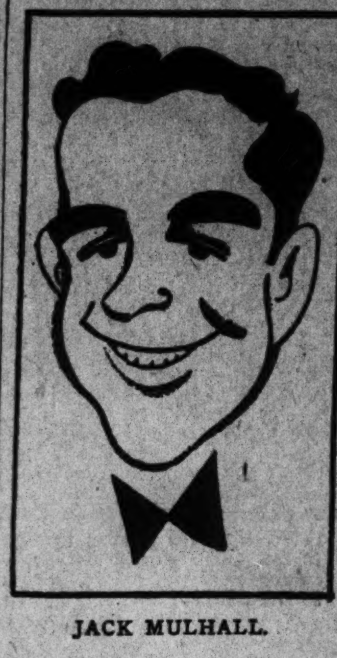
Loganberry Ice

Three pints loganberries, three pints water. Cook until berries are tender and then strain. Mix one and one-half pints of sugar with the hot strained liquid, the juice of three oranges and the juice of three lemons. Mix all together and freeze. A delightful ending to a substantial dinner.

My Greatest Movie Thrill

How a Green Actor Spoiled a Scene When He Believed He Had Killed a Man.

By JACK MULHALL.



JACK MULHALL.

IT came when I was a youngster and rather new in the motion picture business. I was working in an underworld melodrama, the name of which I can't recall now. But the thrill is as vivid as the day it happened years ago.

I played the role of a cop, and a Mr. Morrison, an old trouper in the profession, played the part of one of the crooks. He was the man I was supposed to shoot.

That morning, I'd read a story in a magazine about a "movie" murder. It described the revenge of a "prop" man who loaded a movie gun with genuine bullets beneath the wadding of a blank-cartridge. The story made no impression on me. I knew that things weren't done that way in pictures. I didn't even take the trouble to inspect the pistol I was to use, as I always do now.

The action began, and the "moment" arrived. I raised the pistol and fired. Morrison fell "dead." As he collapsed he clapped his hands to his starched shirt front, a black hole appeared there, and beneath it blood oozed and rapidly spread. I thought of the story——

Being of the stage, I was not familiar with movie devices, I thought I had killed him, and I spoiled the scene with my consternation. He had put a smudge of black paint on his white shirt with his hand, and at the same time, by the blow of his hand, had smashed a little bladder of red paint the prop man had placed there for the purpose. The results were too realistic for pleasure.

I'll never forget that thrill!

Gift for the Hostess

EVERY housekeeper, especially the bride, will rejoice over the courtesy gift of a thoughtful guest who appreciates the niceties of homemaking by a practical selection.

There are innumerable valuable and inexpensive trinkets which entice one to buy, yet the small things that can be used daily are to be commended. Have you ever thought of sending your hostess a good-looking case for a blanket or comforter, or a case for table linen and napkins, made of washable, dustproof material and conveniently equipped with a zipper fastening? Such a case comes in attractive designs and colors to harmonize with chosen color schemes.

Be sure to cook spinach in an open kettle if you wish it to retain its bright green color. Never cover it.

A PIECE —OF— HER MIND

By ELSIE McCORMICK

A FEW readers have written in to dispute my statement concerning the relative emotional capacity of men and women. I said not long ago that women lead more adventurous lives than men because their emotions go up and down so much more sharply.

Of course, intensity of feeling is a difficult thing to measure, and my guesses concerning it are no better than those of a psychologist or a professional flagpole sitter.

When the emotions of joy or despair are based on a real reason, the average man probably knows as great depths or heights of feeling as the average woman. In the little matter of romantic love it may be that he experiences even more glowing raptures. The young lady usually keeps her feet on earth and looks at rosy clouds in a rather practical manner.

But what makes a woman's life interesting, according to my notion, is the fact that she can experience the darkness of great tragedy and the light of high exaltation without any help from outside events.

Owing to endocrine influences, which may some day be better explained, she can sink into deep despair for no reason whatever, or wake up on the crystal peaks of paradise when nothing has occurred to make her unusually happy. Thus even life in a quiet suburban bungalow is much more exciting than it looks.

I believe that if a woman could be transported suddenly into an average masculine soul, the tranquillity would almost bore her to death.

Gettysburg, which I visited recently, is probably the only town in the United States that has a battlefield for its major industry. Its population includes 102 guides licensed by the War Department. A large number of the other inhabitants sell post cards, maps and pennants, or rent rooms to the million or so visitors who stream through the hamlet every year.

Staying in Gettysburg is like walking into the reversed time current that flowed through Berkeley Square. The battle which sent Lee back over the Virginia hills is still red hot news. Residents talk of it with much excitement in their voices, and nearly all the citizens, I've heard, have collections of bullets which they will show upon almost no provocation.

Except for the 1200 monuments, the field has been left almost as it was. One can still see Gen. Meade's headquarters, parts of the old breastworks, and the breech-loading cannon from England that had a remarkable range of five miles.

It is encouraging to note that the beauty of the monuments is in inverse proportion to their age. The older ones are made hideous by iron garlands and other relics of the jig-saw period. A column set up in honor of the New York boys bears on its top a narrow stone wigwam and an Indian to represent Tammany.

A famous Irish brigade is commemorated by an overdecorated Celtic cross and a long-nosed wolfhound that looks strangely like a crocodile. The newer monuments, nearly all of which are beautiful, indicate a remarkable change in the nation's artistic taste.

The list of dead, wounded and missing at Gettysburg totaled 43,454, several thousand having been mowed down at the Bloody Angle within 60 minutes. Our guide, who was a World War veteran, agreed with another veteran in the party that Chateau-Thierry and the Argonne were far safer places than this field in Southern Pennsylvania.

Pineapple Frappe

One fresh pineapple, shredded, 1 pound fresh marshmallows, cut into small pieces, 1 cup chopped pecan meats, ½ pint cream whipped stiff. Mix ingredients. Line sherbet glasses with split lady fingers and pour mixture on top of them. Garnish the tops with either maraschina cherries or fresh strawberries.

POTENTIAL HUSBANDS.

A confirmed bachelor's heart is like a sponge; it can be full and yet not show it—or it can be "wrung" and spring right back into form.

No man can possibly tell a woman HOW long he is going to love her; but every woman insists on having at least a rough estimate, if only in order to check up on him, when she sees signs of a slump.

A man can manage to get accustomed to the kind of a woman who bursts forth like a geyser, into tears or hysterics, at regular intervals; but the woman who keeps him tip-toeing around, is the kind like a volcano, who goes along serenely for months, and then erupts suddenly and unexpectedly.

Many a woman has been amazed to discover that the husband who couldn't open a can of peas or butter his own toast at home, is known among his cronies as "the best cook in camp."

The only "reckless" loves, these days, appear to be the married ones. A seasoned bachelor knows that an ounce of caution is worth a pound of explanation and picks his words warily.

When a man glances over his shoulders, it is not because he is afraid of his own shadow, but because he is afraid of some WOMAN'S shadow.

Before marriage, a man may wire a girl just in order to tell her that he loves her; but, after marriage, he hesitates to go to that extravagance and effort, unless he has something really IMPORTANT to say.

DAILY STORY FOR CHILDREN

By Mary Graham Bonner.

Honorable Pig Family

"YES, grunt, grunt," said one of the pigs named The Honorable Porker, "the family name of pig is an honorable one."

"It is indeed, squeal, squeal," said a pig named Baby Pink Squealer.

And all the pigs joined in the squealing, grunting chorus and said:

"It is an honorable name."

"I don't see why it is," said Peggy.

"Just because you say it is doesn't make it so," John added.

"It's an honorable name," said The Honorable Porker, "because it means that for years and years and years we have always upheld the family name.

"We have always shown how much we think of food, we have always shown how much we think of mud, we have always shown how much we think of twisted tails, little eyes, big snouts and talking in grunts and squeals.

"Now some families change their ways. Some may care for apartments, others may care for houses.

"But pigs are all alike. We all like all kinds of food. We all like to be lazy. We are all fond of daydreaming and resting in the muddy earth.

"None of us care for adventures. None of us care for travel.

"We remain true to the name of Pig, every single one of us. We have never cared about having wings like birds or flying about in planes.

"Can you imagine pigs flying through the air? Of course not! We uphold the family name. We never change. We are always pigs, real pigs, grunt, grunt, squeal, squeal."

And all the pigs said:

"Grunt, grunt, squeal, squeal."

Cooked Salad Dressing

For the benefit of those who do not care for a salad dressing containing oil. Yolks of three eggs, one-third cup sugar, one teaspoon mustard, one-half teaspoon paprika, three-fourths teaspoon salt, one cup vinegar. Beat eggs slightly and mix in other ingredients. Cook the mixture, stirring constantly, until it is smooth and thickened. An equal amount of whipped cream added at serving will make the dressing particularly nice. Keep in the refrigerator and the dressing will keep for a long time.

St. Louis Singer to Study Abroad

MISS HELEN MUSICK of St. Louis, a protege of Mr. and Mrs. Leopold Ackerman, who has been studying in New York under William S. Brady, is going abroad to study under leading music masters at Berlin. She will be accompanied by Mrs. A. Rothmeyer, widow of Adolphe L. Rothmeyer, former conductor at the Metropolitan Opera House in New York, and will be introduced in musical circles on the continent. Miss Music is the possessor of a fine soprano voice.

A Novel Fly Catcher

ONE housewife who was much annoyed with flies and did not like fly papers hit upon a novel plan which was effectual in driving the pests away.

After meals she put warm water in a saucer and added a few drops of formaldehyde, then sit it on the table. She made a little narrow ladder of white blotting paper for the convenience of the flies. She claims this attracted them and helped materially and in an hour she brushed the victims from the table.

A little salt should be added to the berries when making blueberry pie to take away any flat taste.

Preparing for School

HAVE you a child who will enter school in the fall?

If so, this a good time to check up on his condition, and to see to it that he is not called on to enter a new phase of life with physical handicaps.

It is markedly unfair to the child and to the school to allow him to undertake a new and probably strenuous activity without being as physically fit as possible.

To the child it is unfair because he is thus handicapped. To the school it is unfair because the educators are asked to work with "defective material."

The first entrance of the child into school represents to him an initial contact with society. The home realm is a sheltered sphere. The restrictions imposed on him at home are relatively mild and flexible compared to those that he will be obliged to meet in the classroom.

School is one of the hurdles which the child ought to be able to jump without tripping. His chances are better if he is free from physical defects.

Every child before being sent to school should have a thorough physical examination—not a "lick and a promise" but a conscientious going-over.

Notice should be made on a proper record-card of his physical condition in its positive and negative aspects. This record should serve both as a notice of the defects which need correction, and of the conditions that prevail. It will be an excellent basis for judging the physical progress the child makes as he grows older.

Special attention should be paid to the nutritional state of the child—whether he is underweight, overweight, or shows other evidences of malnutrition; to his nose and throat; his teeth; and to his eyes and ears. The latter are often neglected, but are particularly important. Most learning is achieved through these instruments of perception.

Every child entering school also should have been vaccinated against small-pox, and immunized against diphtheria. Parents owe their children the benefits of a start without a handicap.

A sprinkling of grated cheese over the cream soup will add to its nutriment and appearance.

Easy to Make With BECK'S FRUIT PECTIN

Healthful, Delicious, Home-made Jam!

How the children love them! And how healthful pure home-made jams and jellies are—for all the family. Many a mother has given hours of hard work in the hot kitchen to preparing these healthful treats for the little folk.

The modern mother believes in modern ways. She prepares the same delicious jams and jellies. But she does it without the hard work, wasted time, uncertain results. She uses Beck's Fruit Pectin.

Beck's Fruit Pectin is made from the finest California oranges and lemons. It concentrates only the pectin—the element in fruits which causes them to "jell". Colorless, odorless, tasteless. Yet it makes any fruit or juice "jell". No guesswork—no failures. Just the pure ripe fruit, sugar, and Beck's Fruit Pectin.

CHAPTER XL

"CHRIS, are we crazy?"

"I am," he admitted. "I intend to remain so. I feel as if I was born again! I start fresh tomorrow. I'm going to do different things, go after different things. There's something to work for—I tell you I'm different. And beside, what do we care if they all fuss and talk and get photographs and rant around?" he demanded, courageously. "And what do you care if my mother and aunts like you or not?"

"Oh, but I do care!" Mary Kate answered promptly. "That's going to be part of—the fun," she predicted, youthfully. "I'm going in for all this—tremendously, Chris. I'm going to dress smartly—but plainly, you know. I'm going to speak French and German like a native—"

"French like a German native, and German like a French native—"

"Ah, well, you can be funny, but you wait and see! And I'm going to have a houseful of children—boys in linen suits, and girls in fuzzy hair and smocks, and a fat baby with a colored nurse—"

"Why colored? To save the child's eyes?"

They were both laughing, and for an instant his brown lean cheek touched her satin-smooth fair one, and her silky hair brushed his cheek.

"No, but because they're so kind to babies," she explained seriously. "We'll have a country place—"

"My grandmother Vreeland's place—"

"Well. And this troop of Irish-American roughnecks will be perfectly famous," Mary Kate continued. "And I'll be the sort of—oh, well, plainly-dressed smart woman, you know, who knows all about books, and plays and German and Italian—"

"It was French, a minute ago."

"Oh, well, French, too. And I'll study the operas, too, Chris. Do you like the opera? Do you go to the opera?"

"Sometimes. I like some of them."

"At the Metropolitan?"

"At the Metropolitan. The old man has a box."

"A box!"

"Certainly."

"At the Metropolitan Opera House?"

"Why not?"

"Oh, Heavens!" Mary Kate said, on a gasp. "Should I have to wear evening dress?"

"You would. You could wear that thing you wore Friday night, and my Aunt Minnie's pearls."

"Oh, sure enough! Those pearls are yours, aren't they, Chris?"

"They are yours, now, I present them to you."

She gave a frightened laugh.

"Chris, we may have lots of fun!"

"We will have."

"We didn't think our adventure would turn out like this, did we?"

"Rather not! I didn't know," Chris added, "that there were ever a woman in the world like you."

"I have to go in," Mary Kate said. "My mother's going over to Aunt Julia's and Mart'll need me to help him getting to bed."

Chris tipped her head back under the spring stars.

"I love you," he said. "I've never done anything to deserve you, and that country house full of kids, and those nights at the opera, and all the rest of it. But"—

He stopped, at a loss for words.

"I know you will!" she whispered, as if he had finished his thought.

Three minutes later, shaken and breathless and bewildered, she heard the side gate click after him. Mary Kate took one more look at the blue dark sky and the stars and the rising tiers of golden apartment house windows, and the powdery silver of the Milky Way, and drew one more great breath of the lilac and syringa scented night. Then she went into the kitchen.

It was just as she and Chris had left it: orderly, dimly lighted, empty. Buttercups in a clean jelly glass on the table, curtains moving languidly to and fro over the sills of the open window. The nickel-plated alarm clock, over the sink, ticked steadily, rapidly, in the silence, and her own heart kept pace. Her mother, once again bonneted and veiled, stood in the doorway between the bedroom and kitchen.

"Mr. Steynes went, did he, dear?"

"Yes'm."

"And you're sure of yourself, Mary Kate?"

"Oh, mother!"

A long pause. The older woman sighed.

"Well, that's all I could ask," she said at last. "But it seems a far cry from the little room you were born in, in Brooklyn!"

"I know," Mary Kate said.

"Sleep in my room with Pa, dear. He's apt to wake, and I'll be up with Uncle Robert all night," Mrs. O'Hara said. "But I'll stop in at church at seven on my way home tomorrow."

"I'll set the alarm and meet y there, mother. We'll have break fast together."

She was alone again.

She sat on, at the red oilcloth

"I'll set the alarm and meet you there, mother. We'll have breakfast together."

She was alone again.

She sat on, at the red oilclothed kitchen table, staring into space, her arms crossed, her eyes narrowed, her lip bitten. The clock hands moved, the lamplight wavered, in the kitchen.

Then suddenly she stood up, and pushed her chair back into place. She took the alarm clock and busied herself with the little keys on its back, before locking the yard door, darkening the kitchen, and going to her mother's kitchen bedroom.

Little Pat, freckled and thin and tousled of hair, was sprawled half-covered, crosswise on the wide bed. Mary Kate straightened and covered him. The gas was turned down to a bead in here, and the one window that looked out upon the blank side wall of the neighboring house was open.

She went into the dining room, and opened Tom's forgotten window. Kneeling beside him, she put her arms about him, mother-fashion, and he half roused, in his first deep sleep, and murmured to her.

"Gee, I'm crazy about you, Molly!"

Mary Kate mounted the stairs, and sat for a long time, in the dark back bedroom, lighted only by the rise and fall of the cigarette advertisement a block away. Little tawny-headed Regina was sleeping like a baby saint, her hair shaken into a halo on the pillow about her unconscious head; Tess had doubled herself, her covers, and her own pillow into a great snarl, and had to be dragged and pushed and pulled into comfort against her own sleepy resistance.

"A spider-web party—" she whispered clearly, as Mary Kate kissed her. The little girls, their big sister remembered, had been promised a spider-web party. They wouldn't have it—now.

Last of all she went into Martin's room. He was propped in pillows, he slept in a sitting position, these nights. As she came in he closed his book, and smiled at her, and she sat down on the edge of his bed, and linked her hand in his free one.

So she had sat, with this friend and confidant and confessor, many and many a time, in the days since her turbulent childhood. She remembered tears and laughter, rebellion, planning, argument — here in Mart's room at night. She remembered reading him her school compositions, here; discussing office affairs. It was here, one night not long after this same new year had begun, that, rosy and confused, she had talked to him about stunning Cass Keating, who was so clever and so successful, and who—well, certainly it looked that way anyway, was beginning to—well, to like, anyway, Mary Kate O'Hara.

"Hello, Sis."

"Hello, Mart."

"Put the lights out?"

"Yes. I'm sleeping downstairs with Pat."

"Happy, Molly?"

"I guess so, Mart."

"I know better than he does what he's getting," Mart said in a silence. The girl did not answer; she was moving her thumb back and forth across his big hand.

"Nobody like you, Molly!"

"Don't—don't make me cry. I'm—cried out."

"It'll be funny here, without you."

"But you'll be in Germany, Mart?"

"Yep. Got to keep up with my rich sister, now!"

"Ah, Marty, don't joke about it!"

"I'm not joking about it. It'll be good for Tom to be king-pin for a while, and we'll pull the whole gang of them up, Molly."

"But not together any more, Mart!"

"No. Not together any more."

There was silence. Then the girl asked:

"'Member playing Indians in the old coal box in Brooklyn, Mart?"

"Do you remember mother used to take us to church Saturday afternoons, and we used to play house in the pews?"

"Yes. And the day—but that was here—that I brought her home a plant, with my first money."

"A primrose."

"Yep."

"It's still growing in the front garden, Mart."

"I know it is."

"Remember the day the cop pretended to hit me, Mart, and you bit his hand?"

"I was 5."

"You would have bitten an elephant, I think, if it had been mean to me!"

"I would have wanted to."

(THE END.)

Does the Stage Offer Best Careers for Women?

Yes, Says Sophie Tucker, but Faith Baldwin, the Novelist, Believes Other Lines of Endeavor Are More Attractive to the Modern Girl.

FAITH BALDWIN.

By GLADYS OAKS.

NEW YORK, June 26.

IT WAS 4 o'clock of a scorching afternoon. Under the airy ceiling of birch leaves in the garden of the Tuscany Hotel, a stage star and a literary lady were sipping iced tea, languidly disposing of strawberry bombe stuffed with diced fruits, and talking avidly. They had been invited there to discuss careers for women, and more specifically: Is the Stage Still the Most Glamorous Feminine Career?

Both were fashionably dressed in silk ensembles, yet they created very different impressions. As Sophie Tucker, that impregnable vaudeville comedienne of a quarter of a century, says herself, she is "blonde and big girl." She was all brilliant greens and creams, flashing vitality, and fluffy gold hair.

Faith Baldwin, author of best-selling novels, the last of which are "Office Wife" and the juvenile "Judy," was crisp in all her cut-lines. Her suit was navy blue with polka-dot trimming, her brown hair lay sophisticatedly in its side-burn shingle, her voice was sharp and staccato as opposed to Miss Tucker's rolling, slightly hoarse contralto. She came to the point at once.

"The stage is certainly not the most glamorous career for women!" she expostulated. "In the first place, I think most women get an immense amount of glamour from being mothers; from bringing up their children in an organized way and from an organized home. Successful business or professional women or writers can make an excellent job of their family life. We see hundreds of them doing it every day. But the stage mother must have a hard time, and a sense of guilt if she keeps her child with her in that stringent and roving life."

"YOU'RE right there!" admitted Miss Tucker freely, "and don't I know it! Right this minute my boy is breaking my heart. You know I have a big son, 25 years old. I didn't want to drag him from one-night-stand to one-night-stand. And of all things, I didn't want him to go on the stage——"

"But if it's so glamorous," interrupted Miss Baldwin.

"He isn't a woman," replied the actress, "and part of the glitter of glamour, for Sophie Tucker anyway, is the glitter of hard, cold cash. And the stage isn't what it used to be! And a mother wants to save her child from hardships she willingly accepts for herself, and God knows the stage has plenty.

"With all the professions in the world to choose from, my son has got to be a dancer! I was afraid the footlights might get into his blood, so I sent him to a military school. All for nothing! Finally I had to say to him, 'Choose, then, between your mother and the stage!' So now he's selling shoes. He had to get as near the floor as possible anyway. But as soon as I'm safely out of sight. You know I sail for London this week. They offered me $5000 a week to open at the Adelphi in "Follow a Star." Beautiful title, isn't it? And in these hard times I couldn't refuse."

"Certainly puts my $750 a week Hollywood offer in the shade," regretted the literary lady.

"When I come back I just know my son will be dancing again," sadly finished Miss Tucker.

MISS Baldwin forcibly dragged the conversation back to the prescribed subject. "In our mother's day," she said, "the only two respectable professions for women were teaching and nursing, plenty of opportunities for elbow grease, few for romance or money. Then the stage was woman's only door to fame and fortune. Perhaps that is why so many of us have an almost-inherited feeling of wistfulness toward the stage.

"Now the situation is entirely different. More and more women are becoming successful doctors and lawyers. And now women may go in for research, and the glamour of being a civil or industrial engineer, or a worker in one of the branches of medical science is quite apart from applause. Women who choose such careers hardly ever get their names in the papers. The compensation is mainly in doing a good job.

"Then, of course, I must stand up for literature. And there's aviation, not only piloting, but selling and hangar-hostessing. Women are even becoming preachers and evangelists! And think of the power and glamour in the job of such a business woman as Mary Dillom of the Brooklyn Union Gas Co. She started as a stenographer—and, by the way, that's a darn good job to begin on—and now she has hundreds of men under her. Do you really think, Miss Tucker, that the stage is so much more glamorous than flying, being a commander of men, discovering new truths, or writing books that will please and teach thousands and thousands of people."

"You must never quote Sophie Tucker," explained that person," as saying that girls should go on the stage this year. The show business now is on the bum. But it's sure to pick up. Maybe in less than a year."

* * *

"I," SHE continued, "went on the stage to take my mother from the cook stove." She waved a brightly manicured hand for emphasis. "You know, I'm really very old-fashioned. I believe in clean and simple living. When I was young, I worked like a dog in my mother's little restaurant. It wasn't a high-class restaurant. I married before I knew much, and had a child very soon. Nothing but drudgery day after day. But still I sang. And people heard me sing and told me how good I was. So after a while I constructed my career, and it's come out just as I thought it would.

SOPHIE TUCKER.

You know, I have always been constructive.

"My first job was as a between-table entertainer in "The German Village" at Fortieth street and Broadway. That was in 1905, and I made $15 a week. Ten of it I sent home to my mother and my baby.

"I used to hear the girls talking. 'Flo Ziegfeld is in the audience tonight,' one of them would say, or 'George Cohan is here. Maybe now I'll get my chance.' Then I'd hurry, and always be the first in line, and always sing the loudest. Soon I was making $200 in tips, besides my $15. Others on the stage may not have the same point of view, but it seems to me that was my first touch of glamour! For what is glamour but a sense of accomplishment, and what gives a feeling of accomplishment so well as money in the pocket? I took my mother from the cook stove, gave my child advantages and spent every spare moment going to the theater and watching others and learning. When I'd see a headliner I'd think, 'You can do that too, Sophie.' I'm nothing if not constructive!"

"ANOTHER thing," remarked Miss Baldwin, eating bombe with much poise, "I've interviewed a good many stage people and they don't convince you of glamour. People who experience much of it usually convey it, you know. Stage people are usually thickly coated with sentimentality or are hard-boiled, or both. And I'm not even sure they get more real applause—though it's more direct—than writing women. When I started I had to take hack work, newspaper thrillers, beauty columns, anything at all. I thought then, in those first years, 'If I could only get my name on the front cover of a magazine!' But when I accomplished that, was I satisfied? No! I wanted to have my name still bigger on the covers of more magazines! When 'Office Wife' was running in one of the papers here I saw a big truck one day with my name on it in letters feet high!"

"Like the lights!" sympathized Miss Tucker.

"Your giving is more direct and you feel your audience taking," went on the novelist, "which is grand. But a novelist can feel that thousands, and even hundreds of thousands of people are living through her characters. A play or a song can't stop, but people linger over a book.

"And then, there's the matter of old age. When an actress begins to totter, or loses her figure or anything like that, she finished. That's true of aviators and athletes, too, of course. But the business woman, or the woman in the arts, sciences or professions, has a work that can comfort and support her and grow for her whole lifetime. Don't you see what I mean?"

"Sure," said Sophie very heartily, "when I begin to totter on the stage, or miss a cue, or stammer a line—when I begin to feel I don't grip that audience, hold them in my hand (that's glamorous, too, you know, the thrill, the power), well, then off I go! But for my old age I'll have memories. And leisure. People who've worked hard and lived plentifully don't mind a little old-age leisure. And no matter when it happens, Sophie Tucker has a nice little bank account, too!"

Crepe Paper Runners

CREPE paper is often used as runners and makes an attractive table covering. Two-color effects are favored, such as peach and almond, pink and pale green, etc.

The edge of the paper is usually scalloped, fringed, crimped or otherwise embellished. The rose petal scallops are very pretty, and as this decorative touch is quite popular you may like to know how to achieve this edge.

Just hold the edge of the paper securely by placing the middle and forefingers of the left hand on the edge. In the right hand hold a pencil with a rubber end, and with the eraser end push the paper down between the two fingers. This will give the pointed scallop that resembles the edge of a rose petal. After the first point is made, move the fingers along a bit and continue as directed along the entire edge of the runner.

The ends may be decorated with suitable applique floral cut-outs, scattered colored eggs or a design may be applied with water colors.

Flesh and Orchid Wedding Favorites

FLESH and orchid chiffon are much used this spring in Washington as costumes for wedding attendants.

At a recent wedding where apple blossoms, pink roses and ferns were the decorations the matron of honor was garbed in flesh-colored chiffon with hat and slippers to match. She carried pink roses.

The maid of honor was in pale orchid chiffon with hat and slippers of a deeper shade. She carried Ophelia roses.

Talks to PARENTS

By Alice Judson Peale

Convalescent.

WHEN a child is recovering from a real illness there comes a period when mother's patience and ingenuity are taxed to the utmost to keep the little patient cheerfully in bed and to handle him in such a way that he will not be a badly spoiled youngster by the time he is able to be up and about.

Unless he is kept busy the convalescent child is likely to spend his energy in holding the center of the stage, demanding service and attention every few moments throughout the day.

By the time he is well he has become a full fledged tyrant and it will take several weeks of wise handling before he is himself again.

There are plenty of amusing things for a child to do when he has reached the sitting up stage of convalescence. Any kind of quiet hand work is good.

Knitting reins on a spool, cutting out pictures and pasting them into a scrap book, sewing, making paper dolls and designs of colored paper, using building toys, making patterns with mosaic blocks, putting together puzzles, playing with clay, all these and many more are good occupations which the child will enjoy and which will prevent him from thinking about himself and making demands upon the people who surround him.

It is a good plan also during this time when a child is likely to become self-centered, to suggest that he make things for other children who are sicker than he and who are away from home in hospitals with no mother to look after them.

These days of enforced quiet are also an excellent opportunity for reading aloud to the child and helping him to know the pleasure he may find in books.

Cossack Turbans

THERE are indications that the Cossack influence is to be felt in autumn coats and hats.

One of the leading Paris dressmakers has scored a big success with a black broadcloth coat trimmed with black astrakan fur added in the Cossack manner.

With the coat is shown a Russian round cap with fur on it.

Driven by an electric motor obtaining power through a cable, a new lawn mower is equipped with a headlight for night use.

It is better to open a can of asparagus at the bottom so it can be removed from the can by the stalks without breaking the tips.

Preparing for School

HAVE you a child who will enter school in the fall?

If so, this a good time to check up on his condition, and to see to it that he is not called on to enter a new phase of life with physical handicaps.

It is markedly unfair to the child and to the school to allow him to undertake a new and probably strenuous activity without being as physically fit as possible.

To the child it is unfair because he is thus handicapped. To the school it is unfair because the educators are asked to work with "defective material."

The first entrance of the child into school represents to him an initial contact with society. The home realm is a sheltered sphere. The restrictions imposed on him at home are relatively mild and flexible compared to those that he will be obliged to meet in the classroom.

School is one of the hurdles which the child ought to be able to jump without tripping. His chances are better if he is free from physical defects.

Every child before being sent to school should have a thorough physical examination—not a "lick and a promise" but a conscientious going-over.

Notice should be made on a proper record-card of his physical condition in its positive and negative aspects. This record should serve both as a notice of the defects which need correction, and of the conditions that prevail. It will be an excellent basis for judging the physical progress the child makes as he grows older.

Special attention should be paid to the nutritional state of the child—whether he is underweight, overweight, or shows other evidences of malnutrition; to his nose and throat; his teeth; and to his eyes and ears. The latter are often neglected, but are particularly important. Most learning is achieved through these instruments of perception.

Every child entering school also should have been vaccinated against small-pox, and immunized against diphtheria. Parents owe their children the benefits of a start without a handicap.

A sprinkling of grated cheese over the cream soup will add to its nutriment and appearance.

Long Gloves Worn To Match Jewelry

White is the evening ensemble in vogue and the one which best shows off colored accessories.

Old Pictures.

After years of service, the backs of the pictures hung on your wall are apt to be torn and open to dust and soil. Take a heavy weight of wrapping paper and glue it tightly to the back of the frame. This will keep out dust that is so hard on the picture itself.

Chopped dates are good with the breakfast cereal.

Crystal and Pearl Earrings in Favor

EARRINGS of crystal and pearl are much in favor for evening wear in the capital.

Most of them are pendant, some made of a single large pearl or piece of crystal, others of many dangling strands of the same stones.

Not the Place for Bananas.

Avoid the use of bananas in the fruit cup. They always darken and spoil the appearance of the appetizer, at the same time being too soft to be refreshing. Then, too, so many persons do not care for this fruit that the fruit cup might fall short of being an "appetizer."

Roast some new onions along with the roast of beef. They are mighty good and give a fine flavor to the gravy.

Grandmother Mitts Come Back in Style

BLACK lace mitts like grandmother used to wear are fashion's latest accessory with black afternoon and evening frocks this spring.

Mrs. Findlay Westover of New York sponsored the vogue at a recent tea for wear with a black lace afternoon frock of flowing lines.

Hot Slaw.

One head cabbage, two tablespoons butter, four tablespoons vinegar. Shred cabbage, discarding hard center. Boil for 20 minutes in lightly salted water. Drain well, add butter and vinegar, salt and pepper. Stir lightly and serve.

7 Hours in Bed and Not 7 Minutes of Sleep!

The Toll Acidity Takes

You go to bed dog-tired, but the minute you hit the pillow all sleepiness vanishes. If you do sleep at all, it's only in snatches and you wake out of those "stupors" with a strange, startled feeling, sometimes in a cold sweat. Morning finds you a rag, gaunt and hollow-eyed and barely able to crawl out of bed.

Acidity is due to our unnatural eating habits, our excessive smoking and irregular hours. The excess acid upsets digestion and causes acid-indigestion with gas and heartburn. It causes putrefaction and fermentation in the gastro-intestinal canal which frequently results in ragged nerves, sleeplessness, logy days and general loss of strength and vitality.

And now, from Germany, comes this remarkable new oxygen treatment to correct acidity in the right way. Now comes Magnesia Oxoids—the great new discovery of noted pharmaceutical chemists in Darmstadt, Germany. These small, white tablets are the only Magnesia product known that yields active or nascent oxygen to the stomach, giving quick relief from gas and acting as a purifying tonic on the system. Heartburn, indigestion stop. Then follows a gentle eliminative help—all without the use of dangerous habit-forming drugs.

To ascertain just how much vitality and health acidity is stealing from you, make this test: Go to Walgreen's Drug Stores or any reliable druggist and get a package of Magnesia Oxoids. Take two after each meal for 5 days. Notice how much better you feel; how much more soundly you sleep—how much more energy you have because of improved digestion. If you don't get more than amazing results, return the package. Your druggist will refund every penny of your money. N-12.

If Weak, Tired, Nervous, Thin Build Up Body, Doctors' Way

New Yeast Plus Iron Strengthens Digestion, Appetite, Enriches Blood, Adds Weight

Combined in Pleasant, Easy-to-Take-Tablets

Doctors everywhere prescribe Yeast plus Iron for weak, thin, under-nourished, pale, run-down people; also for those who are nervous and sleepless; for those whose pale cheeks indicate poor, thin blood, or whose skin blemishes point to constipation.

Get them already combined in pleasant tablets of IRONIZED YEAST from any druggist. See how quickly they make you feel, look and act like a new person. Increase your weight.

Rich Red Blood, Good Digestion Build Weight, Health

It is not what you eat but what you digest that builds solid flesh and strength. Yeast increases your digestive powers. Then more of the food you eat is actually used by your body instead of so much of it being wasted.

Yeast also gives new keenness to poor appetite. But whether your appetite is good or poor, you need Yeast in order to increase digestion and gain weight and health.

Iron has been prescribed for generations by physicians to give rich red blood and strength. The newly enriched blood also performs its part in the building up process by taking more of the food you assimilate to the parts where it is needed. Thus Yeast and Iron work together to build you up. You must have BOTH to increase health, strength and flesh in the shortest possible time.

Doctors Praise Yeast and Iron

Doctors say the richest Yeast is brewers' Yeast, the kind used in malt and which makes malt so beneficial. This is the kind which is combined with Iron in IRONIZED YEAST. Far more effective, much quicker than unmedicated yeast. Here are a few extracts from reports of hundreds of leading physicians:

"Prescribe brewer's Yeast. Took it myself. It built me up. I gained 15 lbs."

"I prescribe Yeast for rundown condition, stomach disorders, skin disorders, constipation. Believe Yeast combined with Iron—IRONIZED YEAST—produces better results in most cases than Yeast alone."

"Yeast and Iron increase appetite, thereby increasing weight. Increase red blood."

"I have prescribed Yeast plus Iron with good results for increasing appetite and weight."

"IRONIZED YEAST should be a splendid combination for rundown conditions."

"Have prescribed Yeast combined with Iron. Great improvement in appetite, weight and general condition."

"My results in prescribing brewer's Yeast with Iron for loss of weight, for increasing the appetite, and as a general tonic, warrant my endorsing treatment."

Start Today to Build Up

The pleasant-tasting little IRONIZED YEAST tablets give you all the Yeast you need to build weight; all the Iron you need for rich red blood and strength.

If you are thin, weak, rundown, tired; if you are nervous or a poor sleeper; if appetite is weak and digestion poor; if you are constipated; if skin is blemished; if you have one or all of the above symptoms, get IRONIZED YEAST from your druggist today. Harmless; no gas or fullness; no "yeasty" taste.

Get It on Money-Back Guarantee

Prove without losing a penny that IRONIZED YEAST will give you the strength, health and weight you need.

We could easily offer free samples but experience has shown that the only way to get best results is from a full size treatment. So we DO BETTER. We give an absolute guarantee that this new IRONIZED YEAST will help you.

Get a full size treatment of IRONIZED YEAST from any druggist today. Take regularly as directed on bottle. If, after this generous trial you are not delighted with the weight and health benefits gained, your money refunded by maker.

MY STARS GEORGE WHERE WERE YOU ALL DAY? I PHONED EVERYWHERE TO FIND YOU. THOSE MOVIE PEOPLE WERE HERE THREE TIMES TO SEE YOU AND TALKED ABOUT GETTING EVERYTHING SETTLED. THEY WERE VERY NERVOUS.
DID YOU MENTION THAT I, TOO, WAS NERVOUS WHEN THOSE BABIES WERE USING ME AS A DECOY TO GET FREE ADVERTISING FOR THEIR PIRATES OF PASSION FILM?
I DIDN'T SAY ANYTHING ONE WAY OR ANOTHER. HERE'S A PHONE NUMBER THEY LEFT. THEY WANT YOU TO CALL UP AS SOON AS YOU GOT HOME.
WELL JUST BECAUSE THOSE BABIES RUSHED HERE TO SETTLE FOR SOME BIG AMOUNT I'M NOT GOING TO BE THROWN INTO A PANIC. I'LL CALL THEM UP IN A FEW DAYS—MAYBE TOMORROW.
ONE OF THE MEN KEPT CHANGING A BIG ROLL OF BILLS FROM ONE POCKET TO ANOTHER WHILE THEY WERE HERE. THAT, OF COURSE, WAS DONE SO I'D TELL YOU ABOUT IT AND—
A CASH SETTLEMENT! NO MATTER. THEY'LL JUST HAVE TO WAIT UNTIL AFTER I EAT. THAT'S THAT. LET 'EM WAIT.
THE LAST TIME THEY CALLED HERE, ABOUT NOON, ONE OF THE MEN WAS VERY SNIPPY AND TALKED ABOUT JUST DROPPING THE WHOLE AFFAIR.
WELL I'M NOT WORRIED ABOUT THAT SORT OF TALK. IN FACT TO SHOW 'EM THEY HAVEN'T GOT ME BLUFFED I'LL CALL 'EM UP RIGHT NOW AND—ARGOSY 2222... YES... HELLO HELLO.. HELLO! NO ANSWER! MY WORD, THEY MUST BE IN. MY WORD...... WHAT'S THE PHONE NUMBER OF THAT TAXI COMPANY, JO?

STOCK TRADE AT WEEK END IS SMALLEST IN 2 YEARS

Sales for Two-Hour Session Slump to About 580,000 Shares — The Saturday High Record of Over 4,800,000 Was Made Less Than Month Ago.

CLOSING PRICES ARE IRREGULAR

Bear Pressure Is Evident Early in Session and Succeeded in Depressing Several Stocks 2 or 3 Points, but Short Covering Brings Substantial Rallies.

By the Associated Press.

NEW YORK, June 28.—Bears appeared stalemated in today's stock market, and with bullish sentiment practically extinguished, sales for the two-hour session slumped close to 580,000 shares, the smallest turnover since July 21, 1928. Bear pressure was evident early in the session, and succeeded in depressing several stocks 2 or 3 points, but short covering resulted in substantial rallies in the final dealings, and the close was irregular.

There was nothing in the day's business news to stimulate in widespread short covering, but bearish operations this week have been meeting with increasingly meager success, and professional traders evidently felt that the market had become thoroughly sold out for the time being. Many large traders left for the week-end yesterday.

In view of the large increase in listings during the past two years, today's turnover was relatively one of the dullest in many years. Trading during the major part of the session was at a pace which promised to set a low record for the past four years, but about 230,000 shares were traded in the last half hour. Today's turnover of about 580,000 shares compared with the Saturday high record in excess of 4,800,000, made less than a month ago. The smallest turnover since trading was conducted on its present basis was 23,323 shares, traded on Dec. 26, 1914.

News Without Influence.

There was nothing in the week-end business reports to influence the market either way. Rail earnings reports continued unimpressive, and rail shares displayed group heaviness.

The mercantile reviews characterized both retail and wholesale trade as quiet, save in seasonal wearing apparel. Report from the Youngstown steel area indicated curtailment of activity next week.

Most of the pivotal industrials closed steady to firm. Fair buying appeared in General Electric in the late trading, and it closed 1¾ up. American Tobacco B and Westinghouse Electric were up 2⅛ and 2¾. Shares up a point or so included National Biscuit, Bethlehem, and Sears-Roebuck, United States Steel, American Can, American Telephone, General Motors and Radio closed fractionally higher. North American, after selling off 2½, regained its loss.

Southern Railway Lower.

Rails were inclined to heaviness. Southern Railway reached another new low for movement and closed off 2½. Erie was off two, and shares off one or more included Atchison, Rock Island, Katy and Frisco. Some of the motor equipments were under pressure, Timken and Electric Auto Lite dropping more than three to record new lows.

Foreign exchanges were mostly firm. Sterling cables rose 3-32 to $4.86⅛. The Spanish peseta, however, continued to decline, touching 11.04 cents, or about 8 cents below parity.

Commodity markets, like stocks moved narrowly. Cotton closed 30 to 45 cents a bale higher, wheat was one cent lower, and corn was ¾ of a cent lower.

Stock prices, with other tables and market news, will be found on pages 6A, 7A and 8A.

Boy Burned by Toy Pistol.
